Indonesians Attack U. S. Info Office

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Indonesian students apparently spurred on by Communists stormed the U.S. Information Service building at Surabaja, East Java, on Wednesday and burned films, books and magazines, it was reported Saturday.

No one was injured and the building was not damaged, the U.S. Embassy reported.

The embassy said about 150 students from the Surabaja school of education burned American books while their instructors looked on. They also destroyed USIS stocks of Indonesian language magazines on American life and culture and burned films.

Communists have been agitating for the past several months for a ban on publication and distribution of the magazines and have sponsored a boycott of Hollywood films.

Rain Torrents Break Two-Year Drought in Southeast Colorado

DENVER (AP) — Torrential rains fell on southeastern Colorado Saturday for the second day, soaking parched croplands and breaking the back of a two-year drought.

The downpours closed some highways temporarily but also filled reservoirs and assured some feed crops and pasture for the area's farms.

U.S. 50, which has been closed east of Lamar by four-foot deep flood waters, was reopened for travel late Saturday. At least 15 persons in three separate cars were stalled and isolated by the heavy rains in the Lamar-Holly-Cranada section. All were rescued.

Lamar received more than 7.33 inches of rain in a 24-hour period. That was nearly three times more than had fallen in the area in the past year.

Flooding and lightning disrupted telephone service and caused power outages in parts of the area.

The rains cancelled Memorial Day observances throughout the state and caused postponement of several athletic events.

Although southeastern Colorado received the heaviest drenching, light snow fell in the mountains and all eastern sections of Colorado received rainfall.

Occasional showers are forecast for the state Sunday.

Four Coloradoans Plan Trans-Andean Expedition

By JOHN FETLER

Enthusiasm was growing, and financial backing, too, for a determined team of four young explorers and mountain climbers from Colorado Springs and Denver. They plan to take off soon on an expedition through the steaming Central American jungles, crossing the vast Andes, barreling down the huge South American continent to the bleak and still largely unexplored tip of the South American continent, to Terra del Fuego, it was disclosed here Saturday.

The exploration will be called the "American 1964 Trans - Andean Expedition," and will be conducted by Stanley Sheppard, of Boulder, currently manager of the Holubar Mountaineering Equipment company branch in Denver, an experienced mountain climber, who has done numerous first and major ascents in the Canadian Rockies and other parts of the world; Gary Ziegler, of Colorado Springs, former Peace Corps officer and well - known mountain climber, who has also conducted photographic expeditions among Indians in the wilder parts of Ecuador, and who has climbed Chimborazo, highest peak of the Northern Andes; Jim Carpenter, of Colorado Springs, who has done mountain climbing in Europe, and who is an expert on motorized equipment for exploration teams; and Jerald Siemkobec, of Denver, operator of a photographic firm, who is also a mountain climber, and who has climbed famous peaks in Europe and America.

The explorers received word the other day that the expedition will be backed in part by some members of the American Alpine Club.

The only way that these explorations will be made possible, technically, will be the use, and incidentally, a gruelling test, of an International Harvester Scout cross - country four - drive vehicle, specially equipped with winch, over - size tires and equipment trailer.

It will be the first crossing of the Central American Isthmus, and the South American continent by a non - amphibious vehicle.

The men plan also several side - trips such as voyages to the Galapagos Islands, to see the famous turtles, and investigation of parts of the vast Amazon basin.

Needless to say, the much - vaunted Pan - American highway ends shortly south of Panama City, and from there on, the explorers will have to brave local roads, trails, and no roads, through hundreds of miles of jungle before the next outpost of civilization is reached.

The three estimate the expedition will last from six to eight months, depending on the difficulties encountered along the way.

They also plan to photograph the entire trip in black and white and color, and they hope to obtain the use of a 16 millameter camera, to film the highlights of the expedition in the brilliant colors of that part of the world.

Colorado's Young Demos Smother Insurrection Try

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph

Colorado's Young Democrats smothered a narrow but strong insurrection Saturday afternoon.

The Young Demos opened their annual meeting Friday night at the Antlers Hotel and are scheduled to wind up activities some time this afternoon with election of officers, and consideration of more resolutions.

About 100 delegates from 12 different chapters are attending the state convention.

The insurrection was launched quietly during the resolutions session Saturday afternoon.

A total of 38 resolutions were offered to the delegates by the resolutions commitee, and six others and one substitute resolution were offered from the floor.

The insurrection involved the six additional resolutions and the substitute that were offered from the floor.

The delegates had been slowly slugging their way through a long list of resolutions when handouts were passed around the floor offering a substitution for Resolution No. 16, which the convention was about to tackle, and also offering six other resolutions.

The resolutions were offered by a splinter group within the Denver delegation, and were not a minority report from the resolutions committee.

Resolution 16, as offered by the resolutions committee, urged the American government to take a strong stand in Southeast Asia.

It stated in part, "The Young Democrats of Colorado believe peace as quickly as possible, without defeat, should be the uppermost goal of the United States in Southeast Asia."

The dissident group at once offered a substitute resolution.

This resolution said, "The U.S. should seek a negotiated peace and neutralization of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, and that the United Nations be used as the enforcing agency."

This motion was defeated after a vote was reported by each of the 12 delegations.

YDs Deplore Forced Chapel For Cadets

Colorado's Young Democrats took sides with some unhappy Air Force Academy cadets at their annual convention in the Antlers Hotel Saturday.

Among the resolutions passed was one which said, "The Young Democrats of Colorado deplore the Air Force Academy's policy of compulsory chapel attendance for lower class cadets."

This came to the nation's attention earlier this year when some cadets who were unhappy about the compulsory attendance wrote letters to newspaper and magazine editors complaining about the rule.

The letters were printed, but the names of the cadets were withheld to protect the writers.

The resolution states, "The policy is a violation of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of religion. It is also a specific contradiction of the historic doctrine of separation of church and state."

The resolution also pointed out that the Air Force has ignored protests voiced by Colorado Springs clergymen.

"We urge a reconsideration of the matter and adoption of a policy to cease this flagrant infringement upon the liberties of the academy cadets," the resolution stated.

Mrs. Rockefeller Gives Birth To Baby Boy

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's wife gave birth Saturday to a baby boy weighing 7 pounds, 10 ounces.

The governor, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was at the hospital when the baby was born.

Mrs. Rockefeller, the former Margaretta (Happy) Murphy, was reported by the governor as "doing wonderfully."

The child, not immediately named, was the first born to the couple. They were married May 4, 1963.

Both the governor and his present wife were married previously. The earlier marriages ended in divorce.

Mrs. Rockefeller will be 38 on June 9. Rockefeller will be 56 on July 8.

They were married a month after her divorce from Dr. James Slater Murphy.

She has four children from her first marriage — James, 13, Wendy, 11, Carol, 8, and Malinda, 4.

Rockefeller has four surviving children from his first marriage, to the former Mary Todd Hunter Clark, which ended in divorce in March 1962. They are Rodman, 31; Ann (Mrs. Robert L. Pierson), Steven, 27, and Mary (Mrs. William J. Strawbridge Jr.), 25.

Bernard Vessey, Noted Springs Leader, Dies

By CHARLES DUDLEY

Bernard Vessey, 73, well known Colorado Springs tenor, prominent Methodist, Rotarian, and local business man, died at a local hospital early Saturday morning. He had been hospitalized only two or three days, for a checkup on his health. His condition was not considered serious. He died in his sleep.

Mr. Vessey, who had been a singing Evangelist, came to Colorado Springs in 1918 to be director of music and treasurer of the First Methodist Church. He organized the Glee Club of that church, which is still active. He also organized and sang in the Temple Quartet.

He was a past district governor of Rotary International and during travels around the world had sung at Rotary meetings in many countries. He had directed singing at Rotary conventions in the United States and was accorded ovations for his music wherever he went. For many years he had been a partner in the Law Mortuary of Colorado Springs.

He had been the recipient of high Methodist appointments a

Judy Garland Continues To Improve

HONG KONG (AP) — American singer Judy Garland's condition continued to improve, hospital sources said Saturday.

The singer, who fell into a coma in a Hong Kong hospital Wednesday, remained in seclusion. She would not see visitors or answer phone calls.

Miss Garland, 41, was taken off the critical list Thursday and removed from the emergency ward to a private room.

Hospital sources said she started to eat Friday night, shortly after emerging from a 72-hour coma, but hospital attendants were not allowed to take meals to her room. Meals were handed to a private nurse at the door.

The nature of her illness remained undisclosed. American actor Mark Herron, her traveling companion, said she had suffered from "overexhaustion." Earlier, one nurse said she had a heart attack, while another in the same ward described the illness as "poisoning."

Russia Turns Deaf Ear To Laos Peace Proposals

By United Press International

Soviet Russia Saturday was reported to have turned a deaf ear to an appeal from Britain aimed at easing the Communist-provoked crisis in Laos which threatens to engulf Southeast Asia.

The report came from London as Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew into Bangkok for urgent talks with American and Thai officials on the deteriorating situation in the neighboring strife-torn kingdom of Laos.

Rusk will go to Honolulu for a meeting of top U.S. foreign policy and defense officials on Monday and Tuesday that will range over both political and military aspects of Southeast Asian affairs.

In London, the Foreign Office announced that Britain called Friday, on the Soviet Union to join in an appeal to the pro-Communist Laotians and their

U.S. Army Is 'Criminal,' Soviets Say

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Defense Ministry charged today that the U. S. Army is composed of criminals sent abroad to protect investments of American capitalists.

Many American soldiers abroad behave like gangsters, the Defense Ministry's newspaper Red Star said.

"The criminals from military bases, inspired by owners of American monopolies, try to keep in fear and obedience the peoples of dozens of countries," Red Star said.

"Yankee occupationists behave toward local residents like colonialists of the last century and like contemporary slave owners in the U.S. South," the newspaper charged.

Teacher Beaten, Found Dying, In Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP)—A school teacher, badly beaten and stabbed, was found dying in the elevator of her Brooklyn apartment building early Saturday. The building is located at Crown Heights where a citizen radio car patrol has been trying to combat nighttime terrorism.

Police identified the victim as Charlotte Lipsik, 38. She died in Kings County Hospital at 3:30 a.m., three hours after another tenant and a youth found her in the self-service elevator.

Police said her clothes were in disarray but further examination was needed to determine if she was raped.

The city's chief of detectives, Philip Walsh, took personal charge of the homicide investigation by some 50 detectives. He said Miss Lipsik's money was missing from her handbag and that he believes robbery was the principal motive.

Miss Lipsik, who taught at P.S. 284 in the Brownsville Section of Brooklyn, had attended a Times Square movie theater Friday night with a woman friend, Walsh said. They went home by subway and separated.

Security Plans Recreation, Park District Vote

By JOHN KUGLIN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

A plan to enlarge boundaries of the Security Metropolitan Park and Recreation District will be decisively defeated at the polls, a spokesman for some opponents said.

The park board has set June 18 for an election to include Widefield Village and most of School District 3 in the park system which costs Security homeowners 4 mills a year.

Gerald Roller, 149 Dartmouth, Widefield, said he is speaking for two persons on every street in the large subdivision who are opposed to inclusion and working for a negative vote in the election.

He said he is not against park and recreational facilities, but the mill levy which would cost him $100 a year for the six houses he owns and rents in Widefield.

Paul Morris, superintendent of the park system, said the present levy costs Security homeowners about $18 a year.

Roller said he is against the policy of the Talbott Elementary School PTO of using school facilities to discuss enlargement of the park system.

He said that if Widefield is taken in the park district it "will be outvoted by Security and they will slap the bond issue on us." He complained that "they (park board) have

Oswald Was Lone Killer, Mounting Evidence Shows

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Warren Commission has begun writing its report to the nation on the slaying of President John F. Kennedy—findings based on mountains of evidence that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone assassin.

The commission has set June 30 as a target date for completing the report, official sources said, but meantime will call still more witnesses to round out its intensive six-month investigation.

Still to be heard in person—at a secret time and place—is Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the widowed First Lady whose dress was stained with blood when a sniper's bullets killed the president and wounded Texas Gov. John B. Connally in Dallas on Nov. 22.

But the basic work of the seven-member commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren is considered done, and staff groups are drafting separately the several segments of what may be a 500-page summary.

Barring a sensational reversal of information in the month ahead, officials indicated, the report will peel away the heavy layers of rumors, speculation and suspicion and present a basic core of evidence that:

1. Oswald—a hater of authority, a self-taught and self-asserted Marxist, and an unstable ne'er-do-well at age 24 — designed and executed the murder without helpers or co-conspirators.

2. The man who shot Oswald to death 48 hours later — and thus destroyed all hope of getting a confession —had not known Oswald and was not involved in any plot to silence him. Convicted of Oswald's murder, night club owner Jack Ruby awaits execution in Dal-

Radio-Equipped Deer Assist Wildlife Study

Did you ever listen to a mule deer on your radio?

Roger Siglin listens to mule deer in the mountains northwest of Fort Collins. A graduate student working toward his master's degree in Wildlife Management, Siglin is charting deer movements as part of his work at the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at Colorado State University.

Siglin traps wild muleys in box traps, places a specially-designed radio transmitter around their necks and then releases them into the wild. The powerful batteries in the tiny transmitter are good for a full year's transmission. With a portable receiver Siglin tunes in on the signal and plots the deer's movements with a radio direction finder. Information gained from this study will assist the Colorado Department of Game, Fish and Parks to more accurately trace movements of muleys from winter to range to summer homes.

The Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit financed jointly by the Colorado Department of Game, Fish and Parks, the Wildlife Management Institute, the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, and Colorado State University, trains the wildlife managers of tomorrow, helps solve wildlife problems for the state departments, and works to develop advanced techniques in wildlife management. Siglin's study is one of five currently being carried on by the Cooperative Research Unit.

If you hear a deer with beeps in please let Siglin where you heard it. It may be one of his study animals.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Girls, be sure you scrapbook this case, for Dr. Pierce offers you a valuable bit of advice. It deals with the "image" you must maintain if you expect a wedding ring from any cultured, normal male in modern society. Too many girls are seduced by ghb advertising that checkmates their marriage.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-478: Dr. Robert B. Pierce is the pastor of Chicago's famous skyscraper church in the heart of the Loop.

He occupies a unique parsonage nigh in the sky.

"I didn't know him," Dr. Pierce says, "but we nodded to each other.

They seemed to be cultured, charming young women. The young man unsnapped his hat gallantly.

At other floors additional passengers got in the elevator or got off, but they missed the 9th floor.

By that time Dr. Pierce added, "that young man and I were just plain two young women."

But as the elevator door closed one of these attractive looking girls said:

"This damned elevator stops at every floor."

Whereupon, concluded Dr. Pierce, the young man put his hat right back on his head.

Then Dr. Pierce used this personal episode to launch upon a sermon dealing with the image that girls must maintain in modern society.

Also many female girls are so eager to appear adultish and sophisticated that they act like sheep when advertisers try to stampede them into using liquor as well as cigarets and even outlandish costumes in dress or fingernail polish.

Although our Scientific Marriage Foundation shows that most men abhor women who smoke, thousands of coeds adopt the cigaret habit, mistakenly believing it will increase their romantic appeal.

Don't waste my time introducing me to a woman who smokes. It is the standard request of thousands of young doctors, business executives, school principals and scientific farmers.

Yet some of these men are chain smokers themselves.

It is just a part of the age-old double standard that is still very evident in modern society.

Men classify girls into two major categories, namely, the "good time Gerties" vs. those they might marry.

The former are used for sexual purposes and then discarded like a used cigaret.

But the girls whom men plan to marry are those who maintain that "image" of charming femininity.

Men expect genteel wives who abhor tobacco, liquor, risque stories, excessive slang, profanity, undue interest in sports, and even harsh looking fabrics, sequins or glaring makeup and fingernails that look like talons or "vampire" claws.

The sooner you girls wake up to reality and learn that sexual "opposites attract" the sooner you'll wear a wedding ring.

Alcoholism Talk Will Be Given By Dr. R. G. Bell

Dr. R. Gordon Bell, eminent authority on alcoholism, will address a community luncheon Thursday, 12 noon, at the Antlers Hotel Terrace Room.

Dr. Bell's film "For Those Who Drink" has been presented locally to many service clubs, schools, colleges and church groups. He is noted for his practical and scientific survey approach on alcohol addiction. He covers a broad and complex subject in a simple, clear and accurate manner, eliminating distracting gimmicks, scare tactics and emotionalism.

The primary purpose of the Colorado State Department of Public Health bringing Dr. Bell to Colorado is to reach larger segments of communities where changes in attitudes could produce community acceptance thereby helping to encourage individuals to recognize and acknowledge their drinking problem or illness - alcoholism and seek help.

The physicians, clergy, nurses, social workers and Alcoholics Anonymous can unite in a team work approach for better understanding of their roles in case findings and rehabilitation. However, it takes more than a willing crew to make a successful voyage.

This is the first time Colorado Springs has had the privilege of hearing, in person, a top man in this field. Since one out of every 15 social drinkers becomes an alcoholic, and one alcoholic affects on an average, five other people; the family, the employer and the community are all affected.

The City and County Health Department and the El Paso County Council on Alcoholism, a United Fund Agency, are co-sponsoring the luncheon. Invitations for reservations have been mailed to over 200 interested persons, but anyone interested in hearing this modern approach to one of the four major health problems of this country may telephone 634-3487 for luncheon reservations. $1.50.

Radio-Equipped Deer Assist Wildlife Study

Did you ever listen to a mule deer on your radio?

Roger Siglin listens to mule deer in the mountains northwest of Fort Collins. A graduate student working toward his master's degree in Wildlife Management, Siglin is charting deer movements as part of his work at the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at Colorado State University.

Siglin traps wild muleys in box traps, places a specially-designed radio transmitter around their necks and then releases them into the wild. The powerful batteries in the tiny transmitter are good for a full year's transmission. With a portable receiver, Siglin tunes in on the signal and plots the deer's movements with a radio direction finder. Information gained from this study will assist the Colorado Department of Game, Fish and Parks to more accurately trace movements of muleys from wintering range to summer homes.

The Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, financed jointly by the Colorado Department of Game, Fish and Parks, the Wildlife Management Institute, the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, and Colorado State University, trains the wildlife managers of tomorrow, helps solve wildlife problems for the state departments, and works to develop advanced techniques in wildlife management. Siglin's study is one of five currently being carried on by the Cooperative Research Unit.

If you hear a deer with bells on, please tell Siglin where you heard it — it may be one of his study animals.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Girls, be sure you scrapbook this case, for Dr. Pierce offers you a valuable bit of advice. It deals with the "image" you must maintain if you expect a wedding ring from any cultured, normal male in modern society. Too many girls are seduced by glib advertising that checkmates their marriage!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-478: Dr. Robert B. Pierce is the pastor of Chicago's famous skyscraper church in the heart of the Loop.

He occupies a unique parsonage high in the sky.

"I didn't know him," Dr. Pierce says, "but we nodded to each other."

They seemed to be cultured, charming young women. The young man thus doffed his hat, gallantly.

At other floors additional passengers got on the elevator or got off till they reached the 9th floor.

"By that time," Dr. Pierce added, "only this young man and I were left, plus the two young women."

But as the elevator door closed, one of these attractive looking girls said:

"Whereupon," concluded Dr. Pierce, "the young man put his hat right back on his head!"

Then Dr. Pierce used this personal episode to launch upon a sermon dealing with the "image" that cultured women must maintain in modern society.

Alas, many teen-age girls are so eager to appear adultish and sophisticated, that they act like sheep when advertisers try to stampede them into using liquor as well as cigarets and even outlandish costumes in dress or fingernail polish.

Although our Scientific Marriage Foundation shows that most men abhor women who smoke, thousands of coeds adopt the cigaret habit, mistakenly believing it will increase their romantic appeal.

"Don't waste my time introducing me to a woman who smokes," is the standard request of thousands of young doctors, business executives, school principals and scientific farmers.

Yet some of these men are chain smokers themselves!

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I cannot quite understand what the Bible means where it says "The just shall live by faith." If religion is the most important thing in life, why do we have to accept it by faith? It seems that we should be more sure about things that really count. —H.C.V.

ANSWER: What we ... remember is that faith ... the realm ... the area of practical things and even in science we must rest in faith. That business has different names for faith. When a bank has faith in a man they extend him credit. Credit is another name for faith. If a loan company grants a man a loan for ten thousand dollars that means that they believe in the man to that extent.

Scientists must work by faith and not by sight. Whoever saw the back side of the moon? Yet our government believes in that which is unseen so strongly that they are spending twenty billion dollars to put a man in a place no one has ever seen.

All the money spent for scientific research is probing of the unknown. Faith, true, eventually becomes sight, but faith came before the realization. So is it in the things of the spirit. If everything else works by faith, why should we not use this wonderful element of life in discovering things of eternal value? The thing that counts is the object of our faith. Be sure your faith is in Christ.

Hike Driving Age to 18, Says AAA President

DENVER (UPI) —A proposal to raise Colorado's minimum driver licensing age from 16 to 18 was presented to an interim legislative committee Friday.

Clarence Werthan, president of the Rocky Mountain AAA Club, presented the recommendation to the interim committee on driver licensing, headed by Rep. Norman Oblson, Colorado Springs.

Werthan said the proposal had been endorsed by Colorado insurance industry leaders.

The committee also was asked to sponsor legislation to raise the minimum licensing age for motor scooter operators from 14 to 16; to issue a different color driver license to all applicants under 21 and to create a two-year provisional license for 16 to 18-year-olds.

A report prepared by the Legislative Council's research staff showed that 18 and 19-year-olds were involved in more accidents and violations per person than any other age group in Colorado in 1963.

Werthan also suggested that 16 and 17-year-olds be allowed to have licenses if they have passed an approved driver education course.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I cannot quite understand what the Bible means where it says, "The just shall live by faith." If religion is the most important thing in life, why do we have to accept it by faith? It seems that we should be more sure about things that really count. —H.C.V.

ANSWER: What we fail to remember is not only in the realm of religion, but in the area of practical things, and even in science we must resort to faith. True business has different names for faith. When a bank has faith in a man they extend him credit. Credit is another name for faith. If a loan company grants a man a loan for ten thousand dollars, that means that they believe in the man to that extent.

Scientists must work by faith and not by sight. Whoever saw the back side of the moon? Yet our government believes in that which is unseen so strongly that they are spending twenty billion dollars to put a man in a place no one has ever seen.

All the money spent for scientific research is probing of the unknown. Faith, true, eventually becomes sight, but faith came before the realization. So is it in the things of the spirit. If everything else works by faith, why should we not use this wonderful element of life in discovering things of eternal value? The thing that counts is the 'object' of our faith. Be sure your faith is in Christ.

Schedule of Y Activities May Be Secured Now

A complete printed schedule of summer activities for boys and girls is now available at the YMCA. On it are shown all special trips and all classes such as archery, woodshop, crafts, badminton, weightlifting, handball and paddleball for boys from eight years old to high school. For girls there are crafts, sewing, tennis and badminton, in addition to the trips.

The schedule also has a complete listing of swimming instruction classes for both boys and girls along with recreational swim sessions and family swims. These schedules are available to everyone interested in these activities whether they are members of the 'Y' or not and can be picked up at the main 'Y' building any day or evening. Persons wishing schedules mailed to them may call 633-4643.

Account number for school graduates and summer employment: With summer approaching it is a good idea for high school graduates and students seeking summer employment to apply for their social security number now so they will have it when they start looking for that job. One of the first things your boss will ask is to see your social security card. He will need that number so that he can report your earnings to your social security account.

All workers in practically every type of work need social security account numbers in order to be sure to receive credit for their earnings. Even part-time workers, such as students employed in summer work, are required to have social security account numbers. The exception would be children under 21 who are working for their parents only.

The account number is the only definite means of identification of their social security account since many people have the same or similar names. It is very important that every student who plans to secure even part - time employment should first secure a social security account number. Applications for social security account numbers may be obtained at our local office at 521 S. Tejon St., or the Social Security District Office, 15 S. Weber St.

Manufacturers, retailers and others: Manufacturers, retailers, and others who are liable for more than $100 of excise taxes for April must place such taxes in a depositary. They must use form 537 for this purpose and make this deposit no later than June 1, 1964. Deposits must be made in local authorized banks or at a Federal Reserve bank. More information on this subject is available upon request by calling our local office at 636-5171.

Humor and taxes: An unidentified taxpayer sent Internal Revenue Service $310 in cash, prompted perhaps by the IRS's campaign against non - filers. Perhaps, too, some significance lay in the fact that the communication came from the town of Truth or Consequences, N.M.

Fort's Rifle Team Places Third in Championships

Ft. Carson's MTU team placed third in last week's Colorado state High Power Rifle Championships held at the Mountain Post. The post team, competing with most of its top shooters on Desert Strike or competing for berths on the Fifth Army Team, scored 1357 points.

First place went to Fifth Army Headquarters with 1389. One of the six ARADCOM teams placed second with 1366. Carson entered a six man team in the match.

Lt. Roger Amudson, OIC of the Marksmanship Training Unit, said the six ARADCOM teams and the Fifth Army team were all capable of shooting 1470-1500 or better.

Before moving to the 600-yard line, the Carson team was behind the Fifth Army team by 2 points and behind ARADCOM by 9 points. Amudson said all scores were low because of bad weather conditions.

Individually two MTU men also placed. Amudson, Expert Class, Matches 1, 5 and 7; and Sfc. Charles Johnson, Expert Class, Matches 3 and 6.

GOP Planning Monday Meeting For Love Talk

DENVER (UPI) —A Republican meeting will be held Monday night to give Gov. John Love a chance to answer Democratic criticism of his 16-month-old administration, it was announced Friday.

State Sen. William Chenoweth, R-Denver, said the meeting would be sponsored by the Republican Ctiziens Forum. Chenoweth heads the group.

Chenoweth said in additionto defending the administration, Love would discuss "the successful and productive work" of the 1963 and 1964 Legislatures.

The purpose of the meeting, Chenoweth said in addition to all Republicans together to work for a successful campaign this year. He said there would be no demonstrations for candidates or their supporters.

Chenoweth invited all Republicans and interested independents to attend the meeting.

[illegible] Marilyn Monroe with [illegible] Gable was so handsome, almost lifelike, in a "Gone With the Wind" setting Vivien Leigh wasn't so pretty but Hattie McDaniels was perfect. She had a chicken, a fling over her shoulder and a carnation in her hand. She gets a treat one each day at noon. I presented one to her. Then gave the wilted posy to a mother with a babe in arms.

The day Vincent Price came visiting, his dummy was removed and Vince stood in to the delight of the 300 fans who were there.

Parkinson is a charming gentleman of the Mormon faith. Made his fortune selling Sleep-Eze. Went around the world to find outstanding artists in the almost lost art of wax sculpture. Figures were done in Spain, France, Hong Kong, Mexico and here. I'm sending him photographs of Garbo, Monroe, and the three Barrymores, Ethel, Lionel, and Jack, so his artists can have another go at them. And he's got to add Marlene Dietrich, the most glamorous of them all. It's a great show and you shouldn't miss it.

An Australian newspaper man called from New York to ask me who Mark Herron is. Frankly, I didn't know, but after checking I discovered he's an actor - dancer who met Judy Garland a month ago and went with her to Australia. According to the Aussie reporter, he got into as much trouble as Judy down under. Will she never learn? Also with her were Kay Brent, who managed the tour and his bride, Lana — Natalie Wood's sister. Judy's manager has arranged a United States concert tour. It will be interesting to see if our audiences will wait an hour for her without starting to boo.

Inger Stevens loves to play the ponies, so Cathleen Nesbit promised to send her a list of horses in the British Derby. "She wrote apologizing for not getting it to me sooner," Inger said. "They don't know the odds until the night before the race because they don't know what the turf's going to be. If it rains and the horses aren't mudders, I could be in trouble."

You hear such stories about how movie stars mistreat their families, but I got a good endorsement of Shelley Winters from her mother, Rose Schrift, who had a heart attack several months ago. Shelley flew out to be with her, hired a housekeeper, so she doesn't have to turn her hand.

"She's a wonderful daughter," Rose said, then added, "And I hope she wins an Emmy."

HEDDA VISITS OLD FRIENDS AT MOVIE'S WAX MUSEUM

HOLLYWOOD — Allen Parkinson, whose long - time dream of building a museum for motion picture stars resulted in the Movieland Wax Museum, has been bugging me ever since it opened a year ago to come see it. He sent his gold Rolls with purple velvet curtains to pick me up. We got mixed up with some Dodger fans on the freeway, and one yelled out, "Who do you think you are, Hoppe? Queen for a day."

The museum is a beautiful place done with rare taste. It's crowded daily. There I met many old friends. I've worked with through the years — all in wax. Clark Gable was so handsome, almost lifelike, in a "Gone With the Wind" setting. Vivien Leigh wasn't so pretty, but Hattie McDaniels was perfect. Jeanette MacDonald dressed to the teeth as the merry widow with Chevalier beside her and a crystal chandelier swinging overhead. Mary Pickford was wearing her famous curls. Shirley Temple, a doll, dancing beside the good ship Lollipop, must bring her children down from San Mateo so they can see how mother looked when she was the greatest of them all. Norma Shearer was an elegant Marie Antoinette.

Gloria Swanson rated the most elaborate setting in front of a yellow Rolls, upholstered in leopard, which my host laughingly said he shot in Africa. She had a chinchilla flung over her shoulder and a cigarette in her hand. She gets a fresh one each day at noon. I presented one to her, then gave the wilted posy to a mother with a babe in arms.

The day Vincent Price came visiting, his dummy was removed and Vince stood in to the delight of the 300 fans who were there.

Parkinson is a charming gentleman of the Mormon faith. Made his fortune selling Sleep-Eze. Went around the world to find outstanding artists in the almost lost art of wax sculpture. And he's got to add Marlene Dietrich, the most glamorous of them all. It's a great show and you shouldn't miss it.

An Australian newspaper man called from New York to ask me who Mark Herron is. Frankly, I didn't know, but after checking I discovered he's an actor - dancer who met Judy Garland a month ago and went with her to Australia. According to the Aussie reporter, he got into as much trouble as Judy down under. Will she never learn? Also with her were Karl Brent, who managed the tour, and his bride, Lana — Natalie Wood's sister. Judy's manager has arranged a United States concert tour. It will be interesting to see if our audiences will wait an hour for her without starting to boo.

Inger Stevens loves to play the ponies, so Cathleen Nesbit promised to send her a list of horses in the British Derby. "She wrote apologizing for not getting it to me sooner," Inger said. "They don't know the odds until the night before the race because they don't know what the turf's going to be. If it rains and the horses aren't mudders, I could be in trouble."

You hear such stories about how movie stars mistreat their families, but I got a good endorsement of Shelley Winters from her mother, Rose Schrift, who had a heart attack several months ago. Shelley flew out to be with her, hired a housekeeper, so she doesn't have to turn her hand.

"She's a wonderful daughter," Rose said, then added, "And I hope she wins an Emmy."

Elk Undergoing Physical Exams In National Park

Some surprised elk up in the Rocky Mountain National Park are undergoing as thorough a physical examination as any human ever had.

Up to the present time, very little physiological data of normal, healthy animals has been available. As a result, when sick animals were examined, there has been no way of knowing whether any of the clinical tests, such as electrocardiograms, white blood cell counts and hemoglobin, were normal or abnormal.

To solve the problem, the Colorado Department of Game, Fish and Parks arranged with Dr. R. A. Herrin, assistant professor of physiology in the CSU College of Veterinary Medicine, to run some of the more important clinical tests.

This was done simultaneously with a study of the migratory habits of elk being conducted by Richard Dempsey, assistant game manager in the department, and Norman Dale, National Park biologist.

Forty-six elk were ear tagged and neck banded with orange, yellow or white bands depending upon where they were trapped. Fifteen of the animals, Dempsey said, were transplanted to Maudlin Gulch, southwest of Craig.

Among the elk that were trapped and tagged, of all ages and both sexes were subjected to the clinical tests. Records were made of electrocardiograms, temperatures, body temperatures and the various blood tests. Also included in the study were tests for certain diseases such as leptospirosis and brucellosis. All tests for those two diseases have proved negative so far.

The data which will be published, should prove valuable in future big game management, Dr. Herrin said, because it will enable diagnosis and treatment of animals as well as aid in the institution of preventive measures against the diseases studied.

CONDITION POOR

DENVER (UPI)— A 35-year-old youth counselor, who collapsed following his arrest on suspicion of molesting a 5-year-age girl, was reported in poor condition today at Denver General Hospital. The man, identified as James E. MacDonald, collapsed last Wednesday after Jefferson County sheriff's officers arrested him. They said a high school girl complained he had forced her to commit an unnatural sex act.

Federal Employes May Join Drive For JFK Library

Col. H. R. Hurst, acting commander of Fort Carson, announced that all Ft. Carson military and civilian personnel will be given the opportunity to join with other members of the federal family in the establishment of a memorial library at the nation's late President by voluntary gifts to the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library Fund.

The library will become a complete record of President Kennedy's life, his times and his administration. It will be built on a site donated by Harvard University and personally selected by President Kennedy eight weeks before his death. He had intended to make his office there and had hoped to make this institution a center for the training and education of young people both from America and abroad interested in careers of public service.

It is estimated that the cost of establishing the library will be $12,000,000. Of which this is to be raised by public subscriptions and voluntary contributions. When it has been built it will become the property of the United States government.

The Ft. Carson drive began Thursday and will run through June. There are no goals or quotas established in connection with this fund-raising drive. Whatever the amount of the contribution, large or small, each individual gift will be instrumental in helping build a lasting and living memorial to the late beloved President. Each contributor's name will become a part of this memorial in the permanent archives of the library.

Security Plans Recreation, Park District Vote

not said how much the bond issue is."

"We outnumber them five to one," said Roller, who said this was the sentiment in Widefield agains inclusion. He set the size of the village at 1,100 houses.

Roller suggested taxing utilities instead of homeowners to pay for parks "like we did in Kansas."

Court action was promised by Roller and other Widefield residents if inclusion is approved.

Roller said that only property owners should be able to vote in an election involving property taxes.

Morris challenged many of Roller's statements. He said that only property owners will be able to vote in the election, who are residents of the area proposed for inclusion. If property is registered in only a husband's name, his wife will not be allowed to vote, Morris said.

He said that three county precincts could vote, 89, 63 and 88, excluding Security. He added that builders set the size of Widefield at 511 houses, not the figure cited by Roller.

"Written objections to inclusion should have been presented at the public hearing May 25," Morris said. He pointed out the hearing had been advertised with legal notices.

At that meeting in Security Fire House, there was only one request not to be included in the district. The request by Fred Erickson for Stratmoor Valley was accepted by the park board.

Morris said that most calls his office has received regarding inclusion have been of two types: pro - inclusion calls from families with children, and requests for information from residents who did not understand the proposal.

The park board has agreed to make residents living outside Security pay non - resident fees or be dropped from the district's summer recreation program if there is a negative vote in the inclusion election.

If Widefield voters and those in other areas approve inclusion, park district boundaries will be changed in time for a tax assessment Jan. 1, 1965, Morris said.

He said that the rate for assessing property would be lowered in Widefield after Sept. 1 under new state legislation which would drop the assessed valuation figure from 35 to 45 per cent to 30 per cent. This will mean "much lower taxes," he said. He denied that the park board plans a bond issue.

However, other taxes are assured for Widefield.

Its taxpayers recently approved inclusion into the Security Fire Protection District which levies 3.5 mills. Arthur Olson, president of the fire board, predicted that fire insurance rates will drop from a rating of 10 to 8 with the added protection.

The School District 3 levy will increase at least 4 mills for salary increases and adjustments. To this will be added half a mill for a $350,000 school building bond issue approved last Thursday by taxpayers.

Another election set for Tuesday by the park board does not concern inclusion. It is for re-electing three incumbent park board members, Glen Driscol, Edward Haynes and Dr. Joseph Gentile. They are unopposed and an attorney for the park board says that write - in votes will not be counted.

The inclusion and board elections will be 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in Watson Junior High School.

Colorado's Young Demos Smother Insurrection Try

and from these schools —Regis College, Denver University, Southern Colorado State College, and Colorado University.

Chapter delegations split, but the majority was against the substitute resolution about two to one.

The house then approved the original resolution after a move to table it failed.

Another parliamentary move also failed when a group attempted to insert the word "peaceful" into a sentence.

The amendment projected six disastrous results that could result in the surrender of Southeast Asia to the communists, and stated:

"To prevent the above we encourage President Johnson to take what action is needed to bring the conflict to a successful conclusion."

An amendment from the floor attempted to insert the word "peaceful" before the word "action" so that the resolution would ask President Johnson to take peaceful action to end the confusion.

This was quickly rejected in a voice vote that was distinctly in favor of rejecting the word.

Young Demo President Charles Bishop then decided that the assembly should tackle the balance of the resolutions that had been offered from the floor.

Dick Miller of the Denver delegations presented the resolutions and all six were defeated. They were:

1. On Freedom of Travel — This asked that the Young Democrats of Colorado urge the State Department to rescind its ban on travel by U.S. citizens.

As first introduced it asked for travel freedom to North Korea, North Vietnam, China, Cuba and Albania. This was stricken from the original proposal and the words "at their own risk," were added after the words "U.S. citizens."

Of all the resolutions offered from the floor, this one came closest to passing. On a vote call by delegation, it failed, 527 to 453 with eight abstaining.

2. This was the other hot issue in the proposed resolutions, and was on civil rights dealing with Article XIV of the U.S. Constitution, the Fourteenth Amendment.

The proposed resolution asked that President Lyndon Johnson ask Congress to pass legislation that would reduce the congressional representation of states that restrict voting rights.

I also asked that states disenfranchising votes have their representation reduced at the national Democratic convention.

Miller pointed out that the Young Democratis of Denver passed such a resolution last fall, and that it failed to be approved by the convention's resolution committee by a tie vote of three to three, with six abstaining.

It failed in a vote call by delegation, though once again the delegations were split.

3. On Cuba. This resolution stated "We urge the resumption of relations between the United States and Cuba." The backers of the proposal stated that "the Missile crisis of October 1962 and other critical problems might well have been avoided if there had been contact between the Cuban government and the United States." It had little support.

4. On J. Edgar Hoover. This urged that President Johnson reconsider his decision to retain J. Edgar Hoover as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

This proposal pointed out that Hoover is now 70 years of age, and also criticized him for a statement that civil rights groups have been infiltrated by Communists.

Its support on the floor was narrow, and it was easily defeated with no delegation vote necessary.

5. On China. This urged "U.S. recognition of mainland China and its admission to the United States."

This call was based on "realistic planning of disarmament and nuclear testing bans, and other areas of international relations require participation by all prominent nations of the world. The people of the United States cannot afford the fiction that the most populous nation in the world does not exist." It was readily defeated.

6. On the Smith and McCarran Acts. This urged the state's Young Democrats to call for the repeal of the Smith Act and the 1950 (the McCarran Act.). The supporters of the bill said they "believed that both (acts) violate the spirit of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

They pointed out that President Harry Truman vetoed the McCarran Act in 1950 and quoted him concerning it:

"Once a government is committed to the principle of silencing the voice of opposition, it has only one way to go, and that is down the path of increasingly oppressive measures, until it has become a source of terror to all its citizens and creates a country where everyone lives in fear."

The move failed.

Food Poisoning Kills Three on Wyoming Ranch

WHEATLAND, Wyo. (AP) — Three members of a Wyoming ranch family are dead and another is recovering after an attack of what appeared to be food poisoning or carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dead are Larry Mylet, 32, and his two sons, Hugh, 8, and Colin 4. The wife and mother, Mrs. Sheila Mylet, 30, appeared to be recovering in a hospital here.

Her first word after appearing to regain partial consciousness was, "lightning."

Coroner Ted Schrader said there was considerable lightning Friday afternoon in the area of the Ralph Hall ranch, where the family lived. Schrader said there were no signs of lightning around the house or on any of the victims and it might have just been the last thing Mrs. Mylet recalled before losing consciousness.

Hall discovered the bodies at the ranch, 28 miles west of Wheatland, when he returned with supplies. He is Mrs. Mylet's father.

He thought all were dead but when Schrader and Dr. William E. Rosene arrived they detected a slight pulse in Mrs. Mylet. They applied oxygen and artificial respiration and she soon rallied enough to permit removal to the hospital here.

A dead parakeet was found in a cage leading officials to consider the carbon monoxide theory. A gas heater was burning when officers arrived, Schrader said.

Samples of a tuna casserole and a dish of creamed corn were taken for analysis.

Schrader said it will be several days before the tests are completed in Cheyenne.

Hall said all the Mylets were in good condition when he left for Wheatland for supplies.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Starting in fall 1965, Ohio State University will standardize the length of all four quarters of annual instruction at 50 class days and 5 examination days.

At present, quarters vary in length by as much as five days. Officials say this will enable the university to step up its teaching schedule in certain critical areas.

Russia Turns Deaf Ear To Laos Peace Proposals

foreign backers to stop aggression in Laos "at once."

Britain also proposed that Russia join her in a "decisive condemnation" of the Communist attacks and warned that the Pathet Lao and the North Vietnamese must bear responsibility for threatening the breakdown of peace in Southeast Asia.

Britain and Russia are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference which settled the Indochina war and guaranteed the neutrality of Laos. The British move followed consultations in London with U.S. presidential envoy William E. Bundy on steps to restore the situation in Laos.

While there was no official Soviet reply to the British proposals, the initial reaction was said to be have amounted to a flat rejection by the Kremlin.

Britain at the same time continued efforts to bring about consultations in the Laotian administrative capital of Vientiane next week of the 14 Geneva conference powers to work out an immediate cease fire in Laos.

The United States and Thailand joined other pro - Western nations in accepting the British proposals but the Communists, led by Red China, were adamantly opposed. Peking instead pushed a counter demand for a foreign ministers conference in Geneva or Phnom Penh, Cambodia, presumably to take up the entire Southeast Asia situation, and not the question of Laos alone.

Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos also made another overture toward his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Pathet Lao. Souvanna appealed to the so-called Red prince to meet with him either in Vientiane or the royal capital of Luang Prabang to discuss the crisis.

Souphanouvong is expected to reject the bid.

Rocky Says He Is Qualified to Trigger H-Bomb

paign in the Los Angeles area up to the last minute.

Rockefeller was asked at a Commonwealth Club luncheon appearance on Friday why he thought he was better qualified to press the H-bomb button than Goldwater. The governor pointed to his 25 years in public life and listed high posts he held under former President Eisenhower. He did not directly comment on Goldwater's qualifications.

In answer to another question, Rockefeller said the attempt to land on the moon distorts the American space effort. He said he'd rather see some $2.5 billion a year devoted to developing advanced weaponry and peaceful uses of the atom.

Goldwater said in Santa Barbara—at about the same time—that Rockefeller is engaged in a "silly, stupid attempt to divide the Republican party of California" with charges of extremism.

The Rockefeller campaign tactics, Goldwater said, make it "almost impossible for any Republican to win the November election."

'I think my opposition is now a stand-in for Lyndon Baines Johnson," Goldwater asserted in a luncheon address.

Goldwater also linked Rockefeller with what he called Eastern-based raids on California's aerospace industry.

"Two major contracts have gone east in the past year when they should have stayed on the West Coast," he said.

Goldwater said Johnson was "the worst thing that's happened to industry in California," and said that Rockefeller as president could "do with the stroke of a pen what LBJ has done for Texas."

Under Johnson, Goldwater said, "political favoritism" has overshadowed defense contract awards. The Arizona senator said defense contracts should be awarded on the basis of technical ability and competitive bidding.

He had sung at thousands of meetings of these and other organizations and at countless funerals. His voice, a clear ringing tenor, has been extensively recorded and is affectionally familiar almost everywhere. He had repeatedly sung "Open the Gates of the Temple" at Easter Sunrise services in the Garden of the Gods. Boy Scout Camp Vessey is named for him. He had been singing right up to the time he went to the hospital.

Mr. Vessey was born in Washington Springs, S.D., Sept. 28, 1890. An uncle, Robert S. Vessey, was governor of South Dakota for two terms. While his uncle was in office the young Bernard was a page boy. He became a member of the Fish and Game Department of South Dakota. Later, he traveled in America as the singer in an Evangelistic team. Since 1918 he had been a continuous resident of Colorado Springs, which called him its own beloved singer and heaped many honors upon him.

In recent years he and Mrs. Vessey had done a great deal of traveling, both on the American continent and in foreign countries across both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. On their latest trip they encircled the globe, traveling by primitive transportation to many little known places. They took many photographs and, in response to frequent requests, have shown the colored slides on various occasions. Mr. Vessey was familiarly known as "Bernie" Vessey by thousands. He was renowned for his good nature and willingness to sing favorite songs when asked, and to lead in community singing.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lucy E. Vessey, 2316 N. Nevada Ave., and a daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Burnam, also of Colorado Springs.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the First Methodist Church. Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg, pastor, and Dr. LeRoy Arend will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. The Law Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Armed Violence Continues on Isle of Cyprus

By RAY J. MOLONEY
United Press International

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Masked men attacked and burned a water pumping station supplying a British military base Saturday in a bold act of sabotage climaxing a week - long anti - British campaign.

The unidentified men surprised two Turkish Cypriot guards and forced them out of the water station, located about 24 miles southeast of Nicosia near the Greek Cypriot village of Makrasyka.

The fire damaged electrical installations at the station, which supplies the British sovereign base of Dhekelia where 5,000 British soldiers and their families live.

There were no casualties reported but authorities later found two unexploded bombs in the plant.

It was the second act of violence directed at the British in less than 24 hours. Friday night, a Greek Cypriot mob stormed and stoned the British-owned Harbor Club at Kyrenia on the north coast.

Officials said the damage at the pumping station was not serious and was expected to be repaired next week. Meanwhile the base received water from the other sources.

Oswald Was Lone Killer, Mounting Evidence Shows

las, occasionally exploding in wild outbursts.

3. No connection can be traced between Oswald's deed and any plot developed in the Soviet Union, Cuba or Mexico.

4. The motive seemingly lay in the murky, embittered and introverted mind of the ex-Marine sharpshooter; Oswald's wife said he had become "abnormal," and the evidence disclosed that his mother had ignored a school physician's recommendation that he be given psychiatric treatment.

The testimony of some 400 witnesses, plus thousands of investigation reports and at least 800 items of physical evidence, were said to substantiate overwhelmingly the original findings of the FBI.

Still secret, the five-volume FBI report is part of the commission's evidence. Delivered in December, it is known to indicate that Oswald was the sole slayer. But FBI Director J. Hoover, who lauded the Warren Commission's thoroughness, disclosed that his agents have sent "many thousands" more investigation reports to the presidential commission since then, and still are tracking down tips and leads including many supplied by the presidential commission itself.

Many of the myriad of conflicting reports and rumors seemed baseless or fabricated from the start, but the commission checked out each one in the effort to erase any lingering doubt that the public knows all that can be known.

The Warren report is expected, moreover, to deal with such questions as:

—Whether the Secret Service and Dallas police took all prescribed safety measures before and during the presidential visit.

—Whether there was laxity, misbehavior or inefficiency on the part of any federal agents.

—Whether more stringent safeguards should be established for the safety of presidents.

The nation has received Warren's personal assurance that no federal official or agency will be spared if censure is warranted. Some testimony received may not be made public "in your lifetime" if it involves national security, the chief justice said, but:

"I can assure you that nothing will be withheld because it might be embarrassing to the agency concerned."

The investigation is known to have turned up no substantiation for—or to have actually rebutted or discredited—scores of the rumors and reports which flew around the world six months ago.

These were among them:

—That one or more shots came from the railroad overpass ahead of the presidential limousine instead of from a window of the Texas School Book Depository Building, to the right and rear, where Oswald worked and where a rifle identified as his was found in a sniper's nest.

This report, suggesting that Oswald had an undiscovered accomplice, is contradicted by the autopsy report. It shows that both bullets which struck Kennedy and the one that hit Connally came from the rear, and that a fragment of one of them emerged from the front of Kennedy's throat.

—That a published picture showed Oswald standing in the door of the building at the very moment the rifle shots came from the sixth floor.

The man in the picture was Billy Lovelady of Dallas. He told Warren Commission agents he has 20 witnesses to verify his identity and position.

—That Oswald was secretly a U.S. intelligence agent, and—in the words of his mother, Marguerite Oswald—was "set up to take the blame."

Never substantiated, FBI Director Hoover and Central Intelligence Agency Director John A. McCone emphatically denied the story, and Mrs. Oswald told the commission herself that it was unsupported "speculation."

Speaker Praises Colorado's Civil Rights Position

If other states met their civil rights responsibilities like Colorado, there would be no need for federal legislation, according to State Sen. George Brown of Denver.

Brown spoke Saturday night at the dinner meeting of the Colorado Young Democrats' 1964 convention being held in the Antlers Hotel.

Brown said that Colorado should be used as an example of why Congress should pass a civil rights bill.

"It is unbelievable that a Colorado senator — Peter Dominick — doesn't see this when he reports he has some fears about a federal civil rights bill," Brown declared.

Pointing to the record that this state has, Brown said:

"In Colorado, we have had a public accommodations law since the 1890s. The right to vote has been extended to all citizens since the adoption of our state constitution.

"We have had a fair employment practices law since 1951, and the fair housing law since 1959."

Comparing Colorado's record with comments made during the past year as the federal government has worked on a civil rights bill, Brown stated:

"Some opponents of strong federal livil rights legislation have claimed that untold bad things will occur in the United States if this comes to pass."

He discounted these fears: "But we've had these laws, and although we still have some problems in human relations, we haven't had the racial strife, the tensions and the lawlessness, that opponents of civil rights legislation say will occur if the bill becomes law."

"On the contrary," he added, "the racial strife an dtensions in America today occur in the areas where there are no state laws such as we have in Colorado."

Turning to the general picture of state politics, Brown said that the people of Colorado are discouraged with the Republican Party. He predicted that many of them will bolt the party.

"They realize now that Love — Gov. John Love, that is — is not sufficient for good government without common sense," Brown said.

"People, including at least one Republican legislator, are tired of not having any common sense in state government," he stated.

His reference was to State Rep. Reginald Howard of Boulder who announced earlier this month that he was quitting the state Republican Party.

"Citizens of Colorado don't have to worry about state government — as they now apparently do — when a party accepts the responsibilities for better government and makes continuous steps to accomplish this fact, as the Democrats have done when in control," he said.

Soviets Charge Border Violations By Red Chinese

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia accused Chinese Communist leaders Saturday night of staging "flagrant" border violations and said the situation caused "especial alarm."

Referring to the 4,200 - mile-long border between the two Communist giants, Izvestia said:

"The Soviet government has always proceeded and proceeds from the fact that borders between socialist states should be borders of friendship and fraternity."

The article also accused Peking of "interference in the internal affairs of the Soviet Union" through distribution of anti-Kremlin propaganda within Russia.

It said the border problems should be settled by "friendly consultations."

"However, under no circumstances should these problems be a reason for political speculation, opposing one people against another," it said.

The Kremlin thus raised the thorny issue of the border for the first time since April 8 when it accused the Chinese Communists of "constantly and systematically" violating the border.

In another Sino-Soviet development, Russia accused Red China of virtually breaking off relations between the Communist youth leagues of both nations and of boycotting preparations for a forum in Moscow this summer.

Famous Nuclear Expert Szilard Dies at Age 66

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Famed nuclear physicist Leo Szilard—who helped the United States become an atomic powger, and then later campaigned for peace—died today at his La Jolla home. He was 66.

Death was attributed to an apparent heart attack.

Dr. Szilard was one of the men who helped convince Albert Einstein in 1939 that he should talk to President Franklin D. Roosevelt about atomic weapons. Einstein warned FDR —and the United States started work on its first A-bomb.

In 1942, with Enrico Fermi, Dr. Szilard brought about history's first chain reaction—in a laboratory at the University of Chicago. Fermi and Szilard worked out the method of arranging graphite and uranium to make possible a self-sustaining nuclear reactor.

In later years Dr. Szilard — prounounced Zil'- ahrd —was a tireless campaigner in the search for peace.

Szilard, who hoped the bomb would not be used, tried to write Russia's Premier Stalin in 1947 asking settlement of international differences. The State Department denied him permission, but Szilard later had the letter published in a Bulletin for Atomic Scientists.

The biophysicist came to La Jolla last month from Chicago to accept a post with the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Szilard was found dead by his wife, Dr. Gertrud Weiss Szilard, a physician, when she woke up at 3:55 a.m.

Szilard sharded the 1959 Atoms for Peace Award with Dr. Eugene Wigner.

Dr. Szilard was born in Budapest, Hungary, in 1898. He became a United States citizen in 1943.

"We outnumber them five to one," said Roller, who said this was the sentiment in Widefield against inclusion. He set the size of the village at 1,200 persons.

Roller suggested taxing utilities instead of homeowners to pay for parks. "Like we did in Kansas."

Court action was promised by Roller and other Widefield residents if inclusion is approved.

Roller said that any property owners should be ... in an ... erty taxes.

He said that ... cincts ... excluding ... He added that builders set the size of Widefield at 311 houses, not the figure cited by Roller.

At that meeting in Security Fire House, there was only one request, that to be left out of the district. The request by Fred Erickson for Stratmoor Valley was acceded to by the board.

Morris said that most of his office has been used in handling the influx of the past 10 days, types provided ... officials from families with children and requests for information from residents who still did not understand the proposal.

The park board has agreed to make residents living outside Security pay only a resident fees or be dropped from the district's summer recreation program if there is a negative vote in the inclusion election.

If Widefield voters and those in other areas approve inclusion, park district boundaries will be changed in time for a tax assessment Jan. 1, 1965, Morris said.

He said that the rate for assessing property would be lowered in Widefield after Sept. 1 under new state legislation which would drop the assessed valuation figure from 35 to 45 per cent to 30 per cent. This will mean "much lower taxes," he said. He denied that the park board plans a bond issue.

However other taxes are assured for Widefield.

Its taxpayers recently approved inclusion into the Security Fire Protection District which levies 3.5 mills. Arthur Olson, president of the fire board, predicted that fire insurance rates will drop from a rating of 10 to 8 with the added protection.

The School District 3 levy will increase at least 4 mills for salary increases and adjustments. To this will be added half a mill for a $350,000 school building bond issue approved last Thursday by taxpayers.

Another election set for Tuesday by the park board does not concern inclusion. It is for re-electing three incumbent park board members, Glen Driscol, Edward Haynes and Dr. Joseph Gentile. They are unopposed and an attorney for the park board says that write - in votes will not be counted.

The inclusion and board elections will be 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in Watson Junior High School.

It had little support.

Its support on the floor was narrow, and it was easily defeated with no delegation vote necessary.

Early Researchers Stole Human Bodies for Study

By LYNN POOLE

A young neighbor of mine came home from a Saturday afternoon matinee. He sat down beside me and I could tell from the look in his eyes that he had something on his mind.

He had seen a double-feature of two horror movies, so popular with the Saturday afternoon, under-teenage group. One of the motion pictures revolved around a bearded, eye-rolling "scientist" who snatched bodies from newly dug graves in order to dissect the bodies for his research on some fantastic scheme he had for making people live again.

The story is an old one; the twist in this movie fit our contemporary themes of the fantastic. My young friend was caught up in the drama of what seemed reasonable to him in this day of scientific miracles. Finally, he posed the question, "Do people really grab bodies from graves for scientific study?"

His question gave me the opportunity to stimulate his interest in and knowledge of medical research.

In ancient times little was known about the human body. Famous Greek philosophers such as Plato, Socrates and Aristotle were also men of science who asked themselves many questions about the body. What did the brain do ... how did the heart function ... what made it possible for men to think, walk and breathe? They attacked the questions first by pure reason and deduction. Then they went to animals, cut them apart, learned much, and proposed the idea that if animals functioned in one way, man probably had some relations to this function. On the Aegean island of Kos, a young doctor named Hippocrates conceived many new ideas about diagnosis and therapy; to prove some of his theories he took recently deceased bodies and examined them in secret. Through his examination and dissection he advanced medicine and surgery.

During the first century after the birth of Christ, another Greek by the name of Galen wanted to dissect bodies; but the body was so sacred that he dared not carry out human dissection for the profit of knowledge. So, he examined animals and stated that man was exactly the same. His ideas were held indisputable for 14 centuries. Then, along came a young man named Vesalius. He sat in medical school and listened to a professor propound Galen's theories, while a butcher, or a barber dissected a cadaver. Such antiquated and illogical method of learning was repulsive to the quick-minded Vesalius, who decided he wanted to dissect a body himself and find the truth, not based on Galen's animal dissection. One afternoon, he saw several executed criminals swinging by their neck from a tree. With a friend he smuggled one of the bodies into his room and began his own examination of human anatomy. Later he and a friend dug up a recently buried body for study. They continued, and Vesalius was later acclaimed as one of the great contributors to our knowledge of anatomy. He was a grave robber — only because he was forced to do so against the laws of his time.

I went on to tell how medical men in the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries had to steal bodies in order to add progress to medicine and surgery. Soon I noticed that my young friend's eyes were popping. I continued in my most histrionic manner, while at the same time giving him much factual, scientific information about his own body.

I knew there would be a final question, and he asked it. "What about today? Do we know everything, or are bodies still dissected? If so, where do doctors get 'em?"

This question I met head on, with the truth. We do not know everything, must know more. The fact is that students in medical schools must dissect bodies in order to gain first hand knowledge of anatomy. Research scientists need cadavers in order to make progress in their never ending search for medical advancement. Bodies for research and study are secured two ways: From bodies of "drifters" who have died, and for whom police authorities cannot find any living relative. After exhaustive search, these bodies are sometimes given to medical schools and laboratories. The second manner of acquiring bodies is from people who state in their wills that at death their bodies shall be given to medical institutions for research.

Last Friday, a salesman in a shop approached me, asked how he and his wife could give their bodies at death for research. I made the proper inquiries and this childless couple is now in the process of willing their bodies to a medical institution — to aid in advancement of medical knowledge.

All this, and more I related to my young friend. His answer made me glad I had told him the whole truth. He looked up and said, "Golly, that's a better story than that phony movie! Do you know what? If all those guys hadn't done that cutting up, maybe my Dad would have died when he had that operation last year."

Never underestimate the understanding of youth.

Brush Control Plan Includes Pike Forest

Aerial spraying of 17,496 acres of 26 areas on 7 National Forests in Wyoming and Colorado to control sagebrush and other undesirable vegetation was announced this week by the Forest Service.

Interstate Helicopters Inc., owned by Max Sonnenberg of Durango, was the successful bidder for the spray project which began May 25 on Grand Mesa-Uncompahgre National Forest in Colorado. Costs vary by area, averaging out at $3.10 per acre for the entire project.

Helicopters were selected for the project to insure a precision 2,4-D. The "choppers" capable of flying low and slow, can avoid the spraying of open water and streams, guarding against any possible water contamination.

Regional Forester D. S. Nordwall, Denver, said 1,860 acres will be sprayed on Bighorn National Forest, and 1,827 acres on Shoshone National Forest in Wyoming. Colorado National Forests under the project include the Routt, Pike, Gunnison, White River and Grand Mesa-Uncompahgre.

Nordwall explained that National Forest range managers consulted with Colorado and Wyoming Game-Fish Officials in planning the spray program. Areas to be sprayed are considered primarily valuable for production of livestock forage. All areas of prime game range for deer and elk are excluded from the spray projects.

Spraying sagebrush and certain weeds, such as Wyethia, increases grass growth and density. Weeds and brush utilize too much moisture on the range, competing directly with desirable grasses. Removal of sagebrush followed by artificial seeding where necessary to restore a grass cover, can increase forage production 2 to 3 times, Nordwall said.

Early Researchers Stole Human Bodies for Study

BY LYNN POOLE

A young neighbor of mine came home from a Saturday afternoon matinee. He sat down beside me and, after a few moments of silence, said something.

He had seen a movie of the life of Dr. Paul Ehrlich, the great German scientist who discovered the first effective cure for syphilis. Ehrlich's discovery was the result of many years of painstaking research in his laboratory. My young friend was fascinated by the drama of what seemed reasonable to him as the tale of a scientific miracle. But he had also raised the question: Did the doctor's experiments on human bodies in the dissecting room of the medical school violate the ethics of medicine?

His question gave me the opportunity to stimulate his interest in and knowledge of medical research.

In ancient times little was known about the human body. Famous Greek philosophers such as Plato, Socrates and Aristotle were also men of science who asked themselves many questions about the body. What did the brain do? How did the heart function? What made it possible for men to think, walk and breathe? They attacked the questions first by pure reason and deduction. Then they went to animals, cut them apart, learned much and developed the idea that if animals functioned in one way, man probably had some relations to this function. On the Aegean island of Kos, a young doctor named Hippocrates conceived many new ideas about diagnosis and therapy, to prove some of his theories he took recently deceased bodies and examined them in secret. Through his examination and dissection he advanced medicine and surgery.

During the first century after the birth of Christ, another Greek by the name of Galen wanted to dissect bodies, but the body was so sacred that he dared not carry out human dissection for the profit of knowledge. So he examined animals and stated that man was exactly the same. His ideas were held indisputable for 14 centuries. Then along came a young man named Vesalius. He sat in medical school and listened to a professor propound Galen's theories, while a butcher, or a barber, dissected a cadaver. Such antiquated and illogical method of learning was repulsive to the quick-minded Vesalius, who decided he wanted to dissect a body himself and find the truth, not based on Galen's animal dissection. One afternoon he saw several executed criminals swinging by their neck from a tree. With a friend he smuggled one of the bodies into his room and began his own examination of human anatomy. Later he and a friend dug up a newly buried body for study. Physicians and Vesalius was also a great dissector. He was a great anatomist. He was a great teacher. He was [illegible] he was known [illegible] the ladies.

During the 16th and 18th centuries had to steal bodies in order to add progress to medicine and surgery. Soon he found that my young friend's eyes were popping. I continued in my most factual manner while at the same time giving him much factual scientific information about his own body.

I knew there would be a final question, and he asked it. What about today? Do we know everything or are bodies still dissected. If so, where do the bodies get from?

This question I met head on with the truth. We do not know everything, must know more. The fact is that students in medical schools must dissect bodies in order to gain first hand knowledge of anatomy. Research scientists need cadavers in order to make progress in their never ending search for medical advancement. Bodies for research and study are secured two ways. From bodies of "drifters" who have died and for whom police authorities cannot find any living relative.

After exhaustive search, these bodies are sometimes given to medical schools and laboratories. The second manner of acquiring bodies is from people who state in their wills that at death their bodies shall be given to medical institutions for research.

Last Friday, a salesman in a shop approached me, asked how he and his wife could give their bodies at death for research. I made the proper inquiries and this childless couple is now in the process of willing their bodies to a medical institution — to aid in advancement of medical knowledge.

All this, and more I related to my young friend. His answer made me glad I had told him the whole truth. He looked up

Brush Control Plan Includes Pike Forest

Aerial spraying of 27,496 acres of 26 areas on [illegible] National Forests in Wyoming and Colorado to control sagebrush and other undesirable vegetation was announced this week by the Forest Service.

Interstate Helicopters, Inc., owned by Max Schlappi of Durango, was the successful bidder for the spray [illegible] which began May 25 on the Medicine Bow [illegible] National Forest in Wyoming. Schlappi has said he will start spraying at $7.50 per acre for the entire project.

Helicopters were selected for the project to insure a precision 2,4-D. The choppers, capable of flying low and slow, can avoid the spraying of open water and streams, guarding against any possible water contamination.

Regional Forester D. S. Nordwall, Denver, said 1,860 acres will be sprayed on Bighorn National Forest and 1,827 acres on Shoshone National Forest in Wyoming. Colorado National Forests under the [illegible] on the Rio [illegible] Gore, the White River and Grand Mesa, Uncompahgre.

Nordwall explained that National Forest range managers consulted with Colorado and Wyoming Game-Fish Officials in planning the spray program. Areas to be sprayed are considered primarily valuable for production of livestock forage. All areas of prime game range for deer and elk are excluded from the spray projects.

Spraying sagebrush and certain weeds, such as Wyethia, increases grass growth and density. Weeds and brush utilize too much moisture on the range, competing directly with desirable grasses. Removal of sagebrush followed by artificial seeding where necessary to restore a grass cover can increase forage production 2 to 3 times, Nordwall said.

Surgery Helps Bunions, Disease of Civilization

Editor's Note: This is one in a series of articles about your health which will appear regularly in The Gazette Telegraph as a public service feature.)

By The Colorado Medical Society

Bunions are a disease of modern civilization — and perhaps of its vanities.

Shoes are the villains. If we—particularly the female "we" — had continued to run around barefooted like our primitive forebears, we would probably be a lot better off in terms of foot health — not counting a few scrapes, bruises, cuts and thorns and the frostbite of winter.

Shoes developed as protection against such traumatic hazards but shoes have become more and more sophisticated and "stylish." It was only early in the 19th Century that shoemakers began to distinguish between right and left feet, but ever since then footwear styles have grown increasingly varied and changeable, sometimes at the expense of the anatomy of the foot.

Shoes which are too short, too pointed, angled too much outward along the inner surface, or equipped with heel slings instead of caps — all of these help along the cause of bunions and their burning type of pain.

Essentially, a bunion is the deviation of the big toe sideways, crowding in on the other toes and producing the characteristic angular "bump" at the head of the two bones (phalanges) which form the big toe. The fancy medical name for bunion is "hallux valgus."

To understand what "happens" in a bunion, one must picture the rather complex, double-arched anatomy of the foot and its multiple bones. The weight of the body is borne on a tripod consisting of the heel, the pad at the base of the first phalanx of the big toe and the similar pad at the base of the fourth and fifth toes.

Between these three points of weight-bearing there is a longitudinal arch (front to back) and a crosswise arch (side to side at the base of the toes). If something happens to cause either of these arches to relax or collapse, a deviation of the bony structure occurs. The something often is a badly fitted or too stylish shoe, and the deviation of bones yields calluses, corns, bunions and pain.

A heel cap is important to center that point of the tripod and keep the arched structure stable. The inner surface of the shoe also is important in that it should partially support the longitudinal arch. The angle of the inner line of the shoe is a third important factor, since it can throw pressure too far forward or too far backward along the crosswise (metatarsal) arch.

Bunions have become so common a problem in recent years that surgical operations for their relief have had to be developed.

Surgery, of course, is not always called for. A switch to properly fitted and styled shoes sometimes brings relief. Or in the early stages, a bunion can be corrected with splints to pull the big toe inward at night. Some types of splints can be worn during the day inside the shoe. Pads between the big toe and the first toe to force the former inward also can be corrective.

Usually however an abnormal bursa (fluid-filled protective sac) develops at the angle of the big toe, and the irritation to the bone causes over-development. Thus, both soft and hard tissues are involved in many bunions. The situation may be further complicated by the arthritic joint changes which occur in older persons.

Several operative procedures now are available for the correction of bunions. All involve the removal of excess bone or tissue and correction of the alignment of the big toe to restore the integrity of the foot arches. Sometimes the transplant of tendons is necessary.

The simplest of the operations merely removes the excess bone and the enlarged bursa, and this is relieving for many patients. A more complex operation is known as a wedge osteotomy. In this, a triangular section of bone is taken from the base of the first phalanx of the big toe, and the tendon is brought into a new position so that it pulls straight back on the toe and holds it in proper alignment.

Ordinarily, the feet must be splinted or taped for 4 to 6 weeks after the operation while the joints adjust to the surgical correction. (Bunions most commonly occur on both feet at the same time.)

Old Doc Experience advises:

1. Watch those shoes! Be sure they're not too short, too pointed or angled too sharply outward along the inner surface. They should have heel caps instead of slings. If the shoe wrinkles along the inside surface, it is not fitting your foot properly.

2. Don't temporize with a developing bunion. Seek corrective measures immediately.

3. If a splinting correction of your foot is prescribed, wear the splint faithfully.

4. Surgical relief now is available for severe bunion problems which do not respond to other corrective treatment.

FISHING RODEO PRIZES — Here are some of the prizes young fishermen will compete for during the fishing rodeo June 6 at Prospect Lake. Fishing hours for contestants, boys and girls 14 years old and under, will be from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. The event is sponsored by Jimmy Camp Sportsmen's Club, the State Game, Fish and Parks Department, City Parks and Recreation Department, and local merchants who contributed the prizes. Looking over the prizes are, from left, E. H. Flinn, chairman of the fishing rodeo committee; Moe Rollert, city recreation superintendent; John Stevenson, conservation officer, and Leslie Cornforth, a director of the Jimmy Camp Sportsmen's Club. The lake will be stocked by the State Game, Fish and Parks Department just prior to rodeo time. Youngsters should report to the southeast corner of the lake by 8:30 a.m.

Salvation Army Extends Center Referral Service

Rehabilitation program facilities of the Salvation Army service center have been expanded to provide housing, meals, work and recreational activities for additional homeless men seeking to find a normal, useful life, it was announced by Maj. Charles W. Griffin, social service center manager.

The program expansion was made possible by the generous public response to the Salvation Army's appeal for donations of useable discards, which, Maj. Griffin said, "the continuing increase in quantity and quality of the clothing, furniture and other useable and reparable household items donated, assures us of adequate support for a larger program."

"On behalf of the men who need and use the center's program, we thank the people of this community for thinking of the Salvation Army as the recipient for items they no longer need or use," he said.

Griffin also stated that the extended services would now allow private referrals in addition to referrals which normally come through civil agencies.

Information regarding referrals may be obtained by calling or writing Maj. Griffin, Men's Social Service Center, 17 W. Colorado Ave.

The salvation Army maintains deposit boxes at various shopping centers for public convenience. For at-your-door pickup, call 633-4697.

1. Watch those shoes. Be sure they're not too short, too pointed or angled too sharply outward along the inner surface. They should have heel caps instead of seams. If the shoe wrinkles along the inside surface, it is not fitting your foot properly.

2. Don't temporize with a developing bunion. Seek corrective measures immediately.

3. If a splinting correction of your foot is prescribed, wear the splint faithfully.

4. Surgical relief now is available for severe bunion problems which do not respond to other corrective treatment.

Salvation Army Extends Center Referral Service

Rehabilitation program facilities of the Salvation Army service center have been expanded to provide housing, meals, work and recreational activities for additional homeless men seeking to find a normal, useful life, it was announced by Maj. Charles W. Griffin, social service center manager.

The program expansion was made possible by the generous public response to the Salvation Army's appeal for donations of useable discards, which, Maj. Griffin said, "the continuing increase in quantity and quality of the clothing, furniture and other useable and reparable household items donated assures us of adequate support for a larger program."

"On behalf of the men who need and use the center's program, we thank the people of this community for thinking of the Salvation Army as the recipient for items they no longer need or use," he said.

Griffin also stated that the extended services would now allow private referrals in addition to referrals which normally come through civil agencies.

Information regarding referrals may be obtained by calling or writing Maj. Griffin, Men's Social Service Center, 17 W. Colorado Ave.

The salvation Army maintains deposit boxes at various shopping centers for public convenience. For at-your-door pickup, call 633-4697.

More Women Than Ever Work In Springs Area

Gold was first discovered in Colorado at Englewood in 1859.

The number of women in the labor force in Colorado Springs is on the rise.

The old saw that woman's place is in the home is being widely disregarded. With every passing year a larger proportion of the female population is to be found in the business, industrial and professional worlds.

Married women are responsible for most of this increase. More and more of them are finding it possible to discharge their home responsibilities and still have enough time left to take jobs, part - time or full - time.

On the basis of the latest Government figures, approximately 38.3 per cent of Colorado Springs' female population, above age 14, is now in the labor force.

When compared with the proportion of working women in the United States as a whole, 34.5 per cent, this is high. It tops, also, the Mountain States' 33.1 per cent.

The figures are from reports of the Department of Commerce, adjusted to March, 1964, in line with new data on the labor force, compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

In Colorado Springs, at the present time, the number of women in the local labor force is estimated at 11,663. Close to 94 per cent of them are actually employed.

The great bulk of them are married women. They have been entering the labor market at a rapid rate. For the most part it has been after age 35, by which time their youngsters are well along in school.

Their object is to bolster family earnings so as to prepare for the heavy education costs facing them and, at the same time, to keep themselves busy.

Making it possible, nowadays, is the vast array of appliances and semi - prepared foods that make housework less than a full - time occupation.

The combined earnings of these women has reached more than $28 billion a year.

Overall, according to the National Industrial Conference Board, such families spend 25 per cent more than one - income families.

In Colorado Springs, according to the latest count, 40.4 per cent of all local jobs are held by women.

The average, for the United States, is 32.7 per cent, and for the state of Colorado, 32.5 per cent.

Fremont County Man Seeks State Senatorial Post

Harold McCormick, prominent Fremont County businessman and incumbent state representative from Fremont and Custer counties, has announced this week in a letter to County Republican Chairman William Stinemyer his intentions to seek the candidacy for state senator in Senatorial district No. 25.

McCormick will be seeking his party's endorsement at the legislative assembly to be held this week in Canon City.

Lee Blackwell, GOP incumbent state senator from Fremont - Custer counties, had made no announcement by press time this week although it has been rumored in Republican circles that he may seek the GOP's backing to run for state representative.

In his letter to Stinemeyer, McCormick stated that "during four years of service in the Colorado General Assembly as a representative I have worked hard to protect and advance the best interests of the district. These have included highways, mining, schools, election laws, congressional and legislature redistricting, the vital cattle industry, and a three - year campaign to secure a new women's prison for this area. This campaign was successfully completed during the session this year, and the new women's prison will be started next month. It will fill a real need of this state, and will be of economic benefit to our area from now on."

McCormick added: "Certainly of importance to our counties will be Colorado's start on a good program of medical aid for the aged, as passed by the last session.

"Work on many legislative committees, including chairmanship of the Game and Fish committee, has given me the opportunity to serve in many areas of government. At all times it has been my goal to report regularly and fully to the citizens of Fremont and Custer counties.

"In supporting reduction of income taxes and inventory taxes, and removal of the state from the property tax field, I have tried to help reduce the record tax burden that Coloradans now bear, and to see that state government does not grow faster than the tax base that must support it.

"In seeking the longer term office," McCormick said, "to be of maximum legislative service to the counties of Fremont and Custer, and will wage the most vigorous campaign possible."

More Women Than Ever Work In Springs Area

Gold was first discovered in Colorado at Englewood in 1859.

The number of women in the labor force in Colorado Springs is on the rise.

The old saw that woman's place is in the home is being widely disregarded. With every passing year a larger proportion of the female population is to be found in the business, industrial, and professional worlds.

Married women are responsible for most of this increase. More and more of them are finding it possible to discharge their home responsibilities and still have enough time left to take on part-time or full-time employment.

On the basis of the above Government figures approximately 39.3 per cent of Colorado Springs females age 14 and over are in the labor force.

Fremont County Man Seeks State Senatorial Post

Harold McCormick, prominent Fremont County businessman and incumbent state representative from Fremont and Custer counties, has announced this week in a letter to County Republican Chairman William Stinemyer his intentions to seek the candidacy for state senator in Senatorial district No. 25.

McCormick will be seeking his party's endorsement at the legislative assembly to be held this week in Canon City.

Lee Blackwell, GOP incumbent state senator from Fremont - Custer counties, had made no announcement by press time this week although it has been rumored in Republican circles that he may seek the GOP's backing to run for state representative.

In his letter to Stinemeyer, McCormick stated that "during four years of service in the Colorado General Assembly as a representative I have worked hard to protect and advance the best interests of the district. These have included highways, mining, schools, election laws, congressional and legislature redistricting, the vital cattle industry, and a three - year campaign to secure a new women's prison for this area. This campaign was successfully completed during the session this year, and the new women's prison will be started next month. It will fill a real need of this state and will be of economic benefit to our area from now on."

McCormick added: "Certainly of importance to our counties will be Colorado's start on a good program of medical aid for the aged as passed by the last session.

"Work on many legislative committees including chairmanship of the Game and Fish committee, has given me the opportunity to serve in many areas of government. At all times it has been my goal to report regularly and fully to the citizens of Fremont and Custer counties.

"In supporting reduction of income taxes and inventory taxes, and removal of the state from the property tax field, I have tried to help reduce the record tax burden that Coloradans now bear, and to see that state government does not grow faster than the tax base that must support it.

"In seeking the longer term office," McCormick said, "to be of maximum legislative service to the counties of Fremont and Custer, and will wage the most vigorous campaign possible."

COLORADO SPRINGS—SUNDAY, MAY 31, 1964 SECTION B

TEACHER AND STUDENT — Lew Reimer, seated, Colorado Springs high school teacher, and Kenneth Schmidt, 22-year-old blind member of the 1964 graduating class, talk over an assignment in psychology. Blinded in a dynamite explosion, Schmidt returned to high school for his senior year, and made a better scholastic record than when he had his eyesight and was interested more in playing football and having fun than in studies. According to Principal Joseph Watson, Schmidt is the first blind student to take a full course so far as he knows. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Loss of Eyesight Doesn't Discourage Kenneth; He Graduates on Thursday

By BYRON AKERS

Kenneth Schmidt, 2613 Green Ridge Dr., will finish one major step toward adjustment to a life of blindness when he steps up Thursday evening in the City Auditorium to receive his diploma at the 1964 Palmer High School commencement.

His life was changed on Oct. 21, 1961, when his drill struck an unexploded dynamite charge in a limestone quarry. Shrapnel-like rock fragments destroyed his sight, ripped his face and body and shattered his foot.

Several months elapsed before broken bones and torn flesh mended, but his eyesight was gone. As he progressed from hospital bed to wheelchair and then to cane, young Schmidt tackled the problem of building a future in a world of darkness.

His latest step in that direction came last fall when he reentered high school to complete his senior year. A football injury in 1958 had forced him to drop out and had kept him from realizing a lifetime ambition to join the Marines.

"Going back to school after so long a lapse was a definite challenge," he recalled. "It proved to be an interesting and extremely worthwhile year. Blindness was no difficult hurdle. Learning study habits was a real problem.

"When I was in high school before, my thoughts were on athletics and fun. I never really learned to study — I don't believe I ever took a book home.

"This time I learned to study. Mrs. Ethel Zim, my English teacher, literally drove me into developing study habits. I'm lazy by nature but she kept me on the right track in the learning process.

Schmidt's next major step will be college. The 22-year-old blind student plans to attend Southern Colorado State at Pueblo. A liberal arts course with emphasis on mathematics, which he likes, is the academic schedule he intends to follow.

His goal is a career in automation. His interest in this new and fast developing field was stimulated by an extra-curricular course in theory and practice of automation under Murray Pirtle of the high school faculty. The course was in connection with the English course.

"I really liked the study of automation. Date processing and programming offer the prospect of a future career. I figure I can do it. It's a new field for the blind, but I believe there is a place in it for the sightless.

"The liberal arts course should give me a background for an understanding of the social and economic sides of automation. Mathematics come easy for me, and I enjoy them. Math will give me a foundation for a career in automation."

Looking back on his senior year at Palmer, Schmidt expressed deep gratitude for his teachers' helpful attitude and his acceptance by the other and younger students as one of them.

"I couldn't single out any one teacher for special praise — they were all wonderful," he said.

Of the blind student, Principal Joseph Watson said: "He was on his own and one of the students. No exception was made for him because he was blind."

That's the way Schmidt liked it.

"Elmer Nelson, my teacher in history, treated me like everyone else. If I needed a chewing out, I got it. It made me feel I was a part of things."

Schmidt originally thought of specializing in psychology of the blind before he became absorbed in the possibility of a career in automation. He found the course in psychology under Lew Reimer extremely interesting and the teacher in turn was impressed with the sightless student's determination and desire to learn. He also found the study of physology under Keith Berry equally interesting.

For his senior speech he chose the subject of blindness. His speech teacher was George Lewis, a retired Marine captain, who Schmidt described as a "real guy—a tremendous man."

"The senior speech was supposed to be just a classroom affair but some teachers and other students came in to hear me. I didn't know they were there. If I had I probably would have been flustered."

Schmidt said he feels grateful to Mrs. Joyce Hofgraver, his algebra teacher.

"She offered to teach me more advanced mathematics during the summer vacation. Wasn't that wonderful of her? It means I'll be better prepared for college math."

The only embarrassing moments, in relations with faculty members, came because he said he had a tendency to call several by their first names, without using the more formal "mister." These had been fellow students when he was in school back in the late '50's and since have joined the faculty.

Not on the faculty but one of his most important teachers, according to Schmidt, was his mother, Mrs. Ernest Schmidt. She had normal school training and had planned originally to become a teacher.

"Without Mom to read to me and encourage me, I don't believe I could have made it. She had the ability to explain and to read well. I tried other readers supplied by the state but I couldn't do as well as when Mom took over."

This year Schmidt has maintained a B average. That's far better than his scholastic record when he had his eyes.

"I'm older and more mature now. I have learned a lot by experience, and I know what I want to do," he explained about his better grades.

"A lot of the other students are just as I was. They just try to get by in studies. They haven't much interest in what's inside the books or what their teachers are trying to get into their heads. They haven't any goal in life.

"Of course, it's no use telling them they are wasting their time and making a mistake. I was the same way, just as teenagers. I wouldn't listen to advice. I guess all of us have to learn the hard way."

Younger than his teachers and older than his classmates, Schmidt said he was in position to gain a better perspective about what the teachers were trying to do and what many students were failing to get from school.

In resuming his scholastic work, Schmidt admits he made some mistakes along the route.

"I depended too much on my memory, and not on my Braille," he explained. "Also, I depended too much on other people. I have to have self-reliance — I cannot reach my goal by leaning on others."

College, an entirely different world from high school, will test his self-reliance, but he said he has the confidence to overcome new barriers and the challenge of more difficult assignments.

Schmidt credits his interest in overcoming the handicap of blindness and working out a purposeful career to Miss Margaret Bland, district teacher of the blind for the Division of the Blind of the State Rehabilitation Department.

"She inspired me to gain the basic skills needed by the blind and spurred me on to try to make something useful of my life, rather than surrender to blindness."

He developed further the initially acquired skills and attitude of the sightless during attendance at St. Pauls School for the Blind in Boston. A Catholic institution, the school is headed by Father Thomas J. Carroll, whose teaching and writing on the subject of blindness are nationally known.

Now a husky 210-pounder and possessed of a sound basic education through his return to high school, Schmidt said he is looking forward eargerly to college.

"I intend to learn all I can," he vows, "and expresses the hope his athletic days are not over. "I hope Southern Colorado State will put wrestling on the athletic calendar."

Committee Post Is Hot GOP Issue

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

The state Republicans have a hot fight going right now for the position of national committeeman and it perhaps will crackle audibly until the issue is settled on June 6.

It will be decided at the state assembly and convention scheduled for that date in the state fairgrounds. And even after it is settled, it may well smoke for a time.

John King, a former Illinois resident, now a Denver oil man, is seeking election as committeeman.

To get the job, he has to knock off William S. Powers, also of Denver, who now holds the job and who has no intention of giving it up. He'll have to be defeated in a vote of the delegates to be pushed out of the job.

King impresses people as being a dynamo. He had to be to keep the schedule he laid out for himself May 23.

That was the date of the county assemblies and conventions across the state for the Republican party.

King began that day in the Denver area by attending the Republican meetings of Boulder, Adams, Jefferson, Denver and Arapahoe counties. Then he came to Colorado Springs to appear at the El Paso county meeting held in the Broadmoor's International Center before going on to Pueblo to attend the GOP meeting there.

At each meeting he made a short speech.

One of the jobs of a national committeeman, according to King, is to raise funds for the party. At that, he said he is experienced.

As an example of how he has worked for his party in the past, he told the El Paso county Republicans that when he took over as finance chairman of the Arapahoe County GOP it was getting about $4,000 every other year from the party faithful.

"I changed that. We introduced sustaining membership and now we have 2,600 people who are giving money to the party each year, so that we had $25,000 in the till ready for this political year before the candidates were selected," he said.

He was emphatic about the effectiveness of that method of operating. "You must have the finances set to go before the candidates do. I you don't, the candidate has to spend all of his time raising money, and you can't win that way," he said.

"The party should finance party work for candidates, so that the candidates once nominated don't have to be fund raisers," King stated.

King has been accused of being committed to the presidential candidacy of Arizona Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

This was his answer when asked about that:

"I can't take a position for or against any candidate announced or unannounced because I would have to be able to support the candidate named at the national convention."

He then added, "However, you can say that I am basically conservative." He smiled, and added, "quite conservative."

Sertoma Club To Send Local Boy to Camp

The Sunrise Sertoma Club has donated $90 to send a local boy to a summer camp for physically handicapped and mentally retarded youngsters.

The donation was to the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center, 2536 N. Logan, which is a supporter of "Handicamp" between Georgetown and Idaho Springs.

The local center will send 40 youngsters this summer to the camp, said Dick Olson, its executive director.

"No child will be denied the opportunity to participate in the program," he said.

Some children are sent to the camp by the local rehabilitation center and others are financed by civic clubs, such as the Sunrise Sertomans.

"We feel that camping is a very important factor in rehabilitation," Olson said, "it gives handicapped and retarded youngsters the opportunity to do activities which all children enjoy."

Olson termed Handicamp "one of the finest such operations in the United States."

Olson said that other civic groups also support the camping program.

Theft of Roto-Tiller Reported to Sheriff

Sheriff's office Saturday reported the theft of a roto-tiller 7-10-mile from the Peak Road entrance of the old highway to Green Mountain, some time Wednesday.

Owner Fritz Weissenflugh, 808 Prospect Pl., notified authorities Saturday of the missing property valued at $130.

Property Owner and El Paso County Disagree on Access Road

A local property owner, Richard Bock, who owns a trailer park bordering on the new East-West Freeway, has criticized El Paso County for its failure to plan ahead for county road accesses to the artery.

Bock said that the county had been lax about improving South 30th street south from its intersection with the freeway, and that unless something was done his customers would be unable to reach the mobile home area. His mobile home parking area is located south and east of the South 30th Street intersection with the freeway.

Charles L. Smith, El Paso County road commissioner, has answered Bock's criticism with the information that the county has been working on the problem of the South 30th Street improvement for several months.

In the area where Bock's property is located, South 30th Street crosses Fountain Creek from West Colorado Avenue, intersects with the freeway, and extends south and eastward about one-half mile to meet Robinson Street, which runs east and west.

In that area, the street is a narrow, rough track which in the past has been used principally by a junkyard located at 530 S. 30th St.

Bock said that if the freeway is completed without South 30th Street being improved, he will have no access to his property. He said a representative of the state highway engineers, whom he could not identify by name, told him that the state would provide an intersection at 30th Street. The county will have to improve the road for general use.

The property owner also complained that there is no drainage system in the area to prevent water from the range of low hills west of his property from flooding the trailer park and other property in the area. He said that the lack of adequate flood controls in the area could result in the flooding of the freeway if sufficient rainfall should occur.

Bock said a 60-foot road was deeded to the county some years ago by Edith L. Morrison. This was confirmed by a letter from Mrs. Morrison written to Bock in 1960.

Bock, who until recently made his home in Arizona, said he flew to Colorado Springs from his home on the Western Slope of the Rocky Mountains and made an effort to contact the El Paso County road commissioner. He said he was unable to contact Smith in person, but that he left word with another man for Smith to contact him by telephone. He said Smith did not return the call.

Smith reported that he had returned Bock's telephone call 25 minutes after he received it and said that no one answered. He said he did not know Bock and didn't know the reason for his telephone call until he prove the section of South 30th Street which passes directly in front of Polley's property.

Smith was questioned about the road by a reporter.

The commissioner said that plans for the improvement of South 30th Street had been in the making for some time and that they had been held up temporarily while the county waited for Polley to remove his trucks, a rock crusher and other machinery from the right-of-way.

At a recent meeting of the County Board of Adjustment, Polley was given permission to change the use of land to a junk-yard with a six-foot solid fence and a solid gate for entry. His lot at 530 S. 30th St., is 405.4 feet by 173 feet by 350 feet by 181.65 feet and is located in an M-Industrial district. The application was for approval of the use.

At the time his request was granted, Harold F. "Bud" Ish-am, county planning director, explained to the board that the county plans to widen and improve the section of South 30th Street which passes directly in front of Polley's property.

Smith said that the county intends to grade the road, lower the roadbed a distance of 8 to 10 feet, and construct a roadway approximately 40 feet wide. He said the right-of-way is 60 feet in width.

The commissioner said improvement of the road will be undertaken just as quickly as the right-of-way can be cleared and the work can be scheduled.

Smith said that whatever drainage that is necessary will be installed. He said he did not believe there was much danger from flooding in the area.

The commissioner said that Bock and other property owners in the area could have access to 30th Street when the improvements are completed. He said he did not know what type of interchange was planned at the intersection of the freeway with South 30th Street, but that he had been told there would be one at that point.

Large West Side Market Isolated by Expressway

The failure of the Colorado Department of Highways to give proper evaluation to intersections and access roads on the new East-West Freeway has caused one of the largest supermarkets in West Colorado Springs to lose its direct-route link with Colorado City and other sections of its trade area.

The Safeway Store at 515 S. 25th St., will be, when the freeway is completed, located on an island between South 21st Street and South 26th Street. South 25th Street passes directly in front of the store, and now provides a direct link with West Colorado Avenue.

When the freeway is completed, South 25th Street will dead-end at the freeway, cutting the Safeway Store off from through traffic.

A. E. Olson of Denver, real estate department manager for Safeway, said, "We don't know how this will affect us." He said that he and the other officials of Safeway did everything possible to get the access road changed from 26th to 25th Street, but opined that the state "apparently had progressed too far to make a change."

Olson reported that everybody concerned with the freeway construction "tried to be as cooperative as they could, but the plans were drawn and the contract awarded, and I guess they just couldn't turn it off."

Olson said customers would have to cross the freeway, when it is completed, at South 26th Street, drive to Robinson Street and turn left to the store. An alternate route will be to cross the freeway at South 21st Street, turn right on Bott Street and then pursue a northwesterly direction to South 25th Street and thence to the store.

The Safeway official said there are no immediate plans to close the store. "We'll just have to wait and see what happens," he stated.

A check of the freeway from South 8th Street to South 31st Street, shows that access roads are being built at 8th Street, 14th Street, 21st Street, 26th Street, 30th Street and 31st Street.

Both the Gold Camp Road and Bear Creek Road tie into South 26th Street which was closed in February, 1961, after the bridge collapsed. At that time it was announced that plans for the freeway would determine to a large extent where a new bridge should cross Fountain Creek in that vicinity.

City officials said at that time that the bridge at 25th Street was "too old and narrow" to accommodate the heavy traffic that would result if the crossing were turned into a connection with the freeway.

Since the closing of 26th Street, however, the bridge on 25th Street has accommodated a large share of the traffic moving south from West Colorado Avenue toward Gold Camp Road, and north from Gold Camp Road and Bear Creek Canyon.

Capt. J. E. Schuyler's Funeral Set Tuesday

Services for Capt. James Elmer Schuyler, 80, of 14 Beverly Pl., will be 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in Grace Episcopal Church, Rev. John Mott officiating.

Burial will be in Fort Logan National Cemetery.

Capt. Schuyler, who died Friday in a local hospital, was retired from the U.S. Air Force. He was born June 11, 1883 in Brooklyn, N.Y., and was a local resident for two weeks.

He belonged to the Episcopal Church and participated in World War I and II.

Friends may call Sunday and Monday at Law Drawing Room.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ellen V. Schuyler, and a son, Col. E. V. N. Schuyler, both of Colorado Springs.

ISOLATED BY FREEWAY — When the East-West Freeway is completed, this Safeway store at 515 S. 25th St. will be situated on a dead-end street, a block from the nearest interchange at South 26th Street. In this picture, you're looking southward across South 25th Street, and the uncompleted freeway. In the background is Cheyenne Mountain. When the freeway is completed, the fence at the left will block off South 25th Street so that the artery will dead-end from both north and south. Safeway officials have reported that they were unable to sway the decision of the Colorado Department of Highways to close the street. (Gazette-Telegraph Photo)

His goal is a career in automation. His interest in this new and fast developing field was stimulated by an extra-curricular course in theory and practice of automation under Murray Pirtle of the high school faculty. The course was in connection with the English course.

"I really liked the study of automation. Date processing and programming offer the prospect of a future career. I figure I can do it. It's a new field for the blind, but I believe there is a place in it for the sightless.

"The liberal arts course should give me a background for an understanding of the social and economic sides of automation. Mathematics come easy for me, and I enjoy them. Math will give me a foundation for a career in automation."

Looking back on his senior year at Palmer, Schmidt expressed deep gratitude for his teachers' helpful attitude and [illegible] a lifetime ambition to join the Marines.

"Going back to school after so long a lapse was a definite challenge," he recalled. "It proved to be an interesting and extremely worthwhile year. Blindness was no difficult hurdle. Learning study habits was a real problem.

"When I was in high school before, my thoughts were on athletics and fun. I never really learned to study — I don't believe I ever took a book home.

"This time I learned to study. Mrs. Ethel Zim, my English teacher, literally drove me into developing study habits. I'm lazy by nature but she kept me on the right track in the learning process.

Schmidt's next major step will be college. The 22-year-old blind student plans to attend Southern Colorado State at Pueblo. A liberal arts course with emphasis on mathematics, which he likes, is the academic schedule he intends to follow.

His goal is a career in automation. His interest in this new and fast developing field was stimulated by an extra-curricular course in theory and practice of automation under Murray Pirtle of the high school faculty. The course was in connection with the English course.

"I really liked the study of automation. Date processing and programming offer the prospect of a future career. I figure I can do it. It's a new field for the blind, but I believe there is a place in it for the sightless.

Looking back on his senior year at Palmer, Schmidt expressed deep gratitude for his teachers' helpful attitude and [illegible] his acceptance by the other students. They [illegible] younger students as one of them. [illegible] interest in what's [illegible]

"I couldn't single out any one teacher for special praise. They were all wonderful," he said.

Of the blind student, Principal Joseph Watson said: "He was on his own and one of the students. No exception was made for him because he was blind."

That's the way Schmidt liked it.

"Elmer Nelson, my teacher in history, treated me like everyone else. If I needed a chewing out, I got it. It made me feel I was a part of things."

Schmidt originally thought of specializing in psychology of the blind before he became absorbed in the possibility of a career in automation. He found the course in psychology under Lew Reimer extremely interesting and the teacher in turn was impressed with the sightless student's determination and desire to learn. He also found the study of physiology under Keith Berry equally interesting.

For his senior speech he chose the subject of blindness. His speech teacher was George Lewis, a retired Marine captain, who Schmidt described as a "real guy—a tremendous man."

"The senior speech was supposed to be just a classroom affair but some teachers and other students came in to hear me. I didn't know they were there. If I had I probably would have been flustered."

Schmidt said he feels grateful to Mrs. Joyce Hofgraver, his algebra teacher.

"She offered to teach me more advanced mathematics during the summer vacation. Wasn't that wonderful of her? It means I'll be better prepared for college math."

The only embarrassing moments, in relations with faculty members, came because he said he had a tendency to call several by their first names, without using the more formal "mister." These had been fellow students when he was in school back in the late '50's and since have joined the faculty.

Not on the faculty but one of his most important teachers, according to Schmidt, was his mother, Mrs. Ernest Schmidt. She had normal school training and had planned originally to become a teacher.

"Without Mom to read to me and encourage me, I don't believe I could have made it. She had the ability to explain and to read well. I tried other readers supplied by the state but I couldn't do as well as when Mom took over."

This year Schmidt has maintained a B average. That's far better than his scholastic record when he had his eyes.

"I'm older and more mature now. I have learned a lot by experience, and I know what I want to do," he explained about his better grades.

"A lot of the other students are just as I was. They just try [illegible] they [illegible] time and making a mistake. I was the same way. Just as teenagers, I wouldn't listen to advice. I guess all of us have to learn the hard way."

Younger than his teachers and older than his classmates, Schmidt said he was in position to gain a better perspective about what the teachers were trying to do and what many students were taking to get from school.

In resuming his scholastic work, Schmidt admits he made some mistakes along the route.

"I depended too much on my memory and not on my Braille," he explained. "Also, I depended too much on other people. I have to have self-reliance — I cannot reach my goal by leaning on others."

College, an entirely different world from high school, will test his self-reliance, but he said he has the confidence to overcome new barriers and the challenge of more difficult assignments.

Schmidt credits his interest in overcoming the handicap of blindness and working out a purposeful career to Miss Margaret Bland, district teacher of the blind for the Division of the Blind of the State Rehabilitation Department.

"She inspired me to gain the basic skills needed by the blind and spurred me on to try to make something useful of my life, rather than surrender to blindness."

He developed further the initially acquired skills and attitude of the sightless during attendance at St. Pauls School for the Blind in Boston. A Catholic institution, the school is headed by Father Thomas J. Carroll, whose teaching and writing on the subject of blindness are nationally known.

Now a husky 210-pounder and possessed of a sound basic education through his return to high school, Schmidt said he is looking forward eagerly to college.

"I intend to learn all I can," he vows, "and expresses the hope his athletic days are not over. "I hope Southern Colorado State will put wrestling on the athletic calendar."

Committee Post Is Hot GOP Issue

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

The state Republicans have a hot fight going right now for the position of national committeeman and it perhaps will crackle audibly until the issue is settled on June 6.

It will be decided at the state assembly and convention scheduled for that date in the state fairgrounds. And even after it is settled, it may well smoke for a time.

John King, a former Illinois resident now a Denver oil man, is seeking election as committeeman.

To get the job he has to knock off William S. Powers, a [illegible] Denver who now holds the job and who has no intention of giving it up. He'll have to be defeated in a vote of the delegates to be pushed out of the job.

King impresses people as being a dynamo. He had to be to keep the schedule he laid out for himself May 23.

That was the date of the county assemblies and conventions across the state of the Republican party.

King began that day in the Denver area by attending the Republican meetings of Boulder, Adams, Jefferson, Denver and Arapahoe counties. Then he appear at the El Paso county meeting [illegible] Bismarck, Montana. Other [illegible] and to Pueblo [illegible] GOP meeting there.

At each meeting he made a short speech.

One of the jobs of a national committeeman, according to King, is to raise funds for the party. At that he said he is experienced.

As an example, he said he worked for his party in the past, he told the El Paso County Republicans that when he took over as finance chairman of the Arapahoe County GOP it was getting about $4,000 every other year from the party faithful.

"I changed that. We introduced sustaining membership and now we have 2,600 people who are giving money to the party each year so that we had $25,000 in the till ready for this political year before the candidates were selected," he said.

He was emphatic about the effectiveness of that method of operating. "You must have the finances set to go but the candidates do. If you don't the candidate has to spend all his time raising money and you can't win that way," he said.

"The party should finance party work for candidates so that the candidates once nominated don't have to be fund raisers," King stated.

King has been accused of being committed to the presidential candidacy of Arizona Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

This was his answer when asked about that:

"I can't take a position for or against any candidate announced or unannounced because I would have to be able to support the candidate named at the national convention."

He then added: "However, you can say that I am basically conservative." He smiled and added, "quite conservative."

Sertoma Club To Send Local Boy to Camp

The Sunrise Sertoma Club has donated $90 to send a local boy to a summer camp for physically handicapped and mentally retarded youngsters.

The donation was to the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center, 2536 N. Logan, which is a supporter of "Handicamp" between Georgetown and Idaho Springs.

The local center will send 40 youngsters this summer to the camp, said Dick Olson, its executive director.

"No child will be denied the opportunity to participate in the program," he said.

Some children are sent to the camp by the local rehabilitation center and others are financed by civic clubs, such as the Sunrise Sertomans.

"We feel that camping is a very important factor in rehabilitation," Olson said, "it gives handicapped and retarded youngsters the opportunity to do activities which all children enjoy."

Olson termed Handicamp "one of the finest such operations in the United States."

Olson said that other civic groups also support the camping program.

Scranton Says He Is Not Interested

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)— Gov. William W. Scranton says he has no objection to the Pennsylvania delegation nominating him for president at the Republican National Convention for "tactical or strategical" purposes.

"As you know I am not a bit interested personally in being nominated for the presidency of the United States," Scranton said Thursday at a news conference.

Scranton, who is considered a darkhorse candidate for the GOP nomination, commented on the announced plans of Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., to nominate the governor if no one else does.

"As for as I am concerned the only interest I have in my own name being before the convention is if the delegation believes this is something we should do for a tactical or strategical reason," he said.

Scranton, who is chairman of the 64-vote delegation, said 62 members have pledged to follow his leadership. The remaining two plan to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Scranton wants the delegation to remain uncommitted.

Parents to Share Pride in Son With Sergeant

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Saito of San Leandro, Calif., will share their glowing pride upon the graduation of their son, Ted, from the Air Force Academy with a third member of their "family" — a "Dutch Uncle."

S. Sgt. Lloyd E. Brown, now stationed at Lowry AFB, proved himself to be a mighty good neighbor when he lived next door to the Saitos in California.

At that time, Ted, nearing graduation from high school, was preparing for a career in the Army. He had been offered an appointment to West Point and was just about ready to accept.

Sgt. Brown, an Air Force recruiter, talked to the youngster like a "Dutch Uncle" and Ted went Air Force."

With the sergeant's aid, Ted submitted his application for the Academy but the offer of nomination was late and it took many hours of effort, counsel, and guidance on Sgt. Brown's part to prepare Ted for the academy.

Then, rejection for physical reasons seemed imminent. Sgt. Brown wasn't about to give up. Through his encouragement, an appeal was made to the academy surgeon and Ted qualified.

Wednesday, Sgt. Brown will sit with the Saitos in Falcon Stadium as Ted receives his bachelor of science degree and second lieutenant's commission.

To check up on how his "investment" of time and effort has paid off, Sgt. Brown visited Ted at the academy last week. He received a personally escorted tour of the cadet area and his invitation to attend graduation as the cadet's guest.

Sgt. Brown admits he was mighty proud of the letters of praise written by Dr. and Mrs. Saito and the endorsements received from then Secretary of the Air Force, Dudley Sharp, Maj. Gen. R. M. Montgomery, Assistant Vice Chief of Staff, and Air Training Command Headquarters, but his deepest feeling of pride will come Wednesday when Col. V. J. O'Connor, Academy Cadet Registrar, calls "Saito, Theodore T."

Expectant Mother Is Shot to Death

WEBB CITY, Mo. (AP) — An expectant mother was shot to death Friday night while her husband was practicing a quick draw with a revolver in their home, police said.

The woman was Mrs. Ronald L. Morrill, 24.

Her 33-year-old husband rushed her to a hospital where surgeons tried unsuccessfully to save her twin boys by Caesarean section. The babies were due to be born in July.

Police said Mrs. Morrill was sitting on a divan watching television while her husband was playing quick draw with their 3-year-old son, Marce. Morrill's 22-caliber revolver fired and the bullet struck Mrs. Morrill in the throat.

Parents to Share Pride in Son With Sergeant

Mr and Mrs. Frank H Saito of San Leandro, Calif will share their glowing pride upon the graduation of their son, Ted from the Air Force Academy with a third member of their "family" — a "Dutch Uncle."

S Sgt Lloyd E Brown now stationed at Lowry AFB, proved himself to be a mighty good neighbor when he lived next door to the Saitos in California.

At that time, Ted nearing graduation from high school was preparing for a career in the Army. He had been offered an appointment to West Point and was just about ready to accept.

Sgt Brown, an Air Force recruiter talked to the youngster about the Air Force and the Air Force Academy.

With the sergeant's aid, Ted submitted his application to the Academy but the letter of nomination was late and it took many nights of effort, counsel and guidance on Sgt Brown's part to prepare Ted for the academy.

Then, rejection by physical readers seemed imminent. Sgt Brown wasn't about to give up. Through his encouragement an appeal was made to the academy surgeon and Ted qualified.

Wednesday, Sgt Brown will sit with the Saitos in Falcon Stadium as Ted receives his bachelor of science degree and second lieutenant's commission.

To Ted's dad now is testament to the time and effort he has paid out. Sgt Brown is proud Ted at the academy and wants. He received a letter from one of Ted's instructors at the academy and was impressed at the cadet's progress as the cadet's guest.

Sgt Brown admits he was mighty proud of the cadet's praise written by Dr and Mrs Saito and the endorsements received from their Congressman, Air Force Duties Staff, Major Gen R M Montgomery, Assistant Vice Chief of Staff and Air Training Command Headquarters but his deepest source of pride will come Wednesday when Col V J Odom, Academy Cadet Registrar, calls Sgt Theodore T

Leo Mohl Prize Awarded to CC Man From Denver

Walter E. Hecox of 11880 Swadley Dr., Denver, who will receive a bachelor of arts degree from Colorado College at commencement Monday, has been awarded the Leo Mohl Prize for the best senior thesis in economics.

The award was established by Leo Mohl, proprietor of the Mohl Book Home, to encourage students to undertake independent research in economics.

Hecox's thesis, entitled "The United States Balance of Payments Problem and World Liquidity Considerations," was the best among 16 entries.

After a review of balance of payments theory and relevant international monetary systems, Hecox undertook a brief review of the historical background of the present United States balance of payments problem. He examined the major proposals for the solution of the problems that focused on the need for increased international liquidity.

Although Hecox concluded that an international clearing bank of a type such as Keynes or Triffin has suggested is theoretically defensible, he doubts the practicality of such a play in today's nationalistic world. Thus Hecox is led to the acceptance of an international currency receiving international support.

However, Hecox cautions, "the solution of the United States balance of payments deficit would not eliminate the need for additional world liquidity."

Hecox is one of three Colorado College seniors awarded Fulbright Fellowships for graduate study and research at universities abroad.

He will use the Fulbright Fellowship to spend a year at the Institute of Development Economic development and international trade.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Stoic Virtues

It has been a matter of some historical concern that civilizations and cultures invariably seem to suffer their greatest setbacks from positions of relative security and affluence. So long as a given group of people are facing hardships and striving mightily to overcome natural obstacles and problems, so long will they tend to generate a rising standard of behavior and an extension of their allotted span on earth.

But once a nation attains to a kind of plateau where certainties of opulence replace the uncertainties engendered by poverty and lack, then it seems the generative and perpetuating influences wane. The stoic virtues are forgotten and replacing them come desires for luxury and entertainment. The culture becomes effete, soft, subservient.

There is no point in providing illustrations of this phenomenon. It appears to be a consensus among historians and philosophers that man can stand almost anything except success. The sturdy barbarian has a greater tendency to exert himself than the sophisticate and patrician.

And possibly we have a clue as to why this is so. We think it may relate to the enormous scarcity thus far, in all cultures, of truly entrepreneurial qualities. What do we mean by this?

If we examine any cross section of unusually wealthy and successful men, we will discover a fascinating characteristic they seem to have in common. We are not referring here to men who have had no part in the earning of the wealth they have under their control. We are talking about men who understand the rough and tumble of the market place and have won their positions competitively by dint of perseverance, hard work, thrift and some measure of entrepreneurial skill or good fortune.

One of the characteristics of this kind of man is that his living expenses do NOT keep pace with his earning capacity. As he grows in wealth and position, he does not do what the nouveau-riche are forever doing. . spending to match or to exceed earnings.

On the contrary, the very wealthy man who has earned and is earning his position as he goes, sets a standard of living and tends to stay there with only modest variations. If he earns $15,000 per year, and is suddenly able to earn $150,000 per year, his expenses do not rise to meet his new income.

To observe him before his sudden rise to fortune, and then to observe him afterwards, finds you looking at the same man. His eating habits remain the same. He wears the same number of suits of clothing and he spends no more for them in spite of his obvious command of larger purchasing power. He sleeps in the same bed he slept in before. He does much as he did before. The increase of his position has done nothing except to make it possible for him to exercise larger judgment in the managing of investment opportunities.

But this is far from the custom of most people. Let the average man find himself equipped with sudden opulence and his tendency is to let the money burn a hole in his pocket. He changes his standards, spends lavishly and foolishly, neglects income and investment opportunities, concentrating on enjoyment, pleasure, party-giving and entertainment.

And, we are beginning to believe that because there are so very many of this kind of person, and so very few of truly Spartan virtues, that civilizations behave as they do. In short, as cultures become better as goods and services increase in kind and quality, as more leisure time is found, and so on, the vast majority of all persons tend to take advantage of this situation. They want to "live it up." And they do. They "lap it up." And presently it is gone and they have no more.

Take the lives of many of our famous movie stars, of men or women in the sports field, or in other pursuits wherein sudden success can simply pour wealth upon them. How many of them keep their feet under them; continue on as before? How many of them spend as though money were going out of style? How many of them end in pauper's graves, broken, forgotten, because, although they "struck it rich" at one time, they lacked the self-control necessary to preserve their good fortune?

If we are right in this supposition, then it would follow that one of the most important things we must learn ourselves and teach to our children is what we could call the stoic virtues.

These virtues are: self-control; forbearance; tolerance; hard work; endurance to hardship; endurance to pain; living the simple life; thrift; investment; avoidance of excessive entertainment and pleasure seeking; courage; perseverance; and, most of all, the long view which can make the future better than the past.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 510: 1. "Why don't you have your editorials on the first page?

2. "Could you make a profit if you refused to publicize most everything connected with government; i.e., promotions, speeches, activities of the armed forces, race riots, strikes (only opinions of non-strikers), politicians' mouthings?

3. "Please state a few of the first specific examples of the invasion of government in competition and private business after the ratification of the Constitution.

"Thank you.

—SALLY STERN

Answer: This question is asked occasionally. Some newspapers do publish editorials on their front page. Still other newspapers print their editorial views in large type.

And it is undoubtedly true that because we do not feature our editorials on the front page and, likewise, that we print them using the same kind of type that we use for ordinary news copy, some people overlook our editorial views.

This isn't what we want, of course. We think our editorial views are correct and that they are tremendously important. But we do not think that our views should be exalted and elevated above the news or above other views which we also publish.

So, we believe that the front page should be reserved as a news page. And whatever it is makes the news, we feel should be printed there or on other pages reserved for news. Now, we may not agree with the news. If we don't or if we have anything we want to say about it, we have the editorial page reserved for the expression of our opinion.

Therefore, we place our opinions on the editorial page and people interested in knowing how we react to news or what our principles are, or what our philosophy is, in general, can always find out by turning to that page. Those who are not interested can leave that page alone and confine themselves to the other sections of the newspaper.

Answer: 2. We might be able to make a profit, but we would not be a newspaper. Granted that government promotions, speeches and so on, are frequently items we do not approve of and of which we would just as soon not be reminded, the fact is that they are news. So we print them.

Statements made by office holders; various unpleasant things that happen such as race riots, strikes and so on, affect people. We believe they should have all the information in front of them and not just that which is pleasant.

So, the Gazette Telegraph is dedicated to bringing you all the news whether it is pleasant or unpleasant, and to getting it to you quickly and accurately. When we don't like it, we always have the editorial page where we can explain why we consider a particular action or opinion harmful and in error.

Answer: 3. Government began to invade the field of private enterprise almost at once in certain areas. It began to construct roads and harbors. It went into the operation of a postal system. It got into the banking business. It began to mint money. It began at an early date to take over the water resources of various regions in order to centrally manage them.

In each of the above cases, private and independent entrepreneurs were in these activities before the government intruded.

It comes as a surprise to many that private roads and harbors were first constructed, that private and competitive postal systems were widely in use, that private banks were in use and doing a good job, that private mints were striking off superior coin and that private water companies were managing the distribution of water.

President Washington asked for a federal subsidy for artists, actors, dancers, writers and so on, because he believed that a bit of federal encouragement would help to provide America with a "culture" of its own. We were often accused at that time of being backward and barbarous. John Adams, the second president, tried to regulate what people could say and read by introducing federal censorship.

Both of these proposals failed. But it is not too harsh to say that government, from its inception, has been used as a device to favor some at the expense of others, or to be used as a threat which would result in some kind of favoritism.

Report on The Assassination

U. S. News and World Report in its June 1 edition, offers a preview of the Warren report which is the result of the extensive investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy.

If this usually reliable magazine has capsulated the report, there are a great many people who aren't going to like what it says. But they are going to be confronted with evidence that is fairly overwhelming and conclusive.

The report will state that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone and without any conspiratorial connection with either "right" or "left" groups, is the man who pulled the trigger that brought about the death of President John Kennedy. We believe this information is important and so we wish to provide space to repeat what will surely be widely published.

There is no evidence that a plot of any kind existed which terminated in the assassination. It is always possible that some kind of plot did exist. The fact appears to be that Oswald was not connected in any way with such an effort.

Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald, similarly was acting alone.

Now, let's take the various rumors and dispose of them as best we can.

2. Rumor: A communist conspiracy was behind the assassination.

Answer: Oswald was a Marxist and a communist. But there is nothing in the mass of facts accumulated to link him to any conspiratorial effort. Investigators checked all clues in Dallas, Miami, New Orleans, New York and Mexico City. Russia provided two files on Oswald. There was no link-up.

3. Rumor: A "right-wing" conspiracy financed by Texas millionaires resulted in the assassination.

Answer: Poppycock. No facts in evidence at all. A vicious charge.

4. Rumor: There was a cover-up with Dallas police participating.

Answer: Not so. Dallas police were not gagged. They impounded certain evidence to hold it for official investigators. The evidence impounded helps to establish that Oswald acted alone.

5. Rumor: Four shots were fired instead of three.

Answer: The first shot hit the President's right shoulder. The second hit Texas Governor John Connally. A third hit the President's head. There was no fourth shot.

6. Rumor: There were two assassins involved.

Answer: Only one assassin took part. He was at the window of the sixth floor of the Texas School Depository Building. A wound in President Kennedy's throat was made by a fragment of the bullet which entered his head. Another fragment from the same bullet struck the back of the limousine's windshield. Newsmen who were not permitted to examine the hole in the windshield wrote speculative accounts as to the possibility of a fourth bullet.

7. Rumor: Jack Ruby killed Oswald to silence him.

Answer: The charge is without foundation. No substantial evidence has been uncovered linking the two men before Ruby killed Oswald.

8. Rumor: Somebody in Dallas wanted Oswald silenced.

Answer: Oswald's slaying of policeman J. D. Tippit and Oswald's subsequent slaying by Ruby were not connected events. There is no evidence of any effort being made by anyone to encourage Ruby in his murderous action.

9. Rumor: Chief Justice Warren made some discoveries concerning the murder which cannot be revealed while some of the persons involved are still alive.

Answer: Chief Justice Warren says that the parts of the report which are to be withheld deal with present security measures being handled by the FBI and the Secret Service. The report will contain recommendations on how to tighten the security network around the President. Mr. Warren claims that if everything here were revealed now, this might jeopardize U.S. security.

The Warren report will be one of the lengthiest documents ever released by the U.S. government. The facts appear to stand where we said they would stand months ago. Lee Oswald, of unstable mind and emotional outlook, performed the assassination. He was not paid for doing so and had no connection with any "plot" or "conspiracy" on either side of the political fence.

Allen-Scott Report

Big Boss White House Confab

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is undertaking a new personal appeal to business and labor to hold the line on wages and prices.

This latest plea will be made at an unusual gathering — a joint dinner for some 80 or 90 business and union executives at the White House, followed by Cabinet briefings and discussions.

Invitations to this unique management - labor get-together under direct presidential auspices are going out this week.

This dinner is a follow-up on two others the President already has held — separate black-tie affairs for business-men and laborites. At each the President urgently stressed the crucial necessity of averting strikes and increases in wages and prices.

Before deciding on the joint dinner, the President discussed the matter with auto - maker Henry Ford and AFL - CIO President George Meany. Both voiced hearty approval.

Indicative of the importance the President attaches to this exceptional affair is that it is being arranged by Clifton Carter, his top political lieutenant.

Also, Defense Secretary McNamara, former head of Ford Motor Co., and at the President's behest working quietly to forestall an auto strike, is in charge of the briefings by Cabinet members and other key officials.

A special report on the national economy and outlook will be presented by Walter Heller, head of the President's Council of the Economic Advisers.

MORE POLITICS

A spectacular publicity splash is slated by the Democratic $1,000 - a - member "President's Club."

It will take the form of a 24-page tabloid-sized color supplement that will be part of the Sunday, June 14, editions of 14 big-city newspapers in various parts of the country.

This unique political ad, titled "Mr. President: The Office and the Man," is being paid for by the "President's Club."

Democratic chiefs are uncommunicative about the cost, but newspaper sources estimate it at "several hundred thousand dollars."

The supplement was prepared by a Washington advertising firm, and personally approved by President Johnson.

At this week's big fund-raising combination dinner and gala in Washington, more than 800 $1,000-a-plate tickets were sold for the "President's Club" dinner — at which the President and Mrs. Johnson were the stellar guests. For a similar affair in New York Thursday night, more than 1,000 "President's Club" tickets at $1,000 a plate were sold.

Mrs. Johnson's enthusiastic participation in these affairs is a significant portent of things to come.

The First Lady will play a leading role in the fall election, and is busily preparing for that. She is being briefed by selected authorities and experts on a wide range of domestic and foreign subjects.

On international matters, Mrs. Johnson already has had briefings by McGeorge Bundy, White House special assistant in this field. He is also arranging for other specialists in foreign affairs and intelligence to meet with her.

Mrs. Johnson is evincing particular interest in the Sino-Russian feud and its effect on critical areas throughout the world.

'MEDITERRANEAN CUBA'

Russia is secretly arming leftist-ruled Algeria to the teeth.

President Ben Bella's army is now known to have around 150 latest-model Soviet tanks, several squadrons of MIG - 21 jet fighters, and a large number of heavy field guns and mortars. Russian technicians and specialists are training Algerians in the use of this equipment.

At the huge May Day celebration in Moscow, Ben Bella was the top foreign guest, filling the role taken by Fidel Castro last year. Like the Cuban dictator, Ben Bella was presented a high Soviet decoration.

Particularly disturbing to NATO authorities is the strong possibility that Algeria may acquire SA-2 high-level anti-aircraft missiles.

Intelligence has reported that a number of these powerful weapons were loaded at a Black Sea port recently. The French navy is keeping a close watch on the destination of these rockets — suspected to be Algeria.

So far, only four countries are definitely known to have these deadly Soviet missiles — Cuba, the United Arab Republic, Indonesia and Red China. Except in Cuba, where the SA-2s are still largely manned and controlled by Russian crews, the rockets are operated by native personnel.

So large has been the Soviet armament build-up in Algeria that U.S. military authorites now refer to it as the "Mediterranean Cuba."

President DeGaulle, who has been going out of his way to play footsie with the Reds, is reputedly greatly perturbed by this development. Privately, French military officials are making no secret of their concern.

The American Way

To Create Poverty

By HARRY BROWNE

The government's new "war on poverty" is attracting the support of many good people who would like to end the poor conditions that obviously exist for many Americans.

What we can't see, unfortunately, is the effect the "war on poverty" will have in creating even more of the same poverty that already exists.

For example, the government plans to spend $1 billion the first year on this program. Where will that $1 billion come from? Out of the air?

Of course not. It will come—as always — from the sweat and labor of the American taxpayer. For the government to have $1 billion to use in its anti-poverty crusade, the taxpayers will have to be impoverished by that same amount in order to provide the funds.

SOURCE

This means that somewhere there is a shopkeeper who is just barely making ends meet. His share of the anti-poverty cost will be just enough to put him out of business. And his three employees will be out on the street looking for work.

Somewhere else, a wealthy financier will ante up his share of the "war on poverty" cost—and that share will be enough to prevent him from building that new factory he had in mind. And so 200 jobs will be lost — and 200 families will be added to the poverty rolls —and the government will have 200 new reasons for taxing us even more to step up its anti-poverty campaign.

How do we know this is true? Because it could not possibly be otherwise. Those who say "let's wait and see — let's give the government a chance to prove itself" have their eyes shut. They need only look about them to see the poverty that has already been created by the government's attempts to be all things for all people. Confiscatory taxes, arbitrary and unrealistic laws and regulations—these are the things that create poverty, and until they're removed, poverty will continue to be a tradition.

SOLUTION

There is a cure for poverty. The cure is freedom — the freedom of each individual to control his own property, his own life, his own money.

Freedom protects each man's right to work wherever there's a need — without minimum wage laws, government-backed union demands, and confiscatory taxes to steal his job.

Freedom induces employers to create jobs in order to expand upon their own wealth. Freedom induces workers to go to work, rather than collect unemployment benefits. Freedom requires all people to serve their fellow men in order to make profits, earn raises, and advance their own interests.

The cure for poverty is to repeal all the anti-poverty legislation of the past 50 years. When the people once again have their own money to spend as they see fit, they will automatically create the jobs and the production and the wealth that will send our standard of living skyward again.

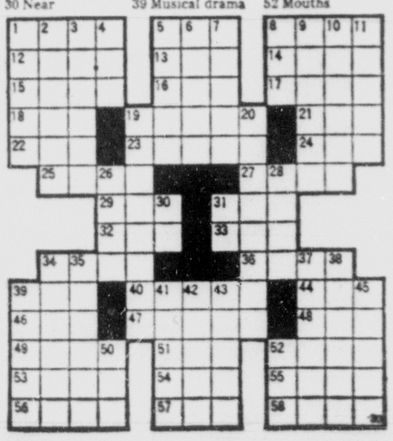
Answer to Previous Puzzle



The Socratic Method

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Socrates may or may not have been an Athenian philosopher who lived from B.C. 469 to 399. He left no written word. His most devoted followers wrote their recollections of what he had said and done. From these writings, we can take a look at a method of stimulating education which most teachers seem disinclined to use: a method of inquiry. This situation has prompted my further inquiry.

Probably my parents used this method when they taught me to read before I attended a school. I know I used a method of inquiry when I taught my daughter to read a couple of years before she was chased off to a socialist school because I had not, until that time, inquired into the immorality of the socialist school system. I didn't like it but that was as far as my thinking went. The school was there, attendance was compulsory, and I let it go at that. Before her first day in school was ended she was in the third grade and the third-grade teacher wanted to get rid of her. I remember that my daughter's mother told me the teachers seemed to resent our daughter's reading ability and this seemed mighty strange to me. To a casual observer it would seem that teachers might welcome a student who could read.

Examining the past more closely, brings to mind a grade-school teacher who was feared, disliked and respected. A child did not dare to fall asleep or daydream or become inattentive in her class. Why? I remember now that Mrs. Parsons did use the Socratic method whether she knew it or not. A former professional singer of opera, she was an impressive lady who worked very hard at trying to stimulate inquiring minds. I have never encountered another socialist school teacher who burned up so much concentrated energy, day after day.

At the risk of being accused of wanting to shove contemporary methods of schooling back to the days of Socrates, I insist that the four years of boredom in high school could easily be reduced to two years or less of stimulating encouragement designed to create a desire for knowledge and a very real enjoyment of learning through the use of a method of inquiry which might be Socratic in origin. In addition, I believe that every teacher utilizing this method would find his work more rewarding.

Obviously, I do not believe intelligent improvements will be made in a system of compulsory schooling which may be likened to a gigantic diploma mill from which graduates are spewed forth, unknowing and, generally, unthinking. I believe the possibility of improving private school methods may well be without any understandable limitation.

Over the weekend we enjoyed the company of knowing, responsible visitors from Santa Ana, California. Our good friends from Hurricane, Utah were also present and for a couple of hours I had an opportunity to take another good look at the method of inquiry during a discussion when the two male visitors, both past the age of consent, almost managed to get into an argument, despite the fact they hold almost identical beliefs. After I asked three questions, strategically placed, our visitors discovered they were in complete agreement. From this point on, our discussion resulted in progressively greater understanding of the problems under consideration.

Probably academic freedom is a prerequisite for utilizing the Socratic method of inquiry, meaning that rapid and thorough comprehension may not be achieved in an atmosphere of compulsion and enslavement, unless the subjects to be studied are limited to compulsion and enslavement. This also means that those who are learning to teach will not enjoy the rewards of a truly sound method as long as they, too, are plagued by compulsion and enslavement.

Several months ago I made a slightly fervent but carefully documented case for classroom periods of about two hours, as a method of saving a great deal of wasted time. The teaching method I have barely outlined here, properly used, would prevent classroom boredom.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

MAY VISITORS

To the Editor:

First I'd like to say your address, "Freedom — The American Adventure," presented to the Sheet Metal Air Conditioning National Association at the Broadmoor May 20, was most interesting and beautifully presented. Thank you!

Secondly, the following "inspiration" was written May 19 for me by Terry Bantick, wife of John Bantick, while attending the SMACNA Convention in Colorado Springs. I thought it most beautiful and worthy of publication in your newspaper, as it certainly conveys the feelings of all of us who were privileged to visit Colorado Springs this month.

"Inspiration" by Terry Bantick:

"One of God's creations is spread before us, a canopy of supreme beauty. Golden range lands stretch beyond to let us dream in peace and security, creeping slowly forward to a valley of rich greens and ponds of blue. What great love hath God to bestow them upon me and you.

"Woven with threads of the lilac purples, rich red soil dots the view, laced with stately trees, whose arms lift in praise reaching higher with the days. Gently sloping hills move quietly to become majestic mountains upon whose peaks lay crowns of white purity, to reach the heavenly skies of blue — all this and heaven, too."

RENDEZVOUS

To the Editor:

Somehow, that weird, foreboding poem, "I Have a Rendezvous With Death," comes to mind as one reads the excerpts from the Vietnam letters of combat pilot Capt. Edwin G. ("Jerry") Shank, to his young wife. Shank told how Americans are fighting with antiquated equipment and, shortly after writing these letters, "Jerry," on an air-strike mission, made the supreme sacrifice — he kept "a rendezvous with death" and, paradoxically, Life (magazine)

The Utah Teacher's Strike

From Rocky Mountain News

We favor adequate pay for teachers, but we wonder if U.S. teachers — or some of them, anyway — favor fair play with their employer, the public.

The 2-day strike of Utah's 11,000 teachers last week is a case in point.

The dispute began a year and a half ago when the Utah Legislature refused to accept all the recommendations for higher pay and other improvements suggested by a citizens' committee. The teachers, through their state organization affiliated with the National Education Assn. (NEA), threatened to boycott the schools last fall. During the summer the NEA calmed the dispute and Gov. George Clyde named a special investigative committee.

The group recently reported and asked for a legislative session to tack $6 million on teacher salaries. The governor said no, and the teachers "recessed" for two days. Now the NEA tells its members not to go to Utah to teach next fall and the Utah teachers are refusing to sign new contracts.

One part of the Utah teachers' stand strikes us as cynical. They say they will "make up" the lost two days by extending the school year. But they ask that next year's school year be cut 10 days so they can get their raise.

If Utah were Mississippi, where pay is really low, or Manhattan, where teaching chores are really onerous, there might be some justification for the Utah teachers' actions.

But there are no such mitigating circumstances.

Utah leads all states in percentage of state and local government income spent for schooling — 48.6 per cent. Utah's per capita income for education is fifth among the states, $94.73 a person, and its public school revenue from state and local sources is 5.7 per cent of personal income, tops in the nation.

The NEA continually preaches its faith in "professional negotiations," which it seeks to distinguish from trade unionism in some arcane manner. On the basis of the Utah strike, the distinction is invisible.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Stoic Virtues

It has been a matter of some historical concern that civilizations and cultures invariably seem to suffer their greatest setbacks from positions of relative security and affluence. So long as a given group of people are facing hardships and striving mightily to overcome natural obstacles and problems so long will they tend to generate a rising standard of behavior and an extension of their allotted span on earth.

But once a nation attains a kind of plateau where certainties of opulence replace the uncertainties engendered by poverty and lack, then it seems the generative and perpetuating influences wane. The stoic virtues are forgotten and replacing them come desires for luxury and entertainment. The culture becomes effete, soft, subservient.

There is no point in providing illustrations of this phenomenon. It appears to be a consensus among historians and philosophers that man can stand almost anything except success. The sturdy barbarian has a greater tendency to exert himself than the sophisticate and patrician.

And possibly we have a clue as to why this is so. We think it may relate to the enormous scarcity thus far in all cultures of truly entrepreneurial qualities. What do we mean by this?

If we examine any cross section of unusually wealthy and successful men, we will discover a fascinating characteristic they seem to have in common. We are not referring here to men who have had no part in the earning of the wealth they have under their control. We are talking about men who understand the rough and tumble of the market place and have won their positions competitively by dint of perseverance, hard work, thrift and some measure of entrepreneurial skill or good fortune.

One of the characteristics of this kind of man is that his living expenses do NOT keep pace with his earning capacity. As he grows in wealth and position, he does not do what the nouveau-riche are forever doing . . . spending to match or to exceed earnings.

On the contrary, the very wealthy man who has earned and is earning his position as he goes, sets a standard of living and tends to stay there with only modest variations. If he earns $15,000 per year, and is suddenly able to earn $150,000 per year, his expenses do not rise to meet his new income.

To observe him before his sudden rise to fortune, and then to observe him afterwards, finds you looking at the same man. His eating habits remain the same. He wears the same number of suits of clothing and he spends no more for them in spite of his obvious command of larger purchasing power. He sleeps in the same bed he slept in before. He does much as he did before. The increase of his position has done nothing except to make it possible for him to exercise larger judgment in the managing of investment opportunities.

But this is far from the custom of most people. Let the average man find himself equipped with sudden opulence and his tendency is to let the money burn a hole in his pocket. He changes his standards, spends lavishly and foolishly, neglects income and investment opportunities, concentrating on enjoyment, pleasure, party-giving and entertainment.

And, we are beginning to believe that because there are so very many of this kind of person, and so very few of truly Spartan virtues, that civilizations behave as they do. In short, as cultures become better as goods and services increase in kind and quality, as more leisure time is found, and so on, the vast majority of all persons tend to take advantage of this situation. They want to "live it up." And they do. They "lap it up." And presently it is gone and they have no more.

Take the lives of many of our famous movie stars, of men or women in the sports field, or in other pursuits wherein sudden success can simply pour wealth upon them. How many of them keep their feet under them, continue on as before? How many of them spend as though money were going out of style? How many of them end in pauper's graves, broken, forgotten, because although they "struck it rich" at one time, they lacked the self-control necessary to preserve their good fortune?

If we are right in this supposition, then it would follow that one of the most important things we must learn ourselves and teach to our children is what we could call the stoic virtues.

These virtues are self-control, forbearance, tolerance, hard work, endurance to hardship, endurance to pain, living the simple life, thrift, investment, avoidance of excessive entertainment and pleasure seeking, courage, perseverance, and, most of all, the long view which can make the future better than the past.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 510: 1. "Why don't you have your editorials on the first page?

2. "Could you make a profit if you refused to publicize most everything connected with government: i.e., promotions, speeches, activities of the armed forces, race riots, strikes (only opinions of non-strikers), politicians' mouthings?

3. "Please state a few of the first specific examples of the invasion of government in competition and private business after the ratification of the Constitution.

"Thank you.

—SALLY STERN

Answer: This question is asked occasionally. Some newspapers do publish editorials on their front page. Still other newspapers print their editorial views in large type.

And it is undoubtedly true that because we do not feature our editorials on the front page and, likewise, that we print them using the same kind of type that we use for ordinary news copy, some people overlook our editorial views.

This isn't what we want, of course. We think our editorial views are correct and that they are tremendously important. But we do not think that our views should be exalted and elevated above the news or above other views which we also publish.

So, we believe that the front page should be reserved as a news page. And whatever it is makes the news, we feel should be printed there or on other pages reserved for news. Now, we may not agree with the news. If we don't or if we have anything we want to say about it, we have the editorial page reserved for the expression of our opinion.

Therefore, we place our opinions on the editorial page and people interested in knowing how we react to news or what our principles are, or what our philosophy is, in general, can always find out by turning to that page. Those who are not interested can leave that page alone and confine themselves to the other sections of the newspaper.

Answer 2: We might be able to make a profit, but we would not be a newspaper. Granted that government promotions, speeches and so on are frequently items we do not approve of and of which we would just as soon not be reminded, the fact is that they are news. So we print them.

Statements made by office holders, various unpleasant things that happen such as race riots, strikes and so on, affect people. We believe they should have all the information in front of them and not just that which is pleasant.

So the Gazette Telegraph is dedicated to bringing you all the news whether it is pleasant or unpleasant and is getting it to you quickly and accurately. When we don't like it we always have the editorial page where we can explain why we consider a particular action or opinion harmful and in error.

Answer 3: Government began to invade the field of private enterprise almost at once and in certain areas. It began to construct roads and harbors. It went into the operation of a postal system. It got into the banking business. It began to print money. It began at an early date to take over the water resources of various regions in order to centrally manage them.

In each of the above cases private and independent enterprises were in these activities before the government intruded.

It comes as a surprise to many that private roads and harbors were first constructed, that private and competitive postal systems were widely in use, that private banks were in use and doing a good job, that private mints were striking superior coin and that private water companies were managing the distribution of water.

President Washington asked for a federal subsidy for artists, actors, dancers, writers and so on, because he believed that a bit of federal encouragement would help to provide America with a "culture" of its own. We were often accused at that time of being backward and barbarous. John Adams, the second president, tried to regulate what people could say and read by introducing federal censorship.

Both of these proposals failed. But it is not too harsh to say that government, from its inception, has been used as a device to favor some at the expense of others, or to be used as a threat which would result in some kind of favoritism.

Report on The Assassination

U. S. News and World Report to establish that Oswald acted alone.

In its June 1 edition, offers a preview of the Warren report which is the result of the extensive investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy.

If this usually reliable magazine has capsulated the report, there are a great many people who aren't going to like what it says. But they are going to be confronted with evidence that is fairly overwhelming and conclusive.

The report will state that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone and without any conspiratorial connection with either "right" or "left" groups, is the man who pulled the trigger that brought about the death of President John Kennedy. We believe this information is important and so we wish to provide space to repeat what will surely be widely published.

There is no evidence that a plot of any kind existed which terminated in the assassination. It is always possible that some kind of plot did exist. The fact appears to be that Oswald was not connected in any way with such an effort.

Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald, similarly was acting alone.

Now, let's take the various rumors and dispose of them as best we can.

2. Rumor: A communist conspiracy was behind the assassination.

Answer: Oswald was a Marxist and a communist. But there is nothing in the mass of facts accumulated to link him to any conspiratorial effort. Investigators checked all clues in Dallas, Miami, New Orleans, New York and Mexico City. Russia provided two files on Oswald. There was no link-up.

3. Rumor: A "right-wing" conspiracy financed by Texas millionaires resulted in the assassination.

Answer: Poppycock. No facts in evidence at all. A vicious charge.

4. Rumor: There was a cover-up with Dallas police participating.

Answer: Not so. Dallas police were not gagged. They impounded certain evidence to hold it for official investigators. The evidence impounded helps to establish that Oswald acted alone.

5. Rumor: Four shots were fired instead of three.

Answer: The first shot hit the President's right shoulder. The second hit Texas Governor John Connally. A third hit the President's head. There was no fourth shot.

6. Rumor: There were two assassins involved.

Answer: Only one assassin took part. He was at the window of the sixth floor of the Texas School Depository Building. A wound in President Kennedy's throat was made by a fragment of the bullet which entered his head. Another fragment from the same bullet struck the back of the limousine's windshield. Newsmen who were not permitted to examine the hole in the windshield wrote speculative accounts as to the possibility of a fourth bullet.

7. Rumor: Jack Ruby killed Oswald to silence him.

Answer: The charge is without foundation. No substantial evidence has been uncovered linking the two men before Ruby killed Oswald.

8. Rumor: Somebody in Dallas wanted Oswald silenced.

Answer: Oswald's slaying of policeman J. D. Tippit and Oswald's subsequent slaying by Ruby were not connected events. There is no evidence of any effort being made by anyone to encourage Ruby in his murderous action.

9. Rumor: Chief Justice Warren made some discoveries concerning the murder which cannot be revealed while some of the persons involved are still alive.

Answer: Chief Justice Warren says that the parts of the report which are to be withheld deal with present security measures being handled by the FBI and the Secret Service. The report will contain recommendations on how to tighten the security network around the President. Mr. Warren claims that if everything here were revealed now, this might jeopardize U.S. security.

The Warren report will be one of the lengthiest documents ever released by the U.S. government. The facts appear to stand where we said they would stand months ago. Lee Oswald, of unstable mind and emotional outlook, performed the assassination. He was not paid for doing so and had no connection with any "plot" or "conspiracy" on either side of the political fence.

Allen-Scott Report

Big Boss White House Confab

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is undertaking a new personal appeal to business and labor to hold the line on wages and prices.

This latest plea will be made at an unusual gathering — a joint dinner for some 50 or 60 business and union executives at the White House followed by Cabinet briefings and discussions.

Invitations to this unique management - labor get-together are under direct presidential auspices are going out this week.

This dinner is a follow-up to two others the President already has held — separate, black-tie affairs for businessmen and laborites. At each the President urgently stressed the critical necessity of averting strikes and increases in wages and prices.

Before deciding on the joint dinner, the President discussed the matter with auto union chief Walter Reuther and AFL - CIO President George Meany. Both voiced hearty approval.

Indicative of the importance the President attaches to this exceptional affair is that it is being arranged by Clifton Carter, his top political lieutenant.

Also, Defense Secretary McNamara, former head of Ford Motor Co., and at the President's behest working quietly to forestall an auto strike, is in charge of the briefings by Cabinet members and other key officials.

A special report on the national economy and outlook will be presented by Walter Heller, head of the President's Council of the Economic Advisers.

MORE POLITICS

It will take the form of a 24-page tabloid-sized color supplement that will be part of the Sunday, June 14, editions of 14 big-city newspapers in various parts of the country.

This unique political ad, titled "Mr. President: The Office and the Man," is being paid for by the "President's Club."

The American Way

To Create Poverty

By HARRY BROWNE

The government's new war on poverty is attacking the subject in many ways. We would like to point out that there are many Americans who will be hurt by this program.

What we can't see unfortunately is the extent to which the war on poverty will have in creating more of the same poverty that already exists.

For example, the government plans to spend $1 billion the first year on this program. Where will that $1 billion come from? Out of the air?

Of course not. It will come, as always — from the sweat and labor of the American taxpayer. For the government to have $1 billion to use in its anti-poverty campaign, the taxpayers will have to be impoverished by that same amount in order to provide the funds.

[illegible] just have to make ends meet. His share of the anti-poverty cost will be just enough to put him out of business. And his three employees will be out on the street looking for work.

Somewhere else a wealthy financier will ante up his share of the war on poverty cost — and that share will be enough to prevent him from building that new factory he had in mind. And so 200 jobs will be lost — and 200 families will be added to the poverty rolls — and the government will have 200 new reasons for taxing us even more to step up its anti-poverty campaign.

How do we know this is true? Because it could not possibly be otherwise. Those who say "let's wait and see — let's give the government a chance to prove itself" have their eyes shut. They need only look about them to see the poverty that has already been created by the government's attempts to be all things for all people. Confiscatory taxes, arbitrary and unrealistic laws and regulations — these are the things that create poverty, and until they're removed, poverty will continue to be a tradition.

SOLUTION

There is a cure for poverty. The cure is freedom — the freedom of each individual to control his own property, his own money.

Freedom protects each man's right to work wherever there's a need — without minimum wage laws, government-backed union demands, and confiscatory taxes to steal his job.

Freedom induces employers to create jobs in order to expand upon their own wealth. Freedom induces workers to go to work, rather than collect unemployment benefits. Freedom requires all people to serve their fellow men in order to make profits, earn raises, and advance their own interests.

The cure for poverty is to repeal all the anti-poverty legislation of the past 50 years. When the people once again have their own money to spend as they see fit, they will automatically create the jobs and the production and the wealth that will send our standard of living skyward again.

MEDITERRANEAN CUBA?

Russia is secretly arming [illegible]-trained Algeria to the teeth.

President Ben Bella's army is now known to have around 150 latest-model Soviet tanks, several squadrons of MIG - 21 jet fighters and a large number of heavy field guns and mortars. Russian technicians and specialists are training Algerians in the use of this equipment.

At the huge May Day celebration in Moscow, Ben Bella was the top foreign guest, filling the role taken by Fidel Castro last year. Like the Cuban dictator, Ben Bella was presented a high Soviet decoration.

Particularly disturbing to NATO authorities is the strong possibility that Algeria may acquire SA-2 high-level anti-aircraft missiles.

Intelligence has reported that a number of these powerful weapons were loaded at a Black Sea port recently. The French navy is keeping a close watch on the destination of these rockets — suspected to be Algeria.

So far, only four countries are definitely known to have these deadly Soviet missiles — Cuba, the United Arab Republic, Indonesia and Red China. Except in Cuba, where the SA-2s are still largely manned and controlled by Russian crews, the rockets are operated by native personnel.

So large has been the Soviet armament build-up in Algeria that U.S. military authorites now refer to it as the "Mediterranean Cuba."

(But, the Pentagon says Life distorted the facts. Life, while conceding two word-mistakes because of illegibility, said: "Nothing in Life's presentation . . . altered or distorted Captain Shank's basic message to the American people — that he and his friends were supplied with obsolete and faulty equipment." Mrs. Shank said that Life "did perfect justice to what my husband was trying to get across." The reputable U.S. News told practically the same story in its 5-11-64 issue.)

And now, in the June 1, 1964 U.S. News, comes another "inferior planes" story. This is another U.S. combat pilot (name withheld) in Vietnam writing to his wife as follows: "Yes, we have seen Captain Shank's letters. His facts are right, of course, but saying so is not consistent with policy and we are under orders on this. Anybody giving out the awful truth will be in hot water. This is the sort of thing that a person must see with his own eyes to believe. We feel that if they can send first-class men over here, we should have first-class equipment, but they seem to think this is a good place to unload all the worn-out junk."

What goes on in Washington, anyway? We sneer at the Iron-Curtain governments for withholding damaging news from their people. Isn't Washington doing the same thing in order to cover up the miserable failures of its no-win policy in fighting the Communists?

Don't you and I have a duty to write to our President — a couple of lines will do — asking him to push a long-overdue investigation of our State Department and foreign-policy-making groups before they gamble away the very U.S. itself? And, before countless other fine young Americans will be forced to keep a needless, useless rendezvous with death?

WE HAVE DRIFTED

To the Editor:

The serpent of proscription which has crawled down from the Dark Ages has wrapped its scaly coils around the pillars of American justice and thrust its forked tongue into the face of the Goddess of Liberty. Any man who will proscribe another because of race, religion or profession is not familiar with the principles of American Liberty.

If and when some elected officials quit destroying our Constitution, and return individual liberty, this nation will again be regarded as morally and economically superior. The curse of the country is too many laws. There is not a lawyer or a judge in this country who knows what is prohibited until he spends two months looking it up in the statute books.

We have drifted from a democracy and representative government to government by bureaus and commissions which operate on the basic principles of socialism and paternalism and it is creating much dissatisfaction among genuine Americans.

Law, to be respected, must be respectable. It must be just and reasonable. Its purpose must not be to invade, but to define and protect natural rights. The great object of American government is not to resist but to foster liberty — from city councils to our congress.

When officials give the oath of office, to uphold our Constitution, and immediately sit at the conference table and vote to destroy the liberty of the minority in favor of the majority, the irony is symbolic of biblical history and will accomplish one of two things — people will turn either against their lawmakers or against the Constitution itself.

LOST ANY LIBERTY?

To the Editor:

Have you lost any liberty?

1. You have lost the use of your money that is used to pay farmers for not growing wheat, cotton, rice, and other products.

2. Your money is used to support prices on cheese, butter and other items so they will not be bought by customers, but accumulate in U.S. storage.

3. Your money is used to pay for urban renewal and many other city projects.

4. Your money is used to provide power and lights at less than cost to residents of Tennessee Valley.

5. Your money is used to subsidize socialistic foreign governments. Your freedom of choice to spend your own money is limited to the amount left after the taxes have been spent for things you may not approve of.

If you are a manufacturer you cannot give quantity discounts. If you own a railroad you have to pay for featherbedding, like it or not. If you have a newspaper that carries advertising that comes in mats prepared for publishing, you haven't liberty to refuse to pay for useless typesetting. (Ed. note: Not at the Gazette Telegraph, Mr. Welsh.) If you are an employee in many cases you are compelled to belong to the union. As a U.S. citizen you cannot exchange goods or services for gold.

Your freedom to enter many businesses and professions is subject to obtaining a license from the government. Mergers are prohibited. You can't sell your property to whom you wish. Employees cannot bargain with their employer, and cannot select their own bargaining unit. Many employers have lost the right to hire and fire their own employees.

Do you have a list of all the restraints to creative and productive action imposed by government, federal and state, county and city? If you have, you have the answer to the above question.

The liberty to choose, is the core of the liberty apple. It may be (after the Civil Rights Bill is passed) there ain't gonna be no core. I hope those poor congressmen, who support that bill, will be the first ones to feel its effect. Suppose one of them has a fine house in a nice white neighborhood, good friends all around, and he is compelled to sell to the first one that offers to pay his price, and that one happens to be a——, he will lose all his friends. This Civil Rights Bill is the thing to fight right now. Write our senators and let them know that the majority of the voters hate the thought of this monster. It will infiltrate into every business, school, church, building contract, bank, and home. The federal committee and judges will have to merit their jobs by convictions, and a man that is accused, whether guilty or not, will have small chance to win acquittal. The preponderance of the evidence is agin him.

During a meeting in Teall's Tavern in 1808, Elmira Teall climbed into the lap of Assemblyman Emmanuel Coryell, who headed a committee to find a new name for Newton. The town fathers thought there were too many Newtons in the state.

Coryell decided Elmira would be a right pretty name for a young frontier town.

Silver Plaques Awarded Two Wasson Students

Two Wasson High School students, Thomas MacIver, 11th grade, and John Weigel, 12th grade, are among four youngsters named winners of silver plaque awards in the national Ford–Future Scientists of America program.

Two other Colorado winners are: Richard Varnes, 9th grade, Arvada; and Gary Hudson, 8th grade, Branson.

Their names were announced jointly by Robert D. Bond, manager of educational affairs for Ford Motor Co., and Walter R. Brown, director of youth activities for the National Science Teachers Association.

The program is sponsored by Ford Motor Co. and conducted by the National Science Teachers Association to encourage high school students to undertake research projects involving physical or life sciences or mathematics. Competition was open to students in grades 7 through 12 attending public, private, or parochial schools in the United States.

Students selected the subject of their own research project or experiment. Working under the guidance of the science teacher, they completed the project and compiled a formal research report. Only the report was submitted for judging.

Entrants were divided into three groups, competing with each other in their own grade level group in each of 12 regions across the country.

Regional winners in the 11th and 12th grades were eligible for 20 national awards. A total of 720 national and regional awards were presented.

National Award winners receive a $300 college assistance scholarship. In every region two outstanding entries in each grade classification receives bonds ranging from $25 to $100 in value. All other winners receive silver plaques.

Top Palmer Students Receive Honor Awards

India Is Facing Rivalry Between Top Candidates

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A leadership left vacant by the death of Prime Minister Nehru threatened today to plunge India into political crisis.

Rivalry among candidates for prime minister threatened to break into an open battle which could do serious harm to the nation and Nehru's ruling Congress party.

The capital's newspapers devoted front pages to the cremation rites for the 74-year-old Nehru Thursday. But editorial pages were given over to somber reflections on the future.

There were demands that the Congress party settle its quarrels quietly and make a unanimous choice, to avoid feeding the fires of factionalism and separatism that kept Nehru from tearing India apart.

"In this hour of great sorrow," said the Indian Express, "the Congress party must rise to the occasion."

The Statesman said Nehru's "reluctance to nominate or groom any one of the leaders as his clear and undisputed successor would not have been so disquieting had he left behind a well disciplined cadre dedicated to the ideals of Nehruism or even a well disciplined party machine."

A Congress spokesman said party leaders had not decided when to hold the election.

The leading candidates are minister without portfolio Lal Bahadur Shastri, Acting Prime Minister Nanda and Fihance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari.

Shastri was one of Nehru's best friends and has widespread support in the party. A well-informed source said he had assurances of support from President Radhakrishnan and Kumaraswami Kamaraj, president of the party.

The two dark horse candidates are Indira Gandhi, Nehru's daughter, and Morarji Desai, a conservative former finance minister who has threatened an all-out fight.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Herman Spiker blamed a railroad train when his car was hit by a flying garbage can.

Patrolman R. E. Huber said the huge garbage container owned by the city had been emptied by a truck, then put down too close to the railroad tracks.

District 11 A-V Man to Provide Teaching Ideas

William P. Wells, recently appointed director of the Department of Audio - Visual Services, will provide leadership and ideas in the areas of new teaching techniques, according to Thomas B. Doherty, District 11 superintendent of schools.

The superintendent describes Wells as a man with ideas, enthusiasm, and imagination. The new director, who will join the District 11 staff in August, is interested in the application of technological devices to teaching, Doherty says.

Wells will receive his doctoral degree in audio - visual education this summer from Washington State University. While studying for the degree, he has also been assistant director of the University's Audio - Visual Department.

After receiving his B. S. degree in education from Eastern Oregon State College in 1952, Wells spent four years as a classroom teacher in the Salem, Ore., schools. In 1957 he became a supervising teacher and director of audio - visual education at the Oregon college.

Wells has been active in professional organizations, serving as president of the Union County Chapter of the Oregon Education Association and as a member of the OEA's Representative Council. He was also president of the Oregon State Audio - Visual Education Association and of the Board of Directors of the National Audio-Visual Education Association.

Wells is married and the father of two sons.

India's Congress Party Meets to Select Chief

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The high command of India's ruling Congress party met today to discuss the selection of a successor to the late Prime Minister Nehru.

The leaders are striving to avert a power struggle that could rock the party and endanger the nation's stability.

The immediate task before the high command, known as the working committee, was to set a date for electing a parliamentary leader who automatically will become head of government.

The committee also deliberated whether to agree on a candidate and offer official advice to other Congress party members in Parliament. The party's members of Parliament will elect the man who gets the top job.

A move to postpone the succession issue for two months has proved extremely unpopular in Congress circles. The postponement proposal was seen as a move to enhance the position of acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda, who moved up from his Cabinet post of home minister to form a caretaker government after Nehru died Wednesday.

Backers of Lal Bahadur Shastri, minister without portfolio, resisted the postponement. So did the supporters of right-wing candidate Morarji Desai, a former finance minister. Desai threw the Congress party into an uproar by letting it be known he was going to fight for the top job even if party solidarity was endangered.

The Congress party committee met today in Nehru's official mansion, so that his mourning daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, could take part.

Mrs. Gandhi, an influential figure in Congress politics, reportedly informed the 18-member committee Friday night that she would not campaign to succeed her father. She had been considered a possible candidate.

Reports spread through Congress circles that Mrs. Gandhi was interested in joining the Cabinet later as foreign minister.

Colorado CAP Authorized to Create Vacancies

The United States Air Force has authorized the Colorado Wing of the Civil Air Patrol additional vacancies for new members in the 1963 fall activities program according to Col. Arthur F. Putz, wing commander.

The Civil Air Patrol, officially the auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, has 43 squadrons located throughout Colorado and provides a variety of interesting activities in aviation training, aero - space education and emergency services.

The cadet program is open to any boy and girl over the age of 13. Adults and members over 18 are considered senior members and serve as instructors or leaders of the younger members, according to Col. Putz. He pointed out that the CAP gives youngsters their only chance to learn many facets of aviation and combines training with fun. He cited as an example that many girls work with communication sets and participate in radio communications with other members throughout the state.

One of the unique factors of the organization is that, although it is the auxiliary of the Air Force, all members volunteer their services. The uniform and equipment are provided to the cadets without cost. The various squadrons enjoy social functions throughout the year and participate in local civic affairs. Advanced cadets often have a chance to participate in actual orientation flights in airplanes with skilled veteran pilots.

Nearly 1,000 boys and girls in Colorado are cadets of the Civil Air Patrol, said Col. Putz. There are vacancies for senior members as well as cadets in a number of squadrons in the state. Col. Putz urged interested persons to contact the Civil Air Patrol squadron in their area for additional information. He pointed out that there are squadrons in most communities in Colorado. There are still a few towns, however, that do not have the CAP Aero - space Education Program available to their young people.

He urged any one interested in obtaining additional information on squadron organization to contact his office: Colorado Wing, Civil Air Patrol, P.O. Box 1547, Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

Realism Keynote Of Forest Fire Training Sessions

The room may be air conditioned, and the heat and smell of smoke will be missing. Just about everything else, however, will be involved in forest fire supervisory training sessions scheduled June 15-19 at Custer, S.D.

Sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Region, U.S. Forest Service, the fire training program will be attended by state foresters of Colorado, Nebraska and South Dakota, as well as representatives of national forests in Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota.

The training session will utilize the Forest Service's new fire control simulator — a device hailed as a major breakthrough in fire control training. Conceived and developed by the Division of Fire Control of the Forest Service, the fire simulator uses a multiple projector system to reproduce flame and smoke onto a project wide-screen image of an actual forest scene.

Adding to the scene are taped sound effects to create the sound and fury of a forest fire. The trainees sit in specially designed enclosures and telephones, two-way radios, maps and weather reports are at hand. It's up to the trainee fire-boss to decide what men and equipment should be ordered to combat and suppress the "fire." The projection operators manipulate fire conditions on the screen to correspond with the trainee's decisions.

Throughout the exercise, realistic fire problems such as wind changes, equipment breakdowns, spot fires, and evacuation of injured personnel can be interjected by the instructors to test the trainee's ability for making decisions under pressure.

The trainees are divided into fire teams, consisting of a fire boss, line boss, plans chief, service chief and air attack boss. Most of the trainees for the Rocky Mountain Region session are already experienced fire-fighters.

Colonel Retires, Receives Cluster To Army Medal

Col. Robert N. Swartz has has been awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Army Commendation Medal upon completion of his final assignment before retirement from the Army. The colonel has also been recommended for an award of the Legion of Merit.

Since April, 1960, Col. Swartz has been engineer of the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM) at its headquarters here.

Presentation of the award and of the colonel's certificate of retirement was made by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commanding general of ARADCOM.

Col. Swartz saw more than 24 years of service, including combat duty during World War II, when he was commanding officer of an engineer combat battalion in the Mediterranean and European theaters of operation.

Barry to Face Competition From Nixon, Too

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's apparent hold on the Nebraska delegation to the National Republican Convention will be under pressure at the state party convention Monday from three sources.

In the May 12 primary five of the six district delegates elected had announced for Goldwater.

Ten are to be elected at the state convention and Goldwater slates are to be presented from each of the state's three congressional districts.

The moves to break Goldwater's apparent hold will come from backers of Richard M. Nixon, Henry Cabot Lodge and Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Fred A. Seaton, Hastings, former interior secretary under President Dwight D. Eisenhower, said "I intend to do whatever I can to encourage delegates and alternates who may be elected, who may be tied to other candidates to give Dick Nixon second choice.

"I'm going to get votes for Nixon — first, second or third choice."

Seaton led the Nixon write-in campaign in the primary. Nixon got 31.4 per cent of the votes.

Seaton said it appears there will be a majority of Goldwater delegates, but pointed out that Goldwater, the only candidate whose name was on the ballot, was a minority winner with 49.5 per cent of the vote. Lodge got 16.3 per cent and Rockefeller 1.7 per cent.

The primary results were not binding on the six elected delegates and since then Nate Holman Jr., Lincoln, leader of the Lodge forces, and John C. Mason, Lincoln, Rockefeller's Nebraska chief, have called for an uncommitted delegation to the national convention.

India Is Facing Rivalry Between Top Candidates

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A leadership left vacant by the death of Prime Minister Nehru threatened today to plunge India into political crisis.

Rivalry among candidates for prime minister threatened to break into an open battle which could do serious harm to the nation and Nehru's ruling Congress party.

The capital's newspapers devoted front pages to the cremation rites for the 74-year-old Nehru Thursday. But editorial pages were given over to somber reflections on the future.

There were demands that the Congress party settle its quarrels quietly and make a unanimous choice, to avoid feeding the fires of factionalism and separatism that kept Nehru from tearing India apart.

"In this hour of great sorrow," said the Indian Express, "the Congress party must rise to the occasion."

The Statesman said Nehru's "reluctance to nominate or groom any one of the leaders as his clear and undisputed successor would not have been so disquieting had he left behind a well disciplined cadre dedicated to the ideals of Nehruism or even a well disciplined party machine."

A Congress spokesman said party leaders had not decided when to hold the election.

The leading candidates are minister without portfolio Lal Bahadur Shastri, Acting Prime Minister Nanda and Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari.

Shastri was one of Nehru's best friends and has widespread support in the party. A well-informed source said he had assurances of support from President Radhakrishnan and Kumaraswami Kamaraj, president of the party.

Nanda draws his backing from the party's Socialist wing. Krishnamachari gets his support from conservative businessmen and from his native South India.

The two dark horse candidates are Indira Gandhi, Nehru's daughter and Morarji Desai, a conservative former finance minister who has threatened an all-out fight.

District 11 A-V Man to Provide Teaching Ideas

William P. Wells, recently appointed director of the Department of Audio - Visual Services, will provide leadership and ideas in the areas of new teaching techniques, according to Thomas B. Doherty, District 11 superintendent of schools.

The superintendent describes Wells as a man with ideas, enthusiasm, and imagination. The new director, who will join the District 11 staff in August, is interested in the application of technological devices to teaching, Doherty says.

Wells will receive his doctoral degree in audio - visual education this summer from Washington State University. While studying for the degree, he has also been assistant director of the University's Audio - Visual Department.

After receiving his B. S. degree in education from Eastern Oregon State College in 1952, Wells spent four years as a classroom teacher in the Salem, Ore., schools. In 1957 he became a supervising teacher and director of audio - visual education at the Oregon college.

Wells has been active in professional organizations, serving as president of the Union County Chapter of the Oregon Education Association and as a member of the OEA's Representative Council. He was also president of the Oregon State Audio - Visual Education Association and of the Board of Directors of the National Audio-Visual Education Association.

Wells is married and the father of two sons.

FLYING GARBAGE

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Herman Spiker blamed a railroad train when his car was hit by a flying garbage can.

Patrolman R. E. Huber said the huge garbage container owned by the city had been emptied by a truck, then put down too close to the railroad tracks.

India's Congress Party Meets to Select Chief

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The high command of India's ruling Congress party met today to discuss the selection of a successor to the late Prime Minister Nehru.

The leaders are striving to avert a power struggle that could rock the party and endanger the nation's stability.

The immediate task before the high command, known as the working committee, was to set a date for electing a parliamentary leader who automatically will become head of government.

The committee also deliberated whether to agree on a candidate and offer official advice to other Congress party members in Parliament. The party's members of Parliament will elect the man who gets the top job.

A move to postpone the succession issue for two months has proved extremely unpopular in Congress circles. The postponement proposal was seen as a move to enhance the position of acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda, who moved up from his Cabinet post of home minister to form a caretaker government after Nehru died Wednesday.

Backers of Lal Bahadur Shastri, minister without portfolio, resisted the postponement. So did the supporters of right-wing candidate Morarji Desai, a former finance minister. Desai threw the Congress party into an uproar by letting it be known he was going to fight for the top job even if party solidarity was endangered.

The Congress party committee met today in Nehru's official mansion, so that his mourning daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, could take part.

Mrs. Gandhi, an influential figure in Congress politics, reportedly informed the 18-member committee Friday night that she would not campaign to succeed her father. She had been considered a possible candidate.

Reports spread through Congress circles that Mrs. Gandhi was interested in joining the Cabinet later as foreign minister.

Colorado CAP Authorized to Create Vacancies

The United States Air Force has authorized the Colorado Wing of the Civil Air Patrol, additional vacancies for new members in the 1963 fall activities program according to Col. Arthur F. Putz, wing commander.

The Civil Air Patrol, officially the auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force, has 43 squadrons located throughout Colorado and provides a variety of interesting activities in aviation training, aero - space education and emergency services.

The cadet program is open to any boy and girl over the age of 13. Adults and members over 18 are considered senior members and serve as instructors or leaders of the younger members, according to Col. Putz. He pointed out that the CAP gives youngsters their only chance to learn many facets of aviation and combines training with fun. He cited as an example that many girls work with communication sets and participate in radio communications with other members throughout the state.

One of the unique factors of the organization is that, although it is the auxiliary of the Air Force, all members volunteer their services. The uniform and equipment are provided to the cadets without cost. The various squadrons enjoy social functions throughout the year and participate in local civic affairs. Advanced cadets often have a chance to participate in actual orientation flights in airplanes with skilled veteran pilots.

Nearly 1,000 boys and girls in Colorado are cadets of the Civil Air Patrol, said Col. Putz. There are vacancies for senior members as well as cadets in a number of squadrons in the state. Col. Putz urged interested persons to contact the Civil Air Patrol squadron in their area for additional information. He pointed out that there are squadrons in most communities in Colorado. There are still a few towns, however, that do not have the CAP Aero - space Education Program available to their young people.

He urged any one interested in obtaining additional information on squadron organization to contact his office: Colorado Wing, Civil Air Patrol, P.O. Box 1547, Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

Realism Keynote Of Forest Fire Training Sessions

The room may be air conditioned and the heat and smell of smoke will be missing. Just about everything else, however, will be involved in forest fire supervisory training sessions scheduled June 15-19 at Custer, S.D.

Sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Region, U.S. Forest Service, the fire training program will be attended by state foresters of Colorado, Nebraska and South Dakota, as well as representatives of national forests in Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota.

The training session will utilize the Forest Service's new fire control simulator — a device hailed as a major breakthrough in fire control training. Conceived and developed by the Division of Fire Control of the Forest Service, the fire simulator uses a multiple projector system to reproduce flame and smoke onto a project wide-screen image of an actual forest scene.

Adding to the scene are taped sound effects to create the sound and fury of a forest fire. The trainees sit in specially designed enclosures and telephones, two-way radios, maps and weather reports are at hand. It's up to the trainee fire-boss to decide what men and equipment should be ordered to combat and suppress the "fire." The projection operators manipulate fire conditions on the screen to correspond with the trainee's decisions.

Throughout the exercise, realistic fire problems such as wind changes, equipment breakdowns, spot fires, and evacuation of injured personnel can be interjected by the instructors to test the trainee's ability for making decisions under pressure.

The trainees are divided into fire teams, consisting of a fire boss, line boss, plans chief, service chief and air attack boss. Most of the trainees for the Rocky Mountain Region session are already experienced fire-fighters.

Some Civilians Had Ball With Big 'Desert Strike'

BLYTHE, Calif. (AP) — The Army may be glad to be going home from the desert, but some civilians are sorry Operation Desert Strike maneuvers are over. They've had a ball, those civilians.

College students—for the most part—have had fun in the maneuvers.

The Los Angeles Times reported that John Miller, 21, and John Wiley, 19, both students at Palo Verde College here, told of capturing a sentry post Friday manned by soldiers from the mythical nation of Nezona.

The youths said:

They drove onto the desert late Thursday night using their dune buggy—the desert version of a hot rod. When they spotted a sentry post they parked, crawled up close and concealed themselves behind bushes.

Six soldiers manned the post, most of them asleep.

Miller and Wiley, using a gimmick from obsolete cowboy movies, lit firecrackers and threw them in all directions.

When the noise subsided, they shouted:

"O.K., you're surrounded. Throw down your weapons and put your hands up."

Faced with apparently overwhelming odds, the six sentries complied. Miller and Wiley then stepped forward to reveal their hoax.

Other civilians also got into the spirit of the thing. When Nezonan troops invaded their Calonian countryside, people in Needles, Calif., made a Calonian flag and raised it over the city while surrounded by hostile troops.

With that kind of harrassment, no wonder the maneuvers, involving 100,000 men, stopped a day early.

The war over water rights to the Colorado River officially ended at 5 p.m. Friday. Mock battles, including Air Force enemy installations, continued up to the deadline.

Poultry Industry Winning Common Market Conflict

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The U.S. poultry industry is winning the chicken war with the Common Market, say two poultry experts.

M. H. Simmons of Siloam Springs, Ark., general manager of Plus Poultry Inc., and board chairman of the Institute of American Poultry Industries, says some Common Market countries are buying American chickens again despite a 40-per cent tariff.

And he said, the chicken war sent American poultrymen scurrying for new business. They found it in Latin America and the Far East.

Japan took 10 million pounds of U.S. poultry last year and will take 20 million pounds this year, Simmons said in an interview.

Ed Harms, executive secretary of the Arkansas Poultry Federation, agreed. He said poultry exports are up 38 per cent over last year, mostly because of the new markets.

Still, said Simmons, two of the six members of the European Common Market — West Germany and Italy — are among the biggest buyers of American chickens.

"The tariff has done more to decrease the profit of the importer than to reduce the retail price," Simmons said.

Simmons said he hoped negotiations underway in Geneva would provide relief "in the way of lowering the import duty."

In addition to Italy and West Germany, Common Market members are France, Luxemburg, the Netherlands and Belgium.

TOPS 2,000 HOURS—This is the first T-39 Sabreliner in the Air Defense Command to better the 2,000 hour mark for flying time. Number 03501, based at Peterson Field, has theoretically flown 1 million miles which is equivalent to 40 trips around the earth at the equator. On hand to observe the occasion are Airman 2.C. Steve Cook, an assistant crew chief; Airman 2.C. Thomas McKnight, airborne mechanic; Col. Raymond E. Smith, 4600th Air Base Wing deputy for operations and maintenance; S. Sgt. James Ranney, crew chief; Airman 3.C. Ernest Green and Airman 1.C. Ronald Funk, assistant crew chiefs.

Crew Chief Sees Aircraft Set Flying Record

S. Sgt. James Ranney, crew chief of T-39 Sabreliner number 03501 based at Peterson Field is quite proud of his aircraft. . . and justly so. It has passed its 2,000 hour mark for flying time . . . the first Air Defense Command T-39 to accomplish this feat and the second one in the Air Force to attain this number of hours.

What does 2,000 hours of flight time for this aircraft mean? Well, the T-39 cruises at 500 mph, which could account for a possible 1,000,000 land miles. This is equivalent to 40 trips around the earth at the equator. That's a lot of airborne time!

"Ole" number 501 has been at Peterson Field for two and one half years. It arrived here new and was the first one of its kind on the local scene. The T-39 (actually, a T-39A) has been in Sergeant Ranney's hands for the last eight months.

Many persons associated with the aircraft dropped by recently to congratulate the crew chief and give the jet liner an appreciative pat for a job well done.

Among those who visited were Col. Raymond E. Smith, 4600th Air Base Wing deputy for operations and maintenance; Capt. Ernie H. Perechlin, organizational maintenance officer; CM. Sgt. Vernon A. Klipping, jet line chief, and M. Sgt. George R. Thomas, T-39 flight chief.

St. Augustine Tries To Ease Race Tension

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) —This troubled old city sought today to ease racial tensions which for four nights in a row have spawned mass Negro demonstrations and threatened violence.

Police have asked Negroes to stay out of downtown streets at night, but the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King, says protest marches will continue.

Several hundred chanting Negroes, marching two abreast, stopped just short of the forbidden white district Friday night. Faced with a score of policemen and small gangs of white hecklers, the Negroes turned back.

No one was injured. The only reported incidents involved a newsman chased by four white men to his car and a photographer who said his camera was smashed.

TOPS 2,000 HOURS—This is the first T-39 Sabreliner in the Air Defense Command to better the 2,000 hour mark for flying time. Number 03501, based at Peterson Field, has theoretically flown 1 million miles which is equivalent to 40 trips around the earth at the equator. On hand to observe the occasion are Airman 2.C. Steve Cook, an assistant crew chief; Airman 2.C. Thomas McKnight, airborne mechanic; Col. Raymond E. Smith, 4600th Air Base Wing deputy for operations and maintenance; S. Sgt. James Ranney, crew chief; Airman 3.C. Ernest Green and Airman 1.C. Ronald Funk, assistant crew chiefs. (U.S. Air Force Photo)

Crew Chief Sees Aircraft Set Flying Record

S. Sgt. James Ranney, crew chief of T-39 Sabreliner number 03501 based at Peterson Field is quite proud of his aircraft. . . and justly so. It has passed its 2,000 hour mark for flying time . . . the first Air Defense Command T-39 to accomplish this feat and the second one in the Air Force to attain this number of hours.

What does 2,000 hours of flight time for this aircraft mean? Well, the T-39 cruises at 500 mph, which could account for a possible 1,000,000 land miles. This is equivalent to 40 trips around the earth at the equator. That's a lot of airborne time!

"Ole" number 501 has been at Peterson Field for two and one half years. It arrived here new and was the first one of its kind on the local scene. The T-39 (actually a T-39A) has been in Sergeant Ranney's hands for the last eight months.

Many persons associated with the aircraft dropped by recently to congratulate the crew chief and give the jet liner an appreciative pat for a job well done.

Among those who visited were Col. Raymond E. Smith, 4600th Air Base Wing deputy for operations and maintenance; Capt. Ernie H. Perechlin, organizational maintenance officer; CM. Sgt. Vernon A. Klipping, jet line chief, and M. Sgt. George R. Thomas, T-39 flight chief.

St. Augustine Tries To Ease Race Tension

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) —This troubled old city sought today to ease racial tensions which for four nights in a row have spawned mass Negro demonstrations and threatened violence.

Police have asked Negroes to stay out of downtown streets at night, but the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King, says protest marches will continue.

Several hundred chanting Negroes, marching two abreast, stopped just short of the forbidden white district Friday night. Faced with a score of policemen and small gangs of white hecklers, the Negroes turned back.

No one was injured. The only reported incidents involved a newsman chased by four white men to his car and a photographer who said his camera was smashed.

ORANGE HAS TOUGH SLATE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse University, winner of eight out of 10 last fall, faces another tough football schedule. The big tests come Oct. 31 and Nov. 7 when Pitt and Army will be met on successive Saturdays. Army will play the Orange in Yankee Stadium.

Other games are with Boston College, Kansas, Holy Cross, UCLA, Penn State, VPI and West Virginia. Virginia Tech is being met for the first time in football. Kansas beat the Orange 10-0 and Pitt won by 35-27 last year.

Two Negroes Graduate From Mobile School

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Two Negroes — Dorothy Bridget Davis, 17, and Henry Hobdy, 18, — were among 800 seniors to receive diplomas from Murphy High School Thursday night to become the first of their race to graduate from the previously white school.

There were no incidents during the commencement ceremonies.

Miss Davis and Hobdy were transferred to the white school in court-ordered desegregation last September.

Like many other lizards, Komodo monitors sleep the night in dens dug out of stone piles or among tree roots.

SIGN PROMOTES RIGHT ATTITUDE — The Pikes Peak Advertising Club joins other business, civic, service clubs and individuals in their approval of promoting "Right Attitude," as proclaimed by this traveling billboard contributed by the Naegele Outdoor Advertising Co. Urging citizens to "Smile—You Live in Colorado," the sign will be moved to various shopping areas for display during the "Right Attitude" promotion sponsored by the SWAP Club and the Chamber of Commerce. Ad Club members viewing the sign in front of the Chamber of Commerce building are: Doug Naegele Jr., Don Sutton, club president; Craig Ramsey and Broun Mayall.

HARBUT'S SON IS GROOM

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The late Will Harbut was known widely as the private groom of Man O' War.

A son, Tom, followed in his footsteps. He looks after Dark Star, Bald Eagle, One - Eyed King and Turn-to, stallions belonging to Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable. The stallions stand at Leslie Combs' Spendthrift Farm near here.

Only three unsuccessful presidential candidates have ever run again and been elected. They were John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson and William Harrison.

AFA Graduates To March Last Time as Cadets

Scheduled for 9 a.m. at the parade ground, east of the academic area, the event is open to the public. Bleacher seating will be provided adjacent to the entrance road for spectators. Seating on the parade ground proper will be reserved for cadet guests.

Two facets of the unique parade mark the separation of the graduates from the Cadet Wing. The entire wing marches onto the field as a unit but upon command, members of the graduating class separate from their squadrons and march across the parade ground to assume positions on the reviewing line. From this position, they "take the review."

Prior to the review, a sabre exchange passes command of the wing from Wing Commander Cadet Col. T. A. McArtor to his successor, Cadet A. B. Holaday. Cadet Holaday will act as group commander for the first detail of summer basic cadet training.

Foresters Laud Today as Day For Recreation

The designation of today as Outdoor Recreation Day by Gov. John A. Love met with instant enthusiasm and appreciation by Regional Forester D. S. Nordwall, Denver.

"Governor Love's selection of May 31 is an appropriate date for us," Nordwall commented. "This is generally the unofficial opening date for most of the more than 150 picnic grounds and 285 camp grounds on the National Forests in Colorado."

The Forest Service plans no special observance of Outdoor Recreation Day other than inviting Colorado residents to make year 'round full use of the recreational facilities available on the eleven National Forests in the State.

The 3,600 family camping units, plus 1,500 picnic units located in the National Forests of Colorado will accommodate more than 25,000 people at one time. Many days during the peak of the vacation season see this type of use.

"In 1963," Nordwall said, "More than 12 million visits were made to the National Forests of Colorado. Not just for camping and picnicking, but for a wide variety of reasons. These people use the Forests as a retreat from the pressures of our modern, fast-moving civilization. I feel the National Forests have earned the title of 'America's Playgrounds.'

"Our best information indicates that National Forest recreation will double in less than 10 years. Any way we look at it, the National Forests will be called upon to accommodate a great many more visitors than in the past.

"In the light of the probability that we will have several times as much use, Colorado has much at stake in the way in which the recreational resources of its National Forests are developed and administered. The expanding use will necessitate a level of site policing and maintenance, and administration of use, far in excess of any we have before attempted. These are challenges, but we think they can be met."

Increased recreation use, the regional forester pointed out, would have a "chain reaction." Most of the same factors causing the increase of recreation demands will also be at work causing similar pressure for increases in the other uses to which the National Forests must be put.

"Important as recreation is, it is but one of the uses these public lands must provide. These same lands support, under sustained yield management, timber for Colorado's expanding industry; forage for Colorado's cattle and sheep ranchers, and the State's most priceless resource — water.

"Under multiple use management," Nordwall concluded, "several uses can be accommodated on these lands at the same time and all users and groups of users will benefit accordingly."

REPEATS 1962 VICTORY

CEDARHURST, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Nieporte, golf pro at Piping Rock, has won his second Long Open championship in three years. He shot rounds of 73-68-72 to beat Mike Fetchik of Glen Head and Gil Cavanaugh of Meadow Brook by three strokes. Nieporte, former Ohio State NCAA champion, won the Long Island Open and PGA crowns in 1962. He is now the father of six so his $500 winner's check will come in handy.

College Paper Drops Critical Letter

ALAMOSA (AP) — Printing of the Adams State College newspaper was halted Friday to delete an unsigned letter critical of the administration.

About 400 copies of the paper, South Coloradan, had rolled from the presses when the editor, John Luginvill, a 22-year-old senior from La Junta, ordered the presses stopped. The paper was reprinted without the letter.

Luginvill said the policy of the paper was not to publish anonymous letters but he decided to use this one after he said he had learned the names of the authors. In removing the letter, Luginvill said he felt he had made a mistake in using it.

The incident was an outgrowth of a controversy between the Student and Faculty Council at the college and the administration. Council members have claimed that the administration has taken over management of a $41,000 college fund which should be controlled by the joint student-faculty group.

Another development Friday was the reported disappearance of the 400 copies of the college paper containing the letter.

The paper's associate editor, Beth Miller, a junior from Lombard, Ill., said she placed them in her car and later found them missing. Earl Dapp, faculty advisor of publications, said Miss Miller was in danger of disciplinary action unless the papers are returned.

The "tree hopper" insect is the shape and color of a thorn, thereby confusing its enemies.

CC Professor To Launch Study On Kayak Cruise

Prof James Enderson of the Colorado College zoology department will spend half the summer in a 15 - foot kayak cruising the rivers of Alberta, Montana and Wyoming to study the breeding habits of the disappearing Peregrine falcon.

Prof. Enderson said the falcons live in remote regions, usually along high bluffs overlooking streams.

Some of the 15 streams he will explore are the Missouri River, the Yellowstone, and the Red Deer and the Milk River in Alberta.

Scaling the steep cliffs from the rivers, the Colorado College zoologist will record the number of Peregrine falcons in each nest, the general environment and their source of food.

"It is important to find out, if possible, why these falcons prefer some areas to others," Professor Enderson said. "This might give us a clue as to why they are disappearing."

Prof. Enderson will conduct the study under a Colorado College Summer Research Grant. He will spend about six weeks in field work and the remainder of the summer evaluating the raw material.

He hopes to find out more about "the current breeding status of the Peregrine falcon in the central part of the continent," what sub - species breeds in this area, how successful it has been in reproduction, and "what factors of the environment appear to be necessary for successful breeding."

Leader of Race Group Says Mahor Hit Mim

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A housing committee chairman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People claims Mayor Emmerson Dexter of Champaign punched him in the jaw and says he'll file battery charges against the mayor.

Gerald K. Weiss, 23, a graduate student at the University of Illinois, accused Dexter of staggering him with a left hook at a reception Thursday for Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois. The reception followed a ceremony in which Kerner dedicated a Lincoln memorial in downtown Champaign.

Some 100 guests were in the downtown hotel room but Kerner had left shortly before the altercation.

Chris Vlahoplus, Kerner's press secretary, said he was sitting at the same table with Weiss when Mayor Dexter hit him.

Both Dexter and Weiss are white.

Dexter, who is serving the first year of his second four-year ter min Champaign, a town 000 in east-central Illinois, could not be reached for comment.

A group of civil rights supporters had talked with Kerner briefly at the reception, and when the governor indicated he had to leave, the group asked to talk to an administrative aide. Kerner asked Vlahoplus to confer with them.

Vlahoplus said he was talking with Weiss and four other persons, including Raymond Harth, president of the Illinois NAACP, when Dexter walked to the table and told him.

"This is not a civil rights meeting. It is a reception for the governor and you don't have to do this if you don't want to."

Vlahoplus said that before he could answer, Weiss "leaped up" and accused the mayor of interrupting their conversation.

At this moment, Vlahoplus said he glanced at another person at the table and that when he turned back, "the mayor popped him."

"If Weiss did something to Dexter, I didn't see it," Vlahoplus said. "But Weiss was pretty violent with the mayor and accused him of interrupting a conversation."

Civil rights groups have been protesting alleged housing discrimination in the Champaign-Urbana area for several weeks.

First Bullet Struck JFK And Connalley

DALLAS (AP)—The first bullet fired at the limousine carrying President John F. Kennedy Nov. 22 struck Kennedy in the back, emerged from his throat and then pierced Texas Gov. John Connalley's body, television station KRLD said in a copyrighted story.

Quoting sources close to the Warren Commission investigating the assassination, the Dallas station said the second rifle bullet mortally wounded Kennedy in the head, and that the third went wild.

Representatives of the commission made a detailed reenactment of the assassination Sunday. They used the rifle believed to have fired the fatal bullets, and conducted the reenactment at the site of the shooting.

KRLD said medical opinion holds that if the first slug had struck the president just a bit lower, it would have knocked him to the floor of the car and thus removed him from the line of sight of the second shot.

Doctors say Kennedy more than likely would have recovered from the initial shot.

It had been believed that the first shot hit Kennedy in the back, the second hit Connally, and the third smashed into the president's head.

Des Moines May Get Anti-Race Ordinance

The measure would authorize the Des Moines Human Rights Commission to investigate complaints of racial and religious discrimination in housing, attempt conciliation, and conduct public hearings.

A provision for fines up to $100 and 30 days in jail for violation was removed before the measure was passed at its first two readings. The ordinance is due for a third and final reading Monday.

It was revised so that it now exempts from its provisions all duplexes, apartment houses with less than seven apartments, and owner-occupied rooming houses with less than four rooms for rent. Nearly half the 21,781 apartments in Des Moines thus would be exempt.

The Des Moines Real Estate Board organized petitions calling on the city council to submit the measure to a referendum at the November general election. Real estate men claimd 10,000 signatures, but the council refused to delay the matter.

May 30, 1954 Turning Point in Air Defense

A nation which has come to place heavy reliance on guided missiles for protection in the past decade can mark May 30, 1954 as the turning point in the history of air defense.

It was on that day that an Army Nike Ajax battery became the first guided missile unit to defend American cities against air attack.

Battery B of the 36th Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion, as that first guided missile unit in the air defense system, manned a site at Fort George G. Meade, Md. Its mission was to help protect Washington and Baltimore.

Thus began a revolution in the art of applied air defense.

Guided missiles began replacing the thousand and more anti-aircraft artillery guns then used by the Army to help defend the nation's top "target" centers. Some guns remained in the system until the late 1950s.

Guided missiles represented a dramatic departure from defense weapons whose projectiles could not change course or otherwise be controlled after being aimed and fired.

Before the decade o fmissiles, aircraft could evade destruction by maneuvering when anti-aircraft guns were fired. Now, however, missiles were capable of changing course constantly in flight in response to radar "commands" beamed to the missile from the ground.

With a one-for-one "kill" potential, the Nike presented an effective answer to the threat posed by high-performance bombers armed with nuclear bombs. Nike could out-speed, out-climb, and out-maneuver the bomber.

Because of supersonic speed and swift reaction time, the Nike also brought a eovlution in means used to coordinate antiaircraft fire. During the decade there emerged new semi-automatic, electronic "command posts" to integrate the battle actions of Army weapons in each air defense area.

So effective was the Nike system that it found its way into the arsenals of Allied powers across the Atlantic and the Pacific, where Nikes stand guard over the free world.

Today the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM), which is the Army component of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), is an all-missile force, its transition from "muskets" to missiles having been completed several years ago. In fact, the nuclear-capable Nike Hercules, second member of the same missile family, has replaced the Nike Ajax. The last of four remaining Army National Guard sites armed with Nike Ajax were closed down May 18.

New high-powered radars and other improvements have increased the potential of the Nike Hercules since this system first moved into Army air Defense areas in mid-1958.

ARADCOM's nationwide task force for close-in, ultimate protection of key cities and bases includes both active Army and Army National Guard units. Some 100 cities in 31 defense complexes lie under these invisible rings of steel. In these areas are nearly half of the nation's most concentrated population and defense industry.

One of ARADCOM's defenses is at Thule, Greenland. The Nike Hercules missiles standing guard in the Key West area opposite Cuba are further strengthened by the presence of of ARADCOM's only HAWK (Homing All the Way Killer) missiles. The HAWK, optimized for low-altitude engagements, gives protection against aircraft which attempt to penetrate defenses beneath the radar screen of conventional missiles.

There are also U. S. Army Nike Hercules missile sites in both Alaska and Hawaii, those in Hawaii being manned by Army National Guardsmen.

In choosing the dates May 30 through June 14 for its "Decade of Missiles" observance, the Army Air Defense Command put the emphasis on combat-ready defense.

If a date were chosen as marking the beginning of the Nike Ajax system in the minds of the missile's developers, one would have to go back to 1944 during World War II, when the need for— and feasibility of — such a weapon were asserted and studies began. The first developmental missile rounds were being fired before 1950, the pioneer rounds being described as "telephone pole" missiles, because they were made of wood and carried no warhead.

Again, the date chosen might have been Nov. 27, 1951, when Nike Ajax scored a direct hit on a target drone B-17 bomber on the first shot, the intercept being recorded as the first successful engagement of an airplane by a guided missile. On war. Oct. 28 1953, troops actually being trained to man missile sites fired their first Nike Ajax missile at Red Canyon, N. M., and a nucleus of that training "package" began moving on site in December, 1953, at Ft. Meade.

Several months of on-site training and construction to emplace the missiles followed. The school - trained missilemen spearheaded the task of converting the other former anti-aircraft gunners to the new weapon. The Nike unit actually achieved an early capability of firing their missiles from site. Thus began the decade o the Nike missile, named for the Goddess of Victory in Greek mythology. The decade was to prove to be one of unprecedented peacetime combat readiness for defenders whose "victory" would be measured by the degree of success in deterring

Cuban Exile Groups Plan Coordination

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Delegates of 55 Cuban exile organizations voted Saturday to form a central body to coordinate anti-Castro activity.

The council, called the Cuban, Assembly, is to begin functioning after the selection of a president and secretary next week. New officers will be selected every two weeks by lottery.

The organizational meeting was called by Brazilian congressman Everardo Magalhaes who has been conferring with exile leaders for a week.

"Unless you unite," he told exiles, "nobody would know to which of you to send arms." Magalhaes said he will tour Latin America to arouse interest in the exile's cause.

NEW YORK (AP)—The smallest theater in the city has room for only 26 spectators but provides full-time work for the two men who began it as a hobby 12 years ago, Francis J. Peschka and W. Gordon Murdock.

Originally shows were put on for friends, but became so popular that four years ago the two men quit other jobs, and with the help of a foundation grant, became marionette impresarios.

Boating, Fishing Tragedies Can Be Prevented

Several million small boats will go back into the water this weekend after a winter in storage and several weeks of scraping, painting and refurbishing this spring.

The Memorial Day weekend also provides its usual quota of boating and fishing accidents and deaths from drowning. Most of these need not happen. Safety experts have said many times that most boating and fishing accidents could be prevented it outdoorsmen would observe a few simple precautions.

Good manners and common sense in boating will prevent most accidents. Don't overload the boat; have life preservers for each occupant; don't stand up or change seats in a small boat while under way; keep a watchful eye out for other boats, simmers and fishermen, and give all a comfortably wide berth. These rules are repeated each boating season, but there still are drownings because someone ignored them. Most marine operators and many sporting goods stores have pamphlets on boating safety. Get one, study it, follow it.

Pleasure lakes and streams will be more crowded with boats this season than ever before, and there's even less room for the hotrod helmsman with an inclination to buzz the dock, dash through an anchorage or buzz another boat. The hot-rodder is just as dangerous on water as on land, both to others and to himself.

Fishing is highly recommended by your doctor as a healthy, relaxing sport that will get you out of doors into fresh air and help to clear those mental cobwebs left over from home and office worries. Fishing is not particularly hazardous, but there are some pointers to watch to help avoid accidents.

Fishhooks are designed to catch fish. They also can snag an unwary finger, hand, arm or leg. If you're deeply hooked, go to a doctor and ask him to remove it. Don't try to work the hook out backwards. Your doctor will use the shank to push the hook out, point foremost. This is less painful and causes less damage.

Des Moines May Get Anti-Race Ordinance

The measure would authorize the Des Moines Human Rights Commission to investigate complaints of racial and religious discrimination in housing, attempt conciliation, and conduct public hearings.

A provision for fines up to $100 and 30 days in jail for violation was removed before the measure was passed at its first two readings. The ordinance is due for a third and final reading Monday.

It was revised so that it now exempts from its provisions all duplexes, apartment houses with less than seven apartments, and owner-occupied rooming houses with less than four rooms for rent. Nearly half the 21,781 apartments in Des Moines thus would be exempt.

The Des Moines Real Estate Board organized petitions calling on the city council to submit the measure to a referendum at the November general election. Real estate men claimd 10,000 signatures, but the council refused to delay the matter.

May 30, 1954 Turning Point in Air Defense

A nation which has come to place heavy reliance on guided missiles for protection in the past decade can mark May 30, 1954 as the turning point in the history of air defense.

It was on that day that an Army Nike Ajax battery became the first guided missile unit to defend American cities against air attack.

Battery B of the 36th Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion, as that first guided missile unit in the air defense system, manned a site at Fort George G. Meade, Md. Its mission was to help protect Washington and Baltimore.

Thus began a revolution in the art of applied air defense.

Guided missiles began replacing the thousand and more anti-aircraft artillery guns then used by the Army to help defend the nation's top "target" centers. Some guns remained in the system until the late 1950s.

Guided missiles represented a dramatic departure from defense weapons whose projectiles could not change course or otherwise be controlled after being aimed and fired.

Before the decade of missiles, aircraft could evade destruction by maneuvering when anti-aircraft guns were fired. Now, however, missiles were capable of changing course constantly in flight in response to radar commands beamed to the missile from the ground.

With a one-for-one "kill" potential, the Nike presented an effective answer to the threat posed by high-performance bombers armed with nuclear bombs. Nike could out-speed, out-climb, and out-maneuver the bomber.

Because of supersonic speed and swift reaction time, the Nike also brought a revolution in means used to coordinate anti-aircraft fire. During the decade there emerged new semi-automatic, electronic "command posts" to integrate the battle actions of Army weapons in each air defense area.

So effective was the Nike system that it found its way into the arsenals of Allied powers across the Atlantic and the Pacific, where Nikes stand guard over the free world.

Today the Army Air Defense Command ARADCOM, which is the Army component of the North American Air Defense Command, NORAD, is an all-missile force, its transition from muskets to missiles having been completed several years ago. In fact, the nuclear-capable Nike Hercules, second member of the same missile family, has replaced the Nike Ajax. The last of four remaining Army National Guard sites armed with Nike Ajax were closed down May 15.

New high-powered radars and other improvements have increased the potential of the Nike Hercules since this system first moved into Army Air Defense areas in mid-1958.

ARADCOM's nationwide task force for close-in, ultimate protection of key cities and bases includes both active Army and Army National Guard units. Some 100 cities in 31 defense complexes are defended with missile fire units or sites. In these areas are nearly half of the nation's most critical industrial and defense facilities.

One of ARADCOM's defenses is at Truax Field in the Northeastern Wisconsin-Upper Michigan area. Still another is the Key West area, opposite Cuba, are further strengthened by the presence of ARADCOM's only HAWK (Homing All the Way Killer) missiles. The HAWK, optimized for low-altitude engagements, gives protection against aircraft which attempt to penetrate defenses beneath the radar screen of conventional missiles.

There are also U. S. Army Nike Hercules missile sites in both Alaska and Hawaii, those in Hawaii being manned by Army National Guardsmen.

In choosing the dates May 30 through June 14 for its "Decade of Missiles" observance, the Army Air Defense Command put the emphasis on combat-ready defense.

If a date were chosen as marking the beginning of the Nike Ajax system in the minds of the missile's developers, one would have to go back to 1944 during World War II, when the need for— and feasibility of — such a weapon were asserted and studies began. The first developmental missile rounds were being fired before 1950, the pioneer rounds being described as "telephone pole" missiles, because they were made of wood and carried no warhead.

Again the date chosen might have been Nov. 27, 1951, when Nike Ajax scored a direct hit on a target drone B-17 bomber on the first shot, the intercept being recorded as the first successful engagement of an airplane by a guided missile. On Oct. 28, 1953, troops actually being trained to man missile sites fired their first Nike Ajax missile at Red Canyon, N. M., and a nucleus of that training "package" began moving on site in December, 1953, at Ft. Meade.

Several months of on-site training and construction to emplace the missiles followed. The school - trained missilemen spearheaded the task of converting the other former anti-aircraft gunners to the new weapon. The Nike unit actually achieved an early capability of firing their missiles from site. But it was not until May 30, 1954, the more meaingful date to America, that the defense command declared the unit to be fully operational and integrated into the around-the-clock defense of Washington and Baltimore.

Thus began the decade of the Nike missile named for the Goddess of Victory in Greek mythology. The decade was to prove to be one of unprecedented peacetime combat readiness for defenders whose "victory" would be measured by the degree of success in deterring war.

Correct Attitude Is Credited for Safe Driving

DENVER (AP) — Dr. John Conger, dean of the University of Colorado School of Medicine, says correct attitudes are the main factor in safe driving.

Conger gave his report on a series of studies by the school at a legislative interim committee hearing Friday. He said the studies were concerned especially with personal factors associated with safe and unsafe drivers.

"The traditional sorts of measures assumed to make the biggest difference between safe and unsafe drivers like reaction time, depth perception, and eye-hand coordination seem to make little difference in most cases," Conger said.

"Getting one's foot to the brake a fraction of a second sooner than the next person is less important than driving carefully enough so that such activity is unnecessary," he added.

Conger said, "The greater importance of attitudes and the lesser importance of physical and intellectual capabilities has been one of the major findings of our own and other recent investigations."

Oil Shale Committee Slated in Washington

DENVER (AP)— Three members of the Governor's Committee on Oil Shale will go to Washington next month to confer with federal officials.

The three were named at a meeting of the 17-member committee Friday. They are Jack Tweedy, Dick Schmidt and Ted Stockmyer, all of Denver.

Richard Eccles, Gov. John A. Love's assistant on natural resources, said the three plan to confer June 9 in Washington with Colorado's two senators, Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick, both Republicans.

Eccles said the meeting Friday "was highly technical, with discussions dealing mainly with patents problems and public lands."

CS High School Class of 1914 Plans Reunion

The class of 1914 of the Colorado Springs High School, now the Palmer High School, will hold a 50th anniversary reunion here June 6. At 3 p.m. the old grads and some of the teachers of the 1914 class will meet at the school for a tour through the building. The school consisted just of the old clock tower building when they were there. At 6 p.m. there will be a banquet at the Antlers Hotel.

The announcement was made by Eugene Anderson, chairman of the committee on arrangements. He was on the Colorado Springs faculty from 1924 until his retirement in 1961, as instructor in mathematics, business manager of the school and head of the mathematics department. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell, Mrs. Mae Brown, Miss Eilene Carrick.

An attendance of about 100 members of the old class is expected for the reunion. Reservations may be made with Miss Carrick, 1430 N. Weber St.

Anderson said Friday that so far as known the only living members of the Colorado Springs faculty are, Martha W. Dorsey, Belle Turnbull, Edna Dessaint, Mabel S. Bateman, Mary Strachan, Vanita Trevinger and Marjorie Dearing. The late Roscoe Hill was principal. He later was superintendent of schools in School District 11 and principal of the East Denver High School.

DESIGNER HONORED — The designer of the controversial Air Force Academy Chapel, Walter A. Netsch, Jr., AIA, of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, Chicago, will receive the 1964 eighth annual R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award June 16. The award will be presented at the American Institute of Architects national convention in St. Louis, Mo. Design assistant for the chapel was Ralph P. Youngren, AIA. The award brings to its recipient $25,000 and an original sculpture. The designers use of aluminum resulted in his being given the award. (Stewart's Photo)

Academy Chapel Designer Receives Top Accolade

The American Institute of Architects announced that the 1964 eighth annual R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award will go to Skidmore, Owings & Merrill for design of the chapel. Partner in charge and designer was Walter A. Netsch, Jr., AIA, of the firm's Chicago office. His design assistant for the project was Ralph P. Youngren, AIA.

Largest in architecture, the R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award annually brings $25,000 and an original sculpture to the recipient chosen by a jury of architects selected by the AIA. The award is conferred for distinguished achievement in architecture with significant use of aluminum.

Famed for its series of 17 gleaming aluminum spires, the U.S. Air Force Academy Chapel became a national landmark even before its completion and dedication last September.

The spires, rising 150 feet to dominate the flat buildings of the Academy campus, are formed by 100 tetrahedrons made up of steel pipe frames clad inside and out with aluminum. Between the tetrahedrons run continuous strips of strained glass, designed in Chartres, which diffuse glowing colors into the chapel. The spires are anchored to concrete abutments.

The chapel provides separate worship facilities for three major faiths. A Protestant chapel, on the upper level, seats 900 persons. On the lower level, a Catholic chapel accommodates 500, and a Jewish chapel, 100.

Once criticized for its departure from the traditional, the chapel won increasing praise as it neared completion. With its machined materials strongly symbolic of the air age, it is widely viewed in design and art circles as a compelling architectural expression of modern man's desire to worship. Its total impression is somewhat reminiscent of a Gothic cathedral.

The AIA Jury Report stated: "The light, airy feeling of this beautiful soaring structure, so appropriately placed in the center of a complex of related buildings, dominating its environment in a manner similar to the cathedrals in villages of Europe, and reflecting in its silhouetted structural forms the mountains of its background, is unicuely appropriate to this very special problem of a chapel for the United States Air Force Academy."

The award will be presented on June 16 at the American Institute of Architects national convention in St. Louis by J. Roy Carroll, Jr., FAIA, president of the institute and A. H. Williams, Jr., vice-president of Reynolds Metals Co. The sculpture to be presented Netsch was created by Leonard Baskin of Smith College. It is an aluminum plaque entitled "Standing Birdman."

The honored architect is general partner in charge of design for the Chicago office of his firm. A 1943 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, his major works in addition to the Air Force Academy include the Westinghouse Research Laboratories, Pittsburgh; U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Calif.; New York Life Insurance Co.'s Lake Meadows Apartments and Club Building, Chicago; Grinnell College Library, Grinnell, Iowa; and the campus planning and individual buildings at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He is a member of the Metropolitan Planning and Housing Council of Chicago, and is active in various architectural education groups.

The award selection was made by a jury consisting of chairman Hans Maurer, of Munich, Germany, recipient of the 1963 Reynolds Award; Dahlen Ritchey, AIA, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert M. Little, FAIA, of Miami, Fla., and George F. Pierce Jr., FAIA, of Houston, Tex. A fifth juror, Mario Ciampi, FAIA, of San Francisco, was unable to attend the jury review.

The 1964 award was the second to go to an American architectural group. In 1961 it was conferred on St. Louis architects Joseph D. Murphy, FAIA, and Eugene J. Mackey, AIA, for design of the Climatron, a display greenhouse in the Missouri Botanical Garden. Other winners have been from Germany, France, Switzerland, Australia, Belgium and Spain.

The R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award was established in 1957 by Reynolds Metals Co. as a memorial to its founder.

Five Camping Areas to Charge $1 Use Fee

Five National Forest campgrounds in the Rocky Mountain Region will again maintain a $1 daily use fee, the Forest Service announced this week.

These are the same campgrounds at which the use fee was charged during a 70-day 1963 camping season. Affecting 312 individual family units, $15,000 was collected for the U. S. Treasury. Twenty-five per cent of this amount was returned to the counties in which the campgrounds are located.

Roosevelt National Forest has one charge campground, and Pike National Forest, two sites in Colorado. There are two fee areas in Black Hills National Forest of South Dakota.

Ticket vending machines for collection of $1 per day fee are used at the five campgrounds. The machines use only 50c pieces. Lacking proper change, however, the camper may leave an IOU slip in the machine and an attendant will stop at the campsite to collect. Campers are advised to select their individual site before purchasing a ticket.

The fee applies only to camping at the five designated campgrounds. These are Olive Ridge on Roosevelt National Forest; South Meadows and Colorado on the Pike, and Southside and Grizzly Bear on Black Hills National Forest. There are more than 400 additional campgrounds, plus 230 picnic areas in 16 Rocky Mountain Region National Forests which are free of charge.

Correct Attitude Is Credited for Safe Driving

DENVER (AP) — Dr. John Conger, dean of the University of Colorado School of Medicine, says correct attitudes are the main factor in safe driving.

Conger gave his report on a series of studies by the school at a legislative interim committee hearing Friday. He said the studies were concerned especially with personal factors associated with safe and unsafe drivers.

The traditional sorts of measures assumed to make the biggest difference between safe and unsafe drivers, like reaction time, depth perception, and eye-hand coordination, seem to make little difference in most cases, Conger said.

Getting one's foot to the brake a fraction of a second sooner, that the BEST person is less important than driving carefully enough so that such activity is unnecessary," he added.

Conger said, "The greater importance of attitudes and the lesser importance of physical and intellectual capabilities has been one of the major findings of our own and other recent investigations."

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell, Mrs. Mae Brown, Miss Ellene Carrick.

DESIGNER HONORED — The designer of the controversial Air Force Academy Chapel, Walter A. Netsch Jr., AIA, of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, Chicago, will receive the 1964 eighth annual R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award June 16. The award will be presented at the American Institute of Architects national convention in St. Louis, Mo. Design assistant for the chapel was Ralph P. Youngren, AIA. The award brings to its recipient $25,000 and an original sculpture. The designers use of aluminum resulted in his being given the award. (Stewart's Photo)

Academy Chapel Designer Receives Top Accolade

The American Institute of Architects announced that the 1964 eighth annual R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award will go to Skidmore, Owings & Merrill for design of the chapel. Partner in charge and designer was Walter A. Netsch, Jr., AIA, of the firm's Chicago office. His design assistant for the project was Ralph P. Youngren, AIA.

Largest in architecture, the R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award annually brings $25,000 and an original sculpture to the recipient chosen by a jury of architects selected by the AIA. The award is conferred for distinguished achievement in architecture with significant use of aluminum.

Famed for its series of 17 gleaming aluminum spires, the U.S. Air Force Academy Chapel became a national landmark even before its completion and dedication last September.

The spires, rising 150 feet to dominate the flat buildings of the Academy campus, are formed by 100 tetrahedrons made up of steel pipe frames clad inside and out with aluminum. Between the tetrahedrons run continuous strips of strained glass, designed in Chartres, which diffuse glowing colors into the chapel. The spires are anchored to concrete abutments.

The chapel provides separate worship facilities for three major faiths. A Protestant chapel, on the upper level, seats 900 persons. On the lower level, a Catholic chapel accommodates 500, and a Jewish chapel, 100.

Once criticized for its departure from the traditional, the chapel won increasing praise as it neared completion. With its machined materials strongly symbolic of the air age, it is widely viewed in design and art circles as a compelling architectural expression of modern man's desire to worship. Its total impression is somewhat reminiscent of a Gothic cathedral.

The AIA Jury Report stated: "The light, airy feeling of this beautiful soaring structure, so appropriately placed in the center of a complex of related buildings, dominating its environment in a manner similar to the cathedrals in villages of Europe, and reflecting in its silhouetted structural forms the mountains of its background, is uniquely appropriate to this very special problem of a chapel for the United States Air Force Academy."

The award will be presented on June 16 at the American Institute of Architects national convention in St. Louis by J. Roy Carroll, Jr., FAIA, president of the institute and A. H. Williams, Jr., vice-president of Reynolds Metals Co. The sculpture to be presented Netsch was created by Leonard Baskin of Smith College. It is an aluminum plaque entitled "Standing Birdman."

The honored architect is general partner in charge of design for the Chicago office of his firm. A 1943 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, his major works in addition to the Air Force Academy include the Westinghouse Research Laboratories, Pittsburgh; U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Calif.; New York Life Insurance Co.'s Lake Meadows Apartments and Club Building, Chicago; Grinnell College Library, Grinnell, Iowa; and the campus planning and individual buildings at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He is a member of the Metropolitan Planning and Housing Council of Chicago, and is active in various architectural education groups.

The award selection was made by a jury consisting of chairman Hans Maurer, of Munich, Germany, recipient of the 1963 Reynolds Award; Dahlen Ritchey, AIA, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert M. Little, FAIA, of Miami, Fla., and George F. Pierce Jr., FAIA, of Houston, Tex. A fifth juror, Mario Ciampi, FAIA, of San Francisco, was unable to attend the jury review.

The 1964 award was the second to go to an American architectural group. In 1961 it was conferred on St. Louis architects Joseph D. Murphy, FAIA, and Eugene J. Mackey, AIA, for design of the Climatron, a display greenhouse in the Missouri Botanical Garden. Other winners have been from Germany, France, Switzerland, Australia, Belgium and Spain.

The R. S. Reynolds Memorial Award was established in 1957 by Reynolds Metals Co. as a memorial to its founder.

Traffic Deaths Reported to Be Below Normal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reports from across the nation showed six persons killed in traffic accidents since the start of the holiday period at 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday. Highway fatalities during the first four months this year averaged more than 110 a day for a record high of 13,350.

The National Safety Council said that between 410 and 490 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period which ends at midnight Sunday.

The council estimates that more than 83 million cars will be on the move sometime during the holiday period.

The record high traffic death toll for a Memorial Day holiday period was 462 over four days in 1961. The record high for a three-day observance of Memorial Day was 371 in 1958. The record low was 204 in 1948.

An Associated Press survey, made for comparative purposes, showed 418 traffic deaths in the nonholiday weekend of May 14-17, extending over a period of 78 hours, similar to the Memorial Day period.

Last year Memorial Day was a one-day observance and the traffic deaths totaled 159.

Ex-Attorney Guilty in Jury Tampering Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Z. T. (Tommy) Osborn Jr., disbarred Nashville attorney, has been convicted of trying to set up a fixed jury to try his former client — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Osborn, one of Tennessee's most highly respected young attorneys after his representation of the plaintiffs in the famous Tennessee reapportionment case that went to the Supreme Court in 1962, was convicted Friday night of the first count of a two-count indictment.

The jury of 10 men and two women found Osborn innocent of a second count. The verdict came after two hours and 52 minutes of deliberation.

Sentencing was postponed by U.S. District Court Judge Marion S. Boyd of Memphis until motions for a new trial, requested by the defense, are heard June 19.

Osborn, 44, could receive a sentence of up to five years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

The count on which Osborn was convicted charged him with "knowingly, willfully and corruptly endeavoring" to obstruct justice by directing Nashville patrolman Robert D. Vick to contact Ralph A. Elliott, a prospective juror in Hoffa's recent jury tampering trial, and promise him $10,000 to vote for an acquittal. The Hoffa trial was later moved to Chattanooga when Osborn's disbarment became public.

The count on which Osborn was acquitted charged him with directing Harry Beard, Lebanon, Tenn., also now disbarred, to promise $10,000 to D. M. Harrison to get his wife to vote an acquittal in Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial.

The first televised football game was that between Fordham University and Waynesburg College, played in Randall's Island Stadium, New York City, Sept. 30, 1939.

Mother Goose Axed Because Of Race Issue

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—The New London Public Library has removed several pages from a 1917 edition of Mother Goose rhymes because they contain verses objectionable to Negroes.

The rhymes include the one beginning "Eeny, meeny, miney, mo, catch a nigger by the toe," and another one that begins, "Ten little niggers." A Negro mother complained after her 10-year-old daughter showed her the verses.

Linwood W. Bland Jr., president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, commented that he would expect to find racial slurs in adult books, "but for children to see them is too much."

Acting Librarian Olive Prentis expressed surprise that nursery rhymes should contain such words.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, DDS
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a previous column we discussed the importance of maintaining good mouth health during pregnancy. Your first visit to the obstetrician should be followed by a visit to your dentist so that teeth and mouth may be examined and plans made for teeth cleaning and other necessary treatment.

The nine months are divided into three equal parts. The middle three months are referred to as the middle trimester. Many obstetricians consider this middle trimester safest for dental treatment. Fillings may be placed and other minor procedures done.

Pregnant women are usually excellent dental patients. One dental wag was overheard saying that pregnant women are such good patients they ought to be pregnant all the time. Particularly in the middle period they tend to be less apprehensive about dentistry.

However, it is felt by many physicians and dentists that excessive restorative dentistry, or periodontal gum surgery, or difficult or multiple extractions, should not be attempted at any time during the nine months unless the work cannot be postponed.

Local anesthesia (Xylocaine, Novocaine, etc.) may be used to prevent pain with the usual precautions exercised. Anti-biotics may also be taken with the usual precautions.

That group of antibiotics known as the tetracyclines, when taken during pregnancy, have recently been reported to cause permanent discoloration of the teeth of the child. These drugs should be avoided unless no substitute for them can be safely used.

Routine X-ray examination is not recommended. This does not preclude the use of X-rays as an aid in diagnosis. When there is a suspicion that something is wrong in a tooth or jaw, an X-ray film may be necessary to confirm the diagnosis. The amount of direct or scatter radiation to which the patient is exposed is considered negligible with the use of modern X-ray machines.

One physician told me recently that if his wife needed dental X-rays during her pregnancy, he would "feel better" if she were draped with a lead apron during the procedure. Some dentists do this. It must be noted though, that there is no scientific evidence that the use of dental X-ray for diagnostic reasons is harmful.

Your dentist should make the decisions regarding the necessity for X-ray examination.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Vandals Stage Battle With Big Equipment

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Damages caused by vandals driving huge roadbuilding machines have been estimated at several thousand dollars.

A spokesman for Thomaston Associates, Inc., of Montgomery, said Thursday at least $1,000 damage was done to a concrete drain in addition to damages to the giant earth-moving machines, graders and bulldozers which were found rammed together.

The spokesman said the machines were apparently moved in low gear. He said if the machines had been slammed together at high speeds the operators might have been killed.

Traffic Deaths Reported to Be Below Normal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reports from across the nation showed six persons killed in traffic accidents since the start of the holiday period at 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday. Highway fatalities during the first four months this year averaged more than 110 a day for a record high of 13,350.

The National Safety Council said that between 410 and 490 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period which ends at midnight Sunday.

The council estimates that more than 83 million cars will be on the move sometime during the holiday period.

The record high traffic death toll for a Memorial Day holiday period was 462 over four days in 1961. The record high for a three-day observance of Memorial Day was 371 in 1958. The record low was 204 in 1948.

An Associated Press survey, made for comparative purposes, showed 418 traffic deaths in the nonholiday weekend of May 14-17, extending over a period of 78 hours, similar to the Memorial Day period.

Last year Memorial Day was a one-day observance and the traffic deaths totaled 159.

Ex-Attorney Guilty in Jury Tampering Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP — Z. T. (Tommy) Osborn Jr., disbarred Nashville attorney, has been convicted of trying to set up a fixed jury to try his former client — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Osborn, one of Tennessee's most highly respected young attorneys after his representation of the plaintiffs in the famous Tennessee reapportionment case that went to the Supreme Court in 1962, was convicted Friday night of the first count of a two-count indictment.

The jury of 10 men and two women found Osborn innocent of a second count. The verdict came after two hours and 52 minutes of deliberation.

Sentencing was postponed by U.S. District Court Judge Marion S. Boyd of Memphis until motions for a new trial, requested by the defense, are heard June 19.

Osborn, 44, could receive a sentence of up to five years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

The count on which Osborn was convicted charged him with "knowingly, willfully and corruptly endeavoring" to obstruct justice by directing Nashville patrolman Robert D. Vick to contact Ralph A. Elliott, a prospective juror in Hoffa's recent jury tampering trial, and promise him $10,000 to vote for an acquittal. The Hoffa trial was later moved to Chattanooga when Osborn's disbarment became public.

The count on which Osborn was acquitted charged him with directing Harry Beard, Lebanon, Tenn., also now disbarred, to promise $10,000 to D. M. Harrison to get his wife to vote an acquittal in Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial.

The first televised football game was that between Fordham University and Waynesburg College, played in Randall's Island Stadium, New York City, Sept. 30, 1939.

Springs Student Receives Honors Program Berth

Fredrik Wiant, of Colorado Springs, and Richard Thaxton, La Junta, both Otero Junior College sophomores, have won scholarships to participate in the University of Denver's special Three - Year Master of Arts Honors Program aimed at better preparation of college teachers.

The scholarships pay tuition and each is worth at least $900 per year. They are renewable yearly until completion of the master's degree.

The special program is supported by a grant from the Ford Foundation and is designed to provide more effective education of potential college teachers in fields of history, chemistry, English and psychology.

It consists of accelerated course work, independent study and research and a series of lectures and seminars in higher education. A feature of the third, or postgraduate year, is a teaching internship supervised by the university and cooperating institutions in the Denver area.

Both winners have been outstanding scholars at OJC, have made the president's honors list for academic achievement, and will graduate with associate degrees Thursday, June 4.

Wiant, a history major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wiant, 3106 E. San Miguel. He graduated from Canon City High School in 1959 and served with the U.S. Army in Germany before coming to Otero.

His cumulative grade point average for all college work at the end of winter quarter was 3.81 out of a possible 4. Students with 3.76 to 3.88 cumulative grade averages graduate cum laude — a high scholastic honor.

Thaxton, a history major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Thaxton, Las Animas. He graduated from Las Animas High School in 1959 and attended Colorado State University in Ft. Collins for one year. He was then employed by a Denver highway construction company until 1962 when he became a student at Otero. His cumulative grade point average for all college work at OJC was 3.54 at the end of winter quarter.

Penrose Doctor Receives Award For Clinic Paper

Dr. Jose M. Hori, fourth year resident in pathology at Penrose Hospital, was notified this week that he has received the 1964 award, provided by Drs. Hermann B. Stein and Frederick H. Good of Denver, for the most meritorious paper presented at the 14th annual Intern-Resident Clinics.

This clinic or symposium is sponsored by the office of postgraduate medical education, at the University of Colorado School of Medicine. Competition is open, but limited to interns and residents in the state of Colorado. There were 42 scientific papers submitted to the judging panel for consideration. Seventeen of these papers were selected for reading and Dr. Hori's paper, "The Importance of Sub-diagnostic Elevations in Serum Glutamic Oxalcetic Transaminase in Patients with Possible Myocardial Infarction," was judged best of all.

The scientific research reported in these papers can be on any subject, but must be the intern or residents own work. Judging is on the basis of originality, merit, subject matter and results, among other criterion.

Springs Student Receives Honors Program Berth

Fredrik Wiant, of Colorado Springs, and Richard Thaxton, La Junta, both Otero Junior College sophomores, have won scholarships to participate in the University of Denver's special Three - Year Master of Arts Honors Program aimed at better preparation of college teachers.

The scholarships pay tuition and each is worth at least $900 per year. They are renewable yearly until completion of the master's degree.

The special program is supported by a grant from the Ford Foundation and is designed to provide more effective education of potential college teachers in fields of history, chemistry, English and psychology.

It consists of accelerated course work, independent study and research and a series of lectures and seminars in higher education. A feature of the third or postgraduate year, is a teaching internship supervised by the university and cooperating institutions in the Denver area.

Both winners have been outstanding scholars at OJC, have made the president's honors list for academic achievement, and will graduate with associate degrees Thursday, June 4.

Wiant, a history major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wiant, 3106 E. San Miguel. He graduated from Canon City High School in 1959 and served with the U.S. Army in Germany before coming to Otero.

His cumulative grade point average for all college work at the end of winter quarter was 3.81 out of a possible 4. Students with 3.76 to 3.88 cumulative grade averages graduate cum laude — a high scholastic honor.

Thaxton, a history major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Thaxton, Las Animas. He graduated from Las Animas High School in 1959 and attended Colorado State University in Ft. Collins for one year. He was then employed by a Denver highway construction company until 1962 when he became a student at Otero. His cumulative grade point average for all college work at OJC was 3.54 at the end of winter quarter.

Penrose Doctor Receives Award For Clinic Paper

Dr. Jose M. Hori, fourth year resident in pathology at Penrose Hospital, was notified this week that he has received the 1964 award, provided by Drs. Hermann B. Stein and Frederick H. Good of Denver, for the most meritorious paper presented at the 14th annual Intern-Resident Clinics.

This clinic or symposium is sponsored by the office of postgraduate medical education, at the University of Colorado School of Medicine. Competition is open, but limited to interns and residents in the state of Colorado. There were 42 scientific papers submitted to the judging panel for consideration. Seventeen of these papers were selected for reading and Dr. Hori's paper, "The Importance of Sub-diagnostic Elevations in Serum Glutamic Oxalcetic Transaminase in Patients with Possible Myocardial Infarction," was judged best of all.

The scientific research reported in these papers can be on any subject, but must be the intern or residents own work. Judging is on the basis of originality, merit, subject matter and results, among other criterion.

Dr. Hori received supervision and advice on this project from Dr. John Rice, associate pathologist at Penrose Hospital.

Annual Luncheon Highlights Seven College Activities

The fifth annual luncheon of the Seven College Club of Colorado Springs was held May 23 at the El Paso Club. Attending were the alumnae of the seven Eastern women's colleges: Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar, and Wellesley.

Luncheon guests were Miss Judy Moody, Air Force Academy High School, and Miss Vivien Rubens, Wasson High School, who will enter Vassar College this fall. Both girls received scholarships from the Colorado Vassar Club and from Vassar College.

The election of officers for 1964-65 was held and a report of the Club's activities was presented by Mrs. Donald Higginbotham, the out-going chairman.

Cooperation among the 110 Colorado Springs alumnae of these seven Eastern women's colleges began five years ago with the formation of the Seven College Club. Its purpose is to provide a link between the eastern campuses and the local secondary schools. Not a fund-raising organization, but instead dedicated to the presentation of a liberal arts education for women, they inform each guidance counselor of admission procedures and scholarship aids. Through school visits and a panel discussion, they meet with both junior and senior high school students and their parents to explain college life on each of the seven campuses and to interpret college board examinations, course requirements, tuition costs and scholarships.

McClow, Mrs. John Pitman, Radcliffe alumna, and Sharon Griffith, a ninth grade student from the Colorado Springs School for Girls.

Coed Scores Talkative Way

By A. E. HEFFERNAN

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Laurie Wittman, who resents "the alledged superiority of men," in her own small way has carved another niche for women in the man's world.

She is the first woman elected president of Spring Hill College's 115-year-old Portier Debating Society.

She also won over the society's members by compiling for the first time a history of the organization which debates a dozen colleges annually.

Miss Wittman, an 18-year-old sophomore, plans to be a lawyer. She has strong ideas about women's place in society.

"Quite frankly, I resent the alleged superiority of men — an illusion they have created—and I think in most fields women are certainly equal to men and in some areas superior," said Miss Wittman, a stately, hazel-eyed blonde.

"I also think women are as intelligent, as capable and have just as much stamina for hard work."

She admits, however, men may be right about one complaint they have about women —their becoming emotionally involved in certain situations.

"This may be true but a woman in law can do her job without all this emotional involvement . . . especially after she becomes experienced."

Miss Wittman said she wants to marry, too. Marriage and "a lot of children" would mix fine with her legal career.

What kind of man?

"I'm looking for a man who can exercise authority. I think he'll need it with me, and I'll respect him more for it."

Coed Scores Talkative Way

By A. E. HEFFERNAN

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Laurie Wittman, who resents "the alledged superiority of men," in her own small way has carved another niche for women in the man's world.

She is the first woman elected president of Spring Hill College's 115-year-old Portier Debating Society.

She also won over the society's members by compiling for the first time a history of the organization which debates a dozen colleges annually.

Miss Wittman, an 18-year-old sophomore, plans to be a lawyer. She has strong ideas about women's place in society.

"Quite frankly, I resent the alleged superiority of men — an illusion they have created—and I think in most fields women are certainly equal to men and in some areas superior," said Miss Wittman, a stately, hazel-eyed blonde.

"I also think women are as intelligent, as capable and have just as much stamina for hard work."

She admits, however, men may be right about one complaint they have about women—their becoming emotionally involved in certain situations.

"This may be true but a woman in law can do her job without all this emotional involvement . . . especially after she becomes experienced."

Miss Wittman said she wants to marry, too. Marriage and "a lot of children" would mix fine with her legal career.

What kind of man?

"I'm looking for a man who can exercise authority. I think he'll need it with me, and I'll respect him more for it."

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Throw culture to the wind! I am the proud father of five children, but I must admit that our station wagon was the filthiest wagon in town, especially when we went to a drive-in to eat hamburgers.

So . . . I bought a toilet tissue holder and a roll of tissue and attached it to the back of one seat so all the kids could see it.

This has been a blessing and "NOT in disguise either!"

Now the children can tear off as much paper as they need when they spill their malts, hamburgers, etc.,—or when they sneeze.

I recommend this method to all mothers and fathers with a batch of offspring.

We also keep a bottle filled with water in the glove compartment. This to wet the paper napkin (which most drive - ins don't provide enough of) or a piece of our tissue, to sponge off sticky faces and fingers.

Got any more ideas? For a father of five boys? —Avid Fan Father

---

Whose fan is whose?

I think you are great!

Anyone have any more ideas? If so write to Heloise in care of this paper. Letters do not have to be signed to appear. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Don't discard your old half-slips!

Tie a pretty ribbon around the bottom, drape on a hanger, secure with clothespins and they can be used for laundry bags, stocking bags, rag bags, or clothespin bags. —Mrs. F.

Dear Heloise:

I was so tired of pushing the baby carriage and trying to carry several parcels, all at the same time.

So I took two metal shower curtain rings (safety pin type), clipped them on the handle of the carriage, and now fasten the handles of my shopping bag to the rings.

What a relief! Too bad my baby has nearly outgrown the carriage! —L. A. Farba

Dear Heloise:

I hope everyone finds this as much a boon to drying washable sweaters as I have:

In the basement of my home, I set up an aluminum frame chaise lounge—the kind with the webbed back and seat, and which can be folded flat.

I put a light-weight towel on this and then lay my sweaters on the towel.

My sweaters dry faster because the air reaches them from both top and bottom. —Mrs. Jensen

From Heloise's Sewing Basket

Dear Ladies:

Do you know that if you have a name brand sewing machine you can remove the pressure foot (that's the little gadget with the two prongs on it that you feed your material under) and sew on buttons?

You can!

Put your button under the needle, put the needle through one eye, lower the gadget at the back (pressure foot handle) as if you were doing ordinary sewing, and use your right HAND to turn the wheel.

The button, when held with the fingers of your left hand, may be moved back and forth to sew through each eye . . . be sure to use your hand for this and not the electrical foot

I found this is the quickest way of sewing buttons on children's clothes, husband's shirts etc. Try it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Food can be fried on top of the stove without splattering, and yet be crisp and brown, if a tin pie plate, in which some holes have been punched, is placed over the pan.

The holes allow the moisture and steam to escape and the food will be crisp and well browned. —Mrs. D. H. M.

Dear Heloise:

To remove decals from walls or furniture, I simply paint the decals with several coats of vinegar, allowing some time for it to soak in. The decals then wash off! —Bessie L.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Throw culture to the wind! I am the proud father of five children, but I must admit that our station wagon was the filthiest wagon in town, especially when we went to a drive-in to eat hamburgers.

So . . . I bought a toilet tissue holder and a roll of tissue and attached it to the back of one seat so all the kids could see it.

This has been a blessing and "NOT in disguise either!"

Now the children can tear off as much paper as they need when they spill their malts, hamburgers, etc.—or when they sneeze.

I recommend this method to all mothers and fathers with a batch of offspring.

We also keep a bottle filled with water in the glove compartment. This to wet the paper napkin (which most drive - ins don't provide enough of) or a piece of our tissue, to sponge off sticky faces and fingers.

Got any more ideas? For a father of five boys? —Avid Fan Father

---

Whose fan is whose?

I think you are great!

Anyone have any more ideas? If so write to Heloise in care of this paper. Letters do not have to be signed to appear. —Heloise

Dear Heloise

Don't discard your old half-slips!

The a pretty ribbon around the bottom, drape on a hanger, secure with clothespins and they can be used for laundry bags, stocking bags, rag bags, or clothespin bags. —Mrs. F.

Dear Heloise

I was so tired of pushing the baby carriage and trying to carry several parcels, all at the same time.

So I took two metal shower curtain rings (safety pin type), clipped them on the handle of the carriage, and now fasten the handles of my shopping bag to the rings.

What a relief! Too bad my baby has nearly outgrown the carriage! —L. A. Farba

Dear Heloise:

I hope everyone finds this as much a boon to drying washable sweaters as I have.

In the basement of my home, I set up an aluminum frame chaise lounge—the kind with the webbed back and seat, and which can be folded flat.

I put a light-weight towel on this and then lay my sweaters on the towel.

My sweaters dry faster because the air reaches them from both top and bottom. —Mrs. Jensen

From Heloise's Sewing Basket

Dear Ladies:

Do you know that if you have a name brand sewing machine you can remove the pressure foot (that's the little gadget with the two prongs on it that you feed your material under) and sew on buttons?

You can!

Put your button under the needle, put the needle through one eye, lower the gadget at the back (pressure foot handle) as if you were doing ordinary sewing, and use your right HAND to turn the wheel.

The button, when held with the fingers of your left hand, may be moved back and forth to sew through each eye . . . be sure to use your hand for this and not the electrical foot.

I found this is the quickest way of sewing buttons on children's clothes, husband's shirts etc. Try it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Food can be fried on top of the stove without splattering, and yet be crisp and brown, if a tin pie plate, in which some holes have been punched, is placed over the pan.

The holes allow the moisture and steam to escape and the food will be crisp and well browned. —Mrs. D. H. M.

Dear Heloise:

To remove decals from walls or furniture, I simply paint the decals with several coats of vinegar, allowing some time for it to soak in. The decals then wash off! —Bessie L.

New Socks for Slacks Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hosiery manufacturer now has answered the feminine question—what to wear in the way of foot covering with slacks or other pants?

It's producing "low hose," sheer nylons knit in three different lengths designed to cover bare shanks or replace those wrinkled socks often borrowed from hubby.

One style hits two to three inches above the ankle, one about mid-calf, the third to the knees. Holding up the "low hose" is a spandex cuff. The short hose come in regular hosiery shades such as beiges, browns and off-blacks. (Sophisti-Quettes, Allstate Hosery.

Mrs. Tubbs Is Regional President of Alpha Iota

The Rocky Mountain Region of Alpha Iota, international honorary business sorority, held its 13th semi-annual conclave at the Heart 'O Denver Motor Hotel, Denver. Hostess chapters were Theta Chi, of Barnes School of Commerce and the Denver Alumnae.

New officers elected at the business meeting were Mrs. Sherrill Tubbs, Omicron Chapter, Colorado Springs, president; Mrs. Peggy Axton, Colorado Springs Alumnae, vice president; Miss Virginia Johnston, Theta Chi Chapter, Denver, secretary; and Miss Sally Pearce, Colorado Springs Alumnae, was re-elected treasurer.

The main topic of discussion was co-hosting the international convention July 14-18, 1965, at the Ridpath Hotel and Motor Inn, Spokane, Wash. Other hostesses will be the Northwest Region consisting of Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia, Canada and chapters in Winnipeg, Manitoba; Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; and Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Guests of honor at the banquet on Saturday were Mrs. Eileen Talley, regional councilor; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Barnes, Barnes School of Commerce; and Mr. Frank Flesher, Sales Training Institute, Denver, who was the speaker.

Alpha Iota began as a local club, organized Oct. 21, 1925, by Mrs. Elsie M. Fenton, secretary of the American Institute of Business in Des Moines, Iowa, for the purpose of promoting friendship among the students of that school. In the autumn of 1927 membership in Alpha Iota, was placed on an honorary basis, limited to women students of high scholastic standing. Since then superior scholarship has always been a requirement for eligibility.

Alpha Iota was incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa in 1930 as a non-profit organization with the right to grant charters and establish chapters throughout the United States and Canada. The signers of the Articles of Incorporation constituted the First National Board of Governors.

In January, 1931, chapters were grouped into geographical provinces and a national councilor appointed for each division. Alpha Iota became international with the installation of the first Canadian Chapter, Chi Alpha, at the Angus School of Commerce, Winnipeg, Canada, on October 26, 1935. The first overseas chapter of Alpha Iota, Eta Lambda, was installed on Aug. 1, 1948, at the Phillips Commercial School in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Store Solicits Odd Requests

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ever since a St. Louis department store offered to go around the world for its customers, shoppers have been showing interest in unusual purchases.

Samples: a used pair of leather wrestling pants from Turkey, a carved wood monkey wearing glasses and reading a book.

J. Arthur Baer, II, president of the store (Stix, Baer & Fuller), said—"Whatever customers order, we get."

A New York advertising agency has put in an order for an assortment of 50 attache cases "made of unborn calf."

"We're trying to find the cases in varied shades of beige, and we will," Baer said.

The department store announced its new "Round The World Shop" customer service in February, saying — "you tell us what you want . . we'll find it."

Baer said an automobile dealer in Ohio wanted the leather wrestling pants from Turkey, and a former solider in Korea, now living in Illionois, wanted a pair of rubber shoes from Korea.

"The man said when he was in Korea 10 years ago he bought a pair of slippers, and he says they're just great for wearing around the house because they are built just like ballet slippers."

Roll out baking powder biscuit dough thin; cut into rounds. Spread surface with melted butter and fold over; press together the edges. Bake as usual and serve with butter.

Cook, whose marriage to Cadet Parke Hinman, USAFA, was the guest of honor at a bridal shower Wednesday evening given by Miss Trudy Dankert, and Mrs. Gary Gunderson at her home, 511 E. Platte Ave. The couple plan a June 4 wedding. New Socks for Slacks Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hosiery manufacturer now has answered the feminine question—what to wear in the way of foot covering with slacks or other pants?

It's producing "low hose." sheer nylons knit in three different lengths designed to cover bare shanks or replace those wrinkled socks often borrowed from hubby.

One style hits two to three inches above the ankle, one about mid-calf, the third to the knees. Holding up the "low hose" is a spandex cuff. The short hose come in regular hosiery shades such as beiges, browns and off-blacks. (Sophisti-Quettes, Allstate Hosery.

Mrs. Tubbs Is Regional President of Alpha Iota

The Rocky Mountain Region of Alpha Iota, international honorary business sorority, held its 13th semi-annual conclave at the Heart O'Denver Motor Hotel, Denver. Hostess chapters were Theta Chi, of Barnes School of Commerce and the Denver Alumnae.

New officers elected at the business meeting were Mrs. Sherrill Tubbs, Omicron Chapter, Colorado Springs, president; Mrs. Peggy Axton, Colorado Springs Alumnae, vice president; Miss Virginia Johnston, Theta Chi Chapter, Denver, secretary, and Miss Sally Pearce, Colorado Springs Alumnae, was re-elected treasurer.

The main topic of discussion was co-hosting the international convention July 14-18, 1965, at the Ridpath Hotel and Motor Inn, Spokane, Wash. Other hostesses will be the Northwest Region consisting of Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia, Canada and chapters in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; and Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Guests of honor at the banquet on Saturday were Mrs. Eileen Talley, regional councilor; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Barnes, Barnes School of Commerce, and Mr. Frank Flesher, Sales Training Institute, Denver, who was the speaker.

Alpha Iota began as a local club, organized Oct. 21, 1925, by Mrs. Elsie M. Fenton, secretary of the American Institute of Business in Des Moines, Iowa, for the purpose of promoting friendship among the students of that school. In the autumn of 1927 membership in Alpha Iota, was placed on an honorary basis, limited to women students of high scholastic standing. Since then superior scholarship has always been a requirement for eligibility.

Alpha Iota was incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa in 1930 as a non-profit organization with the right to grant charters and establish chapters throughout the United States and Canada. The signers of the Articles of Incorporation constituted the First National Board of Governors.

In January, 1931, chapters were grouped into geographical provinces and a national councilor appointed for each division. Alpha Iota became international with the installation of the first Canadian Chapter, Chi Alpha, at the Angus School of Commerce, Winnipeg, Canada, on October 26, 1935. The first overseas chapter of Alpha Iota, Eta Lambda, was installed on Aug. 1, 1948, at the Phillips Commercial School in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Store Solicits Odd Requests

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ever since a St. Louis department store offered to go around the world for its customers, shoppers have been showing interest in unusual purchases.

Samples: a used pair of leather wrestling pants from Turkey, a carved wood monkey wearing glasses and reading a book.

J. Arthur Baer, II, president of the store (Stix, Baer & Fuller), said—"Whatever customers order, we get."

A New York advertising agency has put in an order for an assortment of 50 attache cases "made of unborn calf."

"We're trying to find the cases in varied shades of beige, and we will," Baer said.

The department store announced its new "Round The World Shop" customer service in February, saying — "you tell us what you want . . . we'll find it."

Baer said an automobile dealer in Ohio wanted the leather wrestling pants from Turkey, and a former solider in Korea, now living in Illinois, wanted a pair of rubber shoes from Korea.

"The man said when he was in Korea 10 years ago he bought a pair of slippers, and he says they're just great for wearing around the house because they are built just like ballet slippers."

Roll out baking powder biscuit dough thin, cut into rounds. Spread surface with melted butter and fold over; press together the edges. Bake as usual and serve with butter.

Nimono: (Broiled Foods)

CABBAGE MAKI
(Cabbage Rolls in Dashi Sauce)

1 large head cabbage
1 pound ground pork
1 large potato, boiled and riced
1 medium onion, chopped
3 fresh mushrooms, chopped very fine
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon Aji-no-moto (MSG)
2 eggs
8 cups Dashi (stock)
2 teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons Kikkoman Shoyu (Soy Sauce)
½ teaspoon Aji-no-moto (MSG)
2 teaspoons sugar

Separate cabbage leaves. Select 8 large leaves; blanch in boiling water; drain. Combine ground pork, potato, chopped onion, chopped mushrooms, salt, pepper, Aji-no-moto and eggs. Mix lightly but well. Place equal amounts of pork mixture on cabbage leaves. Roll up leaves, securing with two pieces of string or several toothpicks.

Season Dashi with the 2 teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons Shoyu, ½ teaspoon Aji-no-moto, and 2 teaspoons sugar, and bring to a boil in a deep pan. Add cabbage rolls; cover and cook over medium heat 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from stock, placing two rolls in each of four deep soup bowls. Pour over hot soup and serve. Makes 4 servings.

Vegetables are a major part of the Japanese diet. When Buddhism came to Japan the eating of meat was discouraged. Even after meat was allowed in the diet, vegetables continued to be the most important food, next to rice. Consequently, most Japanese dishes use meat, poultry and fish in small quantities for flavor, and "stretch" the dish with several vegetables lightly cooked to retain their natural flavor and crispness.

The Japanese cook would not consider using old or wilted vegetables — they must be garden fresh and a little immature for maximum tenderness. Great care is taken in their preparation for cooking. They are sliced, diced, chopped — carefully and artistically.

The actual bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	2 ◇
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♡

We have commented a number of times on the fallacious doctrine that under-game contracts should not be doubled without the holding of two trump tricks. A sounder policy is to double the opponents when you are quite convinced that they cannot fulfill the contract which they have undertaken, with the proviso, of course, tht you cannot score more points by going on with the bidding yourself. Sometimes we abandon the luxury of strafing the opponents in favor of seeking richer harvests that a game or slam may yield.

In today's hand from a recent tournament, the South player made a penalty double of the adverse contract without the sign of a trump trick.

North opened the bidding on a hand that most players would prefer to pass. It is worth only 12 points. South chose to respond with one heart. West overcalled with two diamonds and relieved North of the duty to speak. When it got back to South, he engaged in a little simple arithmetic. Since North had been unable to make a free rebid, it was highly improbable that his side could go game. Against the diamond contract, however, a number of tricks could be counted on. Since North had not supported hearts, it was not improbable that three tricks could be taken in that suit; the spade holding would, in conjunction with partner's holding, very probably produce a trick, and the opener could normally be counted upon to develop three defensive tricks. On this count, the contract could be set two tricks, so South doubled.

The ten of hearts was opened. South won with the queen and returned a trump. North took with the ace and continued with a heart. North ruffed the fourth round, cashed the ace of clubs, and got out with a trump. This forced declarer to lead away from his king of spades. The total casualties were four heart tricks, two spades, a club, and a diamond. Down three! The 500 points were a handsome reward for North and South, who, it will be seen, could not reasonably have scored a game.

if you're seven years old

In first love, almost anything goes. Give her flowers and she'll sigh over them. Or, really go 'all out' and give her an 'engagement ring' from a gum ball machine. And even if it takes seven or eight tries to get that 'special' one, she'll be yours forever, or at least until the next afternoon.

But soon you'll discover the freckles have faded away, and the little girl in pigtails has been magically replaced by someone even more wonderful. Then it will be roses, not daisies. We're experts in knowing what girls like. And that 'special' diamond ring will have to come from M. K. CABBAGE MAKI
(Cabbage Rolls in Dashi Sauce)

1 large head cabbage
1 pound ground pork
1 large potato, boiled and riced
1 medium onion, chopped
3 fresh mushrooms, chopped very fine
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon Aji-no-moto (MSG)
2 eggs
8 cups Dashi (stock)
2 teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons Kikkoman Shoyu (Soy Sauce)
½ teaspoon Aji-no-moto (MSG)
2 teaspoons sugar

Separate cabbage leaves. Select 8 large leaves; blanch in boiling water; drain. Combine ground pork, potato, chopped onion, chopped mushrooms, salt, pepper, Aji-no-moto and eggs. Mix lightly but well. Place equal amounts of pork mixture on cabbage leaves. Roll up leaves, securing with two pieces of string or several toothpicks.

Season Dashi with the 2 teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons Shoyu, ½ teaspoon Aji-no-moto, and 2 teaspoons sugar, and bring to a boil in a deep pan. Add cabbage rolls; cover and cook over medium heat 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from stock, placing two rolls in each of four deep soup bowls. Pour over hot soup and serve. Makes 4 servings.

Vegetables are a major part of the Japanese diet. When Buddhism came to Japan the eating of meat was discouraged. Even after meat was allowed in the diet, vegetables continued to be the most important food, next to rice. Consequently, most Japanese dishes use meat, poultry and fish in small quantities for flavor, and "stretch" the dish with several vegetables lightly cooked to retain their natural flavor and crispness.

The Japanese cook would not consider using old or wilted vegetables — they must be garden fresh and a little immature for maximum tenderness. Great care is taken in their preparation for cooking. They are sliced, diced, chopped — carefully and artistically.

The actual bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	2 ◇
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♡

We have commented a number of times on the fallacious doctrine that under-game contracts should not be doubled without the holding of two trump tricks. A sounder policy is to double the opponents when you are quite convinced that they cannot fulfill the contract which they have undertaken, with the proviso, of course, that you cannot score more points by going on with the bidding yourself. Sometimes we abandon the luxury of straffing the opponents in favor of seeking richer harvests that a game or slam may yield.

In today's hand from a recent tournament, the South player made a penalty double of the adverse contract without the sign of a trump trick.

North opened the bidding on a hand that most players would prefer to pass. It is worth only 12 points. South chose to respond with one heart. West overcalled with two diamonds and relieved North of the duty to speak. When it got back to South, he engaged in a little simple arithmetic. Since North had been unable to make a free rebid, it was highly improbable that his side could go game. Against the diamond contract, however, a number of tricks could be counted on. Since North had not supported hearts, it was not improbable that three tricks could be taken in that suit; the spade holding would, in conjunction with partner's holding, very probably produce a trick, and the opener could normally be counted upon to develop three defensive tricks. On this count, the contract could be set two tricks, so South doubled.

The ten of hearts was opened. South won with the queen and returned a trump. North took with the ace and continued with a heart. North ruffed the fourth round, cashed the ace of clubs, and got out with a trump. This forced declarer to lead away from his king of spades. The total casualties were four heart tricks, two spades, a club, and a diamond. Down three! The 500 points were a handsome reward for North and South, who, it will be seen, could not reasonably have scored a game.

You can buy an engagement ring from a gum ball machine if you're seven years old

In first love, almost anything goes. Give her flowers and she'll sigh over them. Or, really go 'all out' and give her an 'engagement ring' from a gum ball machine. And even if it takes seven or eight tries to get that 'special' one, she'll be yours forever, or at least until the next afternoon.

But soon you'll discover the freckles have faded away, and the little girl in pigtails has been magically replaced by someone even more wonderful. Then it will be roses, not daisies. We're experts in knowing what girls like. And that 'special' diamond ring will have to come from M. K. Myers. In 18K gold, pear-shaped from $435, brilliant-cut from $300, marquise diamond from $575.

Efficient Management Helps Mom Survive Problem

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three young mothers, living hundreds of miles apart, currently share in the many problems and joys common to their status as parents of quadruplets.

What they have learned, both about child rearing in quantity and about being mothers in the spotlight, is of value to other parents.

In Jackson, Miss., for example, Mrs. Martha Alice Harkins tends to one of her seven-month-old quadruplet girls as the three others play happily in a double-tiered, double-decker crib. Hitting upon this unusual sleeping arrangement seems like a stroke of genius.

Mrs. Harkins says the arrangement was born of necessity.

"Our most immediate problem," she said, "was making room for the four little girls. Our home was already filled to capacity with five other children."

Mrs. Barbara Axe, another mother of quads, says her first problem of major size entailed relocation of the family from Lima to Toledo, Ohio, when husband had a job change. It occurred within the first year.

"The girls naturally seem to command everyone's attention," she said. "Ordinarily this would not be a problem except that Phil and I have three other preschool youngsters besides the quads. From the beginning we were determined that each of our children would share equally in our love and attention."

Meanwhile, the third mother of quads, Mrs. Rhoda Brecker, of Queens, N.Y., feels that her experience as a teacher will be helpful in raising her first-born —three girls and a boy, now five months old.

Hand-in-hand with the problems of space, other children and personality development comes, the mothers agreed, the mammoth job of feeding and administering to the ever-demanding needs of the quads. The three were interviewed separately by long-distance telephone.

Normally, a mother of four infants can spend almost her entire time washing, boiling and sterilizing bottles—as many as 210 a week.

All three mothers, however, use a feeding system that does away with most of these unusual problems while providing nourishing meals for the babies.

Instead of sterilizing bottles over and over again, they have been using the Playtex nurser that features pre-sterilized, disposable inner liners. The formula is poured into the liners, the babies are fed, and the liners are thrown away after each feeding.

Practicality seems to reign in other areas, too.

"My husband was convinced that I had carried this practical element a bit too far when I gave him a washing machine for Valentine's Day,' Mrs. Brecker said.

"With over 325 diapers piling up in one week, and pounds of other infant clothing that's soiled in one day, we needed the washer."

Pre-folded diapers, disposable diapers, diaper service and easy-to-care for baby clothing happily provide other shortcuts for the other mothers.

Despite their rigorous schedules, these young mothers are determined to maintain normal lives for themselves, their husbands and children.

Mrs. Axe, a nurse, recently returned to working three nights a week at a local hospital.

"Being able to get outside the home and into an adult atmosphere, for even a few hours each week, is essential to any active, mature woman," she said.

The Breckers still are able to enjoy a social evening or afternoon, although not as frequently as before. Dinner and a movie or an occasional hockey match are looked to with great anticipation.

Leisure moments in the Harkins family are devoted to the older children.

"With so little time off from his grocery business," Mrs. Harkins said, "my husband and I believe that any extra time we have should be spent with our active youngsters.

"This is important to the happiness of our family."

Mrs. Barbara Axe, another mother of quads, says her first problem of major size entailed relocation of the family from Lima to Toledo, Ohio, when husband had a job change. It occurred within the first year.

"The girls naturally seem to command everyone's attention," she said. "Ordinarily this would not be a problem except that Phil and I have three other preschool youngsters besides the quads. From the beginning we were determined that each of our children would share equally in our love and attention."

Meanwhile, the third mother of quads, Mrs. Rhoda Brecker, of Queens, N.Y., feels that her experience as a teacher will be helpful in raising her first-born —three girls and a boy, now five months old.

Hand-in-hand with the problems of space, other children and personality development comes, the mothers agreed, the mammoth job of feeding and administering to the ever-demanding needs of the quads. The three were interviewed separately by long-distance telephone.

Normally, a mother of four infants can spend almost her entire time washing, boiling and sterilizing bottles—as many as 210 a week.

All three mothers, however, use a feeding system that does away with most of these unusual problems while providing nourishing meals for the babies.

Instead of sterilizing bottles over and over again, they have been using the Playtex nurser that features pre-sterilized, disposable inner liners. The formula is poured into the liners, the babies are fed, and the liners are thrown away after each feeding.

Practicality seems to reign in other areas, too.

"My husband was convinced that I had carried this practical element a bit too far when I gave him a washing machine for Valentine's Day," Mrs. Brecker said.

"With over 325 diapers piling up in one week, and pounds of other infant clothing that's soiled in one day, we needed the washer."

Pre-folded diapers, disposable diapers, diaper service and easy-to-care for baby clothing happily provide other shortcuts for the other mothers.

Despite their rigorous schedules, these young mothers are determined to maintain normal lives for themselves, their husbands and children.

Mrs. Axe, a nurse, recently returned to working three nights a week at a local hospital.

"Being able to get outside the home and into an adult atmosphere, for even a few hours each week, is essential to any active, mature woman," she said.

The Breckers still are able to enjoy a social evening or afternoon, although not as frequently as before. Dinner and a movie or an occasional hockey match are looked to with great anticipation.

Leisure moments in the Harkins family are devoted to the older children.

"With so little time off from his grocery business," Mrs. Harkins said, "my husband and I believe that any extra time we have should be spent with our active youngsters.

Gray Lady Caps Awarded to 23 Volunteers

Twenty-five American Red Cross volunteers — 23 Gray Ladies and two staff aides received their caps Wednesday, May 27 in the Ft. Carson Hospital Chapel.

Lt. Col. Jewell Derryberry, chief of nursing services, capped the graduates. Col. Hudson R. Hurst, acting post commander, was present to congratulate the new volunteers.

Gray Ladies undergo an intensive training period prior to their capping and assignment. All students receive 12 hours of classroom instruction in Red Cross orientation, philosophy of volunteering and medical ethics.

They then serve 10 hours on-the-job training at the Carson Hospital under the guidance of more experienced Gray Ladies and the nursing staff.

Volunteers who will serve in dental wards receive 20 additional hours of study and practical experience.

In addition to services in wards, they also serve in OB-GYN, well baby, and orthopedic clinics. They make regular visits to wards, perform personal and morale services, and participate in recreation programs.

This most recent class at Carson will be assigned to duty at the Carson Hospital, Ent AFB, the Air Force Academy, and other hospitals and clinics in the Colorado Springs-Ft. Carson area.

Mrs. Sidney Gritz and Mrs. Harold Pinney are the two staff aides to complete their training.

Wash Your Walls The Painless Way

CHICAGO (UPI)—One of the most difficult and disagreeable spring cleaning jobs is wall washing. One paint manufacturer (O'Brien Paint Corp.) offers these hints to make the job easier:

—Remove as much furniture and accessories from the room as possible so that there is plenty of room in which to work. Cover the floor with a drop cloth or papers.

—If the wall and ceiling areas are unusually dirty, dry clean these areas first with a wallpaper cleaner. This removes the excess surface dirt; reduces the hazard of streaking and makes the succeeding washing operation much easier.

—Wash from the bottom up. Start with the walls first and work up to the ceiling. Avoid splashing on the areas below where you are working since "splashes" or "drippings" will result in spotting which might be difficult to remove.

—Use two buckets—one filled about two-thirds with warm water mixed with a wall-washing compound. The other bucket should be filled with clean, warm rinse water.

—When the rinse water starts to become dirty, replace it with fresh water.

—Use two sponges or two pieces of turkish towel. Use one sponge or one cloth in one bucket and one in the other. If a gloss or semi-gloss enameled surface is being washed, final rinse and wipe should be made with a soft piece of cloth or turkish towel.

—Do not spot clean smudged areas with abrasive materials.

Household Hints

United Press International

Remove stubborn grease stains from wallpaper by applying liquid starch to the spots and let dry. Brush off. A couple of applications may be necessary.

Brush a film of ordinary rubber cement along the lower edge of a picture that won't stay straight on the wall.

Tasty dressing for cucumber salads: Combine sour cream, chopped pecans, grated onion, lemon juice and salt.

Cut flowers in late afternoon or early morning to prolong life.

Use a knife with a saw-toothed edge to cut fruits and tomatoes.

Defrost frozen meat with packaging intact.

The background color of the skin—not the blush—is the best indicator of ripeness in peaches. Look for a whitish or yellowish background color.

Dip old and droopy silk scarves in a thin solution of starch to make them look new again.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Here Is Your Answer!

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts: Ten years ago a very attractive 19-year-old girl divorced her husband shortly before her baby was born. She then proceeded to support herself. She is now almost 30. Two years ago she met a well-to-do, 42-year-old bachelor who became interested in her immediately. He occupied every spare minute she had, took her on trips and bought her expensive gifts. But he has never mentioned marriage. This young woman does not want to go with him indefinitely, and if he will not eventually marry her she doesn't want to waste any more time on him. What advice would you give this woman? —CLOSE FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I would advise her not to give him up until the 4th of July. If he still hasn't mentioned marriage, she should put a firecracker under him in the form of a direct question. And if he doesn't marry her by Hallowe'en, she should find herself another spook.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 44 years of age. I was married but my husband died. I own my own home and have no children. My brother, 36, has shared my home for the past four years. He is a rather shy person and doesn't go out much. My problem is this: For the past two years I have been keeping company with a gentleman of whom I am very fond, and he insists it is morally wrong for my brother and me to live together! We argue constantly about this and it makes me very nervous. My brother and I both work and I can't for the life of me see what's morally wrong in our living together. It's a very large house and there would be no reason for my brother to take a room elsewhere when I own this empty house. He also takes care of my lawn and I don't have the worry of living all alone. —QUESTION MARK

DEAR QUESTION: Your friend should get his mind out of the gutter. Could it be that your brother's living with you has cramped your friend's style because he'd prefer that you be completely unchaperoned? When one sees dirt, it's sometimes in one's own eye.

DEAR ABBY: I happen to be one of those STINKERS who has been a heavy smoker for over 40 years, and I have enjoyed every puff. I got three clippings in the mail of your column where that person wrote in to say that people won't quit smoking because of the lung cancer fear, but they might quit if somebody told them that all smokers just plain stink! I never knew that I stank. How can I find out who sent those clippings? —D.S.S.

DEAR D.S.S.: It's hardly serious enough for the FBI. Just assume the clippings were sent by someone who NOSE you very well.

DEAR ABBY: Speaking of odd names, I named my daughters Rose, Violet, Gardenia and Camillia. Our son was named Jonquil, but we call John because that's his Daddy's name. People refer to them as the Cavallo Bouquet. Feel free to use my name. Sincerely, — MRS. CAVALLO, THE BLOOMING IDIOT: MEMPHIS

Colorful cotton and silk kimonos which reach to mid-thigh are gaining in popularity as bikini cover ups.

Ideal for sailing and late beachcombing strolls: long middys of closely-woven cottons which keep the wind out.

Ron Postal, president of the National Council of Men's Fashions, urges men to adopt more color in their costuming, gradually breaking down their reluctance with such examples as the fact that the American cowboy on Saturday nights is a picture of multi-hued splendor and yet no one doubts his virility.

The cape, tiered, ruffled in lace, is the prettiest covering for the decolletage wedding gown, Women's Wear Daily reports. One version is tiny enough to hide only the shoulders. Others are bolero length or down to the floor.

Try a Delicacy: Ripened Beef!

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Kathryn Cooley, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Nebraska, says that dark colored beef in the meat case may be aged beef—"a real delicacy."

Beef ordinarily reaches the retail market one to two weeks after slaughter and is a bright red color. But aged, or ripened beef, is held—under controlled humidity and temperature—for a longer time. The result, among other changes, is the dark color.

Miss Cooley said only high quality, higher grade meat is aged. A fairly thick covering of fat, as is found on USDA prime grade beef, helps prevent unwanted discoloration and to keep down evaporation.

During aging, the meat "ripens" much as aged cheese does. Aging averages three to five weeks. But modern methods make it possible to "ripen" the meat in shorter time. Because it is held longer in storage and is of the highest quality, aged beef costs more than fresh beef.

NURSES HONORED — The board of the City County Health Department and the executive committee of the Visiting Nurse Association honored three nurses who have been with the organizations for many years, at luncheon May 28 at the home of Mrs. Hartley Murray, 1706 N. Prospect St. Left to right are Mrs. Murray, president of the VNA board; Mrs. George Thatcher, president of the City County Board of Health; Miss Dorothy Swanson and Miss Julia Work. Helen Miller, not pictured was the third honoree. Miss Miller served as a school nurse with the City and on the staff of the City County Health Dept. for 37 years. Miss Work acted as VNA supervisor, and later as staff nurse with CCHD, for more than 40 years. Miss Swanson has been associate director of PHN for the past ten years and prior to that time, was a staff nurse for seven years. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Mortarboard's Autograph Hat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's graduates can take more than diplomas away from graduation. They can take autographs of friends who sign their mortarboard.

The company which furnishes graduation cap and gowns have come out with mortarboards with space inside for the signatures of friends.

Normally, the company said, caps like gowns are rented to graduates. But there has been a growing demand for a souvenir of the occasion. At first, the company offered a detachable tassel that graduates could buy. Now it's gone all out, offering the whole cap to the students sentimental about one of those commencements in life. (Signa-Cap. E. R. Moore Co., 932 W. Dakin St., Chicago, Ill.).

Meats such as steaks and chops will not curl as they cook if you score the edge every inch and a half before broiling.

Fowl Project Busies Children

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — Hundreds of school children in Washington are anxious to try raising pheasants even though the work is difficult, there is no pay and the birds must be released.

The State Game Department provides the eggs but the children or their teachers and parents must do all of the work.

Bill Ford of the agency's game management division explained that the program was primarily an educational one although the department hopes it will also increase the state's supply of huntable pheasants.

He said that the department has received applications from Boy and Girl Scout organizations, Four-H groups and grade school classes.

"The only restriction is that the children must agree to release all of the birds. Everyone who asks for eggs will get them," Ford said.

Will a pheasant, hand fed for the first few weeks of his life, grow up to like people and thus become easier prey for hunters?

"The pheasant isn't a very easy bird to tame," Ford said. "We think they will be wild enough by the time the hunting season starts."

Ford said he has received 10 to 15 letters each day since the program was announced. Most of the letters are from groups, ranging from a few children to 30 or 40, he said.

Try a Delicacy: Ripened Beef!

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Kathryn Cooley, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Nebraska, says that dark colored beef in the meat case may be aged beef—"a real delicacy."

Beef ordinarily reaches the retail market one to two weeks after slaughter and is a bright red color. But aged, or ripened beef, is held—under controlled humidity and temperature—for a longer time. The result, among other changes, is the dark color.

Miss Cooley said only high quality, higher grade meat is aged. A fairly thick covering of fat, as is found on USDA prime grade beef, helps prevent unwanted discoloration and to keep down evaporation.

During aging, the meat "ripens" much as aged cheese does. Aging averages three to five weeks. But modern methods make it possible to "ripen" the meat in shorter time. Because it is held longer in storage and is of the highest quality, aged beef costs more than fresh beef.

Mortarboard's Autograph Hat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's graduates can take more than diplomas away from graduation. They can take autographs of friends who sign their mortarboard.

The company which furnishes graduation cap and gowns have come out with mortarboards with space inside for the signatures of friends.

Normally, the company said, caps like gowns are rented to graduates. But there has been a growing demand for a souvenir of the occasion. At first, the company offered a detachable tassel that graduates could buy. Now it's gone all out, offering the whole cap to the students sentimental about one of those commencements in life. (Signa-Cap, E. R. Moore Co., 932 W. Dakin St., Chicago, Ill.).

Meats such as steaks and chops will not curl as they cook if you score the edge every inch and a half before broiling.

Good Manners

Restricting a growing child just to keep him clean thwarts his curiosity.

Locker room jokes are not for the family dinner table.

Cigarettes or cigars go in ash trays, not in the mashed potatoes or coffee cup.

For Rebekah Meeting Tuesday

The Fountain Rebekah Lodge 59 will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the Community Building on Main St.

Hostesses will be Edith Winkler and Elphia Mock.

All members are urged to attend and visiting Rebekahs are welcome.

Changes Are Forecast for Home Rule

ATLANTA (AP) — The speaker of the Georgia House, George T. Smith, predicts the Senate will change sections of the proposed new state constitution dealing with home rule.

The constitution was passed easily Friday by the House.

Smith did not elaborate on what changes he expects but said there also is a chance that the power to make appropriations may be shifted from the House to the Senate.

A special Senate committee will begin work on the House version of the new constitution Monday.

The House finally passed its version of the new constitution after much wrangling. When the document cleared by a 16-9 vote, it contained an historic provision for home rule in Georgia cities and counties.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders had insisted that home rule be included.

Rural legislators attacked the self-government clause for three hours, but when the showdown came, administration forces prevailed 109-50 on county home rule and a quick vote of 125-19 gave the same power to cities.

Ike and Wilkinson Talk at Gettysburg

NEW YORK (AP)—James A. Farley, 76 years old today, relaxed amid mementos of 50 years of political life — and looked happily toward Democratic prospects for this fall.

Farley, who piloted the 1932 presidential campaign of Franklin D. Roosevelt, is a former Democratic national chairman, former postmaster general, and is now board chairman of the Coca Cola Export Co. He lives in New York City.

Taxes on gasoline this year will cost the nation's motorists an average of $18 million daily.

WILBERT F. SNYDER

Physicist To Address Local Group

Wilbert F. Snyder, physicist and coordinator of calibration services of the radio standards engineering division, National Bureau of Standards, Boulder, will address a meeting of the Scientific Apparatus Makers Association here Monday.

Snyder wil explain current research in electronic standards and calibration services at the NBS Boulder laboratories.

To keep pace with the need of new and more accurate standards and calibration services in the frequency range of zero upwards into the microwave region of 40 gigacycles — 40 billion cycles per second — and higher, the radio standards engineering division engages in many development projects.

Standards of electronic measurement are needed to assure operational readiness of aircraft and satellites and to insure quality control in production. Much of the equipment developed and placed into service in recent months is for calibrations below 30 kilocycles.

It is in console form to permit easier operation, thereby reducing costs in performing a calibration and minimizing chances of making observational errors. Separate consoles are used to calibrate potential and current transformers, current shunts, voltage dividers, and thermal-voltage converters.

At the higher frequencies a number of recent developments are providing or will provide new calibration services for the Department of Defense agencies and other users.

Snyder has been with the National Bureau of Standards since 1927. His principal fields of research have been in sound measurements and acoustics and in electronic standards and measurements. He has served as assistant chief of the Microwave Standards Section, assistant to the chief of the Radio Standard Division, and assistant chief of the Electronic Calibration Center.

In 1962 he assumed his present responsibilities.

He obtained a B. A. degree in physics from North Central College in Illinois in 1926 and an M. A. in physics from the University of Illinois in 1927.

Snyder is a fellow of the Acoustical Society of America, a full member of the Scientific Research Society of America, and is a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and the Instrument Society of America.

Academy Areas Will Be Opened To Public View

Two Air Force Academy areas usually closed to the public will be open for inspection twice during June Week.

Fairchild Hall, the academic building, and a portion of Vandenberg Hall, the cadet dormitory, will be open to the public Sunday and Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m.

The Academy Library and Chapel will also be included in the open houses.

Visitors desiring to inspect a typical cadet room should go to the extreme east end of Vandenberg Hall "A" ring on the ground floor. The public will enter via stairwell A-1, walk to the second floor, and north to room 2-A-34. Exit will be made through stairwell A-2. No other areas of the dormitory will be open to the public.

In Fairchild Hall, special displays have been prepared in the Departments of Instructional Research (closet circuit TV), astronautics, electric engineering, physics, chemistry and physiology, aeronautics, mechanics, English (fine arts), geography, and behavioral sciences.

Personnel will be present in all departments to answer questions and demonstrate equipment or laboratory techniques.

Professionalism Sold by Photo Art School

By BART KINCH
United Press International

About sixteen years ago artist Albert Dorne set up the first of his Famous schools. This was the Famous Artists School in Westport, Conn.

The school was conceived and established to fill a need in the fields of commercial and fine art. It was predicated on the premise that "it takes success to teach success." Or, "it takes a pro to teach a pro."

The school was an immediate success and soon was followed by the Famous Writers School. The writers school had the same foundation and the same goal—to teach young and aspiring writers how to produce work of professional quality that will sell.

You can't be a professional unless someone buys your work. You can't sell your work unless it is of professional caliber. The "Famous" schools help in attaining this professional.

This year the Famous Writers School was followed by the latest Dorne entry into the home study field—the Famous Photographers School.

The basic teaching method is the same in all three schools—a guiding faculty of top men in their field, textbooks prepared by these same experts, assignments designed to test the resources of the student and instructors to check your work that are professionals in their fields.

These instructors correct your assignments, make visual recommendations to improve your skill as a photographer and send a commentary explaining in detail where you have gone astray and where you are on the right track.

Briefly, here's the way it works: You receive a set of textbooks, and work assignment books. The photographic assignments can be done in and around your home. When a lesson is completed, you drop it in a mailbox (you set your own weeks, whatever you need). At Westport, your assignment is sent to an instructor who is an expert in that particular lesson.

Each instructor has his own private office in which he looks over your assignment. He shows your weaknesses and how to correct them. He may make suggestions on form, color or composition—wherever he feels you are the least bit weak.

Next your instructor will dictate a letter telling you, step by step, the things you need to know to take better pictures. A stenographer will type the letter and it will be forwarded to you with your corrected assignment.

The guiding faculty meets regularly on a rotating schedule with the instructional staff to discuss specific problems of criticism and student assignments.

In the case of the Famous Photographers School, the guiding faculty includes: Richard Avedon, Bert Stern, Irving Penn, Philippe Halsman, Alfred Eisenstaedt, Ezra Stoller, Richard Beattie, Harry Garfield, Arthur d'Arazien and Joseph Costa.

The man in charge and who actually takes care of the day to day operation of the school is Victor Keppler, the director.

Vic is an old pro and one of the best. His career spans more than 35 years as a professional photographer and his accounts have totaled more than $5 million.

Vic agreed to shut down his profitable New York studio to devote his full energies to the school. He has very strong convictions about the future of photography in the world of business, mass communication and art.

"All you need to start your own career as a photographer," Keppler believes, "is a normal amount of talent and imagination. If you have these, and if you have the drive, the determination and the self-discipline to study and practice, then I think that we at the Famous Photographers School can help you toward that goal."

TRIAL CONTINUES

BRIGHTON (UPI)—A 12-member district court jury heard additional testimony today in the trial of Gaylord Edwards, 37, accused of murdering a man he reportedly found at the home of his estranged wife. The jury was finally selected late Wednesday after which the prosecution began to present its case. Officials said Edwards killed Floyd E. Harper, 24, last Oct. 24. Harper was at the Thornton, Colo., home of Edwards' estranged wife, Lucy, 37.

Jordan Bayless Wins National Sales Honors

F. Jordan Bayless, 2425 Chelton Rd., district manager of Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, led the Colorado Springs district to national leadership from a total field force of over 7,000 representatives and 650 districts in a recent national campaign.

Bayless, who is a native of Colorado Springs, won the national campaign on a department level comprised of 11 states, including Colorado, and placed fifth on a national level for all states in the union.

The campaign was in sales based on the volume of new life insurance placed during the month of April.

He is one of 21 district managers who have been invited to a sales meeting in Washington from Equitable's entire 50-state organization.

Bayless received his public school education in Colorado Springs schools and graduated from Colorado College. He is a life - long resident of the area. His wife is the former Betty J. Ehrenreich.

Rock Collector Continues Hobby In Classrooms

Toward the end of the school year, elementary school classes in District 11 begin their study of rocks and minerals, and for children in several schools that means a visit by Mrs. Stanley Young.

For the past 10 years, Mrs. Young has given much of her spare time to visiting classrooms where she shows her rock collection, talks about rocks and minerals of the region, and answers pupils' questions.

Her hobby started several years ago when one of her two sons began bringing home rock specimens. Before long other members of the family became enthusiastic rock collectors and were adding specimens. As the collection grew, teachers heard of it and asked Mrs. Young to speak to their classes.

She soon discovered, however, that the talks took more time than she had anticipated. One year, for example, she enrolled in a geology course at Colorado College because some children were asking questions she was unable to answer.

Making sure she can answer most of the questions that come up requires her to do considerable reading during the year in her fields of interest. Adding to her rock collection also takes time. The collection is a general rather than a specialized one to show children as many different kinds of rocks as possible.

Usually Mrs. Young talks to a large group of pupils in each school then visits individual classrooms to give the children a closer look at the rocks and answer their questions. Every year she speaks to several hundred children in grades four through six.

Teachers whose classes have heard Mrs. Young agree that her visits help to stimulate interest and enthusiasm for the study of rocks and minerals. Fo rseveral days after her visit teachers can count on their classrooms being filled with rocks brought by pupils.

In time, most children lose some of this initial enthusiasm, but in the meantime it has motivated children to learn. A few retain their interest and continue to study rocks and minerals on their own or in college. It is this that helps to make Mrs. Young's hobby such a satisfying one, she says.

Cows at Dairy Live Pretty High on Hog

Workmen finished laying more than 3,000 square feet of easily cleaned carpeting in their barn Friday. The cows had been slipping and falling because the concrete floor became slick during the almost continual washing process.

What the new footing will do for milk production has yet to be determined.

10th Victim of San Francisco Fire Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 10th victim of the Samoan firedance disaster in the parish hall of All Hallows Catholic Church last Saturday night died in a San Francisco hospital Thursday.

Fee Tafea, 26, a private policeman in San Francisco, had suffered burns over 90 per cent of his body.

Five died at the scene and over 100 were injured. Some still remain in critical condition.

The fire started during a fire dance—part of a Samoan holiday celebration.

Since 1878 Washington, D. C., has been administered by a three-member Board of Commissioners, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Jordan Bayless Wins National Sales Honors

F. Jordan Bayless, 2425 Chelton Rd., district manager of Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, led the Colorado Springs district to national leadership from a total field force of over 7,000 representatives and 650 districts in a recent national campaign.

Bayless, who is a native of Colorado Springs, won the national campaign on a department level comprised of 11 states, including Colorado, and placed fifth on a national level for all states in the union.

The campaign was in sales based on the volume of new life insurance placed during the month of April.

He is one of 21 district managers who have been invited to a sales meeting in Washington from Equitable's entire 50-state organization.

Bayless received his public school education in Colorado Springs schools and graduated from Colorado College. He is a life - long resident of the area. His wife is the former Betty J Ehrenreich.

Rock Collector Continues Hobby In Classrooms

Toward the end of the school year, elementary school classes in District 11 begin their study of rocks and minerals, and for children in several schools that means a visit by Mrs. Stanley Young.

For the past 10 years, Mrs. Young has given much of her spare time to visiting classrooms where she shows her rock collection, talks about rocks and minerals of the region, and answers pupils' questions.

Her hobby started several years ago when one of her two sons began bringing home rock specimens. Before long other members of the family became enthusiastic rock collectors and were adding specimens. As the collection grew, teachers heard of it and asked Mrs. Young to speak to their classes.

She soon discovered, however, that the talks took more time than she had anticipated. One year, for example, she enrolled in a geology course at Colorado College because some children were asking questions she was unable to answer.

Making sure she can answer most of the questions that come up requires her to do considerable reading during the year in her fields of interest. Adding to her rock collection also takes time. The collection is a general rather than a specialized one to show children as many different kinds of rocks as possible.

Usually Mrs. Young talks to a large group of pupils in each school then visits individual classrooms to give the children a closer look at the rocks and answer their questions. Every year she speaks to several hundred children in grades four through six.

Teachers whose classes have heard Mrs. Young agree that her visits help to stimulate interest and enthusiasm for the study of rocks and minerals. Fo rseveral days after her visit teachers can count on their classrooms being filled with rocks brought by pupils.

In time, most children lose some of this initial enthusiasm, but in the meantime it has motivated children to learn. A few retain their interest and continue to study rocks and minerals on their own or in college. It is this that helps to make Mrs. Young's hobby such a satisfying one, she says.

Cows at Dairy Live Pretty High on Hog

Workmen finished laying more than 3,000 square feet of easily cleaned carpeting in their barn Friday. The cows had been slipping and falling because the concrete floor became slick during the almost continual washing process.

What the new footing will do for milk production has yet to be determined.

10th Victim of San Francisco Fire Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 10th victim of the Samoan fire-dance disaster in the parish hall of All Hallows Catholic Church last Saturday night died in a San Francisco hospital Thursday.

Fee Tafea, 26, a private policeman in San Francisco, had suffered burns over 90 per cent of his body.

Five died at the scene and over 100 were injured. Some still remain in critical condition.

The fire started during a fire dance—part of a Samoan holiday celebration.

Sachs, McDonald Killed in Flaming Indianapolis Crash

MEMORIAL DAY DISASTER—A buring tire flies toward spectators on the fourth turn at the Indianapolis Speedway Saturday. Men are running from the flames that followed the crash at the turn into the stretch on the second lap. In the wake of the crash it was announced that seven cars were out of competition and that Driver Eddie Sachs of Detroit was dead. Later rookie Dave McDonald died from injuries suffered in the same pileup. (AP Wirephoto)

Foyt Captures Second '500' Race

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Texan A. J. Foyt Jr. won the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race for the second time Saturday driving to a record in a supposedly obsolete Offenhauser roadster that survived a day of frightful crashes in which two drivers died and 10 persons were hurt.

Eddie Sachs, 37, of Detroit died in his eighth attempt to win the richest auto speed event, caught in a flaming tangle that resulted when rookie David MacDonald, 26, El Monte, Calif., crashed. MacDonald, who inhaled blazing gasoline, died a few hours later.

The seven-car pile-up, on the second lap, stopped the race for the second time in 54 years, and the first time for an accident. It was restarted after an hour and 45 minutes of fire fighting and dusting down puddles of oil.

Foyt took the lead on the 55th 2½-mile lap, a little after the one-quarter mark, and never was headed in his run to a 147.350 mile-per-hour average. The old mark of 143.137 was set last year by Parnelli Jones, the victim of another fire Saturday.

The only leaders were Jim Clark of Scotland, who spun into the infield with a collapsed wheel; Bobby Marshman, whose oil tank sprang a leak; Jones and Foyt.

Remarkable Rodger Ward, no worse than fourth in the last six Memorial Day races and twice the winner, took second money, about three miles back of Foyt. He had to make five pit stops for fuel in his Kaiser Aluminum Special, the only Ford-powered car of seven starters to finish the race. Foyt stopped only twice.

There was one other finisher among the 12 rear-engine cars that unsuccessfully challenged the 19-year unbroken reign of standard front - engine Offys, similar to Foyt's Sheraton -Thompson special.

Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., was third; rookie Johnny White, Warren, Mich., fourth; Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif., fifth; and Bud Tingelstad, Dayton, Ohio, sixth.

Only 12 cars were running when Foyt finished. One of them driven by Bobby Grim of Indianapolis, spun off the track right after that.

The record of five straight 500s without a driver death ended in a roar of flame and smoke that engulfed the north end of the main straightaway before most of the cars had completed two laps around the 2½ - mile oval.

MacDonald, an expert sports car racer, hit the outside wall coming out of the northwest turn and slid several hundred feet before stopping afire. Other cars spun and tumbled in the cloud of smoke and roaring fuel.

Sachs died, trapped in his new rear - engine Halibrand Ford. MacDonald died in Indianapolis Methodist Hospital a short time later. He also had one of the new Ford engines in his streamlined Mickey Thompson creation. The fact that both spilled gallons of high octane gasoline contributed to the blaze.

Another less spectacular blaze an alcohol fire that was quickly extinguished, took Parnelli Jones' Agajanian Offenhauser the winner last year, out of the race after he had led seven laps. That blaze erupted as Jones was pulling out of the pits after a fuel stop. He leaped out of the racer and rolled down the pit apron, escaping with burns on the left arm and right leg.

The casualty list in the second-lap pile - up, besides the dead, included rookie Ronnie Duman, 32, Dearborn, Mich., second--and third-degree burns, Johnny Rutherford, 26, Fort Worth, Tex., minor burns; Norman Hall, Hollywood, Calif., head cuts, and Bobby Unser, 30, Albuquerque, N. M., minor burns.

Unser, whose brother Jerry was killed on the Speedway in a 1959 practice run accident, drove straight through the fire without hitting anything, in the novel four-wheel-drive Ferguson-Novi.

The Lotus-Ford bid ended abruptly after a brilliant start. Clark, 1963 world road racing champion, started in the No. 1 spot on his record qualifying performance and zoomed away from the starting line like a green rocket. After the restart, Bobby Marshaman took the lead in the seventh lap in another Lotus-Ford, but went out in the 39th lap with an oil leak.

Clark led seven laps but a wheel suspension failed and he ground to a halt in the infield after throwing sparks for a quarter-mile.

The first four finishers all bettered the Jones' 1963 speed record.

Ward was timed in 146.339 m.p.h.; Ruby in 144.6; and White in 142.341.

Seventh place went to Dick Rathmann, Roselle, Ill., followed by Bob Wente, St. Louis rookie, eighth; Bob Harkey, another rookie, from Charlotte, N.C., ninth; and Grim, 10th.

These last four were still running when Foyt finished, but were waved in before finishing.

Californian Dan Gurney, Clark's teammate in the other factory Lotus, was called off the track by his crew, who said there were some difficulties with an English tire being used on the Lotus-Fords. Colin Chapman of London, the builder, said he didn't want to take any chances with Gurney's life.

Clark started off the interrupted race at a tremendous pace of 154.8 miles an hour. Marshman, a second-generation race driver, also ran at tremendous speed before he began spraying oil and had to retire.

Foyt, a powerful young man with an engaging grin, is defending U.S. Auto Club champion and has won the only three races on the circuit this year, at Trenton, Phoenix and Indianapolis.

Ironically, Foyt's other victory in 1961 was at the expense of Sachs. Sachs had to stop to replace a wornout tire, while leading with only three laps to go. He had gone ahead, however, only because Foyt's crew failed to fill his tank on one stop and he had to make another run into the pits.

Foyt won't know how much he won until the official prize distribution at the traditional victory dinner Sunday night but it may approach $200,000. He won $21,900 in lap prizes alone —$150 for each lap he led the field.

Sachs' wife, Nancy, sat quietly outside the speedway hospital when the Detroit driver's blanket - covered body was brought there by ambulance after finally being pulled from the pyre that his car had become.

Offered a ride to a funeral home on the stretcher in the rear of another ambulance, Mrs. Sachs protested, "I don't want to ride there," and sobbed.

MacDonald's young widow, Sherry, emerged crying hysterically in the white-walled basement corridor of Methodist Hospital after the California sports car driver died two hours later.

"What am I going to do? How am I going to tell the kids? He was such a good father. I don't want to go home," she cried.

Sachs apparently was burned to death before he could be extricated from his car, the speedway medical director said. Doctors attributed MacDonald's death to seared lungs and severe head burns.

Police estimated the crowd at 260,000.

Bobby Unser Has Narrow Escape

By BOBBY UNSER
As Told To UPI

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —I could see a red ball of flame coming at me and I knew it was going to get hot if I didn't get out of there.

I had just passed about five cars down the back stretch and I saw the car hit the wall and burst into flame. There was no question of getting out of the way because the cars in front of me slammed on their brakes.

If they had jammed down on the accelerator we all might have been able to get out of it.

I didn't know who was in any of the cars. As it was one just barely caught me as he bounced off the wall and spilled some gasoline on the racing machine.

I knew it was a Ford-powered car because of the rear engine and it was using gas. (Other racers use exotic fuel blends with methanol in it.)

Gasoline is the hottest fire, too.

If I got hung up where the fire was, I knew it was going to get hot. I just jammed down the pedal and tried to push my way out.

Johnny Rutherford went clear over the top of my car. That was what broke his gas tank. The oly thing I thought of was I knew I shouldn't stop in the middle of the burning cars.

Olympic Golf

BETWEEN THE LINES
by Loy Holman

With the ever increasing popularity of the game, there's little doubt that golf is now international. So much so, that several of the most avid advocates have been pushing for its inclusion in the Olympic Games each fourth year.

They won't be chipping and putting for an Olympic gold medal this year at Tokyo, despite the fact that Japan is one of the countries in which the sport has grown by leaps over the past few years. But there is a good chance that in the not too distant future there will be a world amateur champion come out of these Games.

Because more nations are taking up the sport, including Russia which has been one of the last of the major countries holding out, there is a move on to make the rules, regulations and definitions more uniform.

One of the irregularities has popped up on the local scene in the past couple years, especially with the visit here of foreign players in the Curtis Cup Matches and the World Senior Championships — both at the Broadmoor course.

That would be the definition of a "bogey" which differs from one country to another.

It was an especially sticky wicket when establishing the "par" for the course last year during the World Seniors. This was necessary to figure the handicaps to play in the International Team Matches, started last summer and won by the Japanese team by a couple strokes over a less-handicapped U.S. team.

The problem was that in certain countries, mainly those which inherited their versions of the game from Great Britain, there is no "par" for a course. And thus the handicap brought from overseas was figured from "bogey" instead.

Well, it seems that this difference of definition was one reason why the U.S. Golf Association has officially retired the term as of the start of 1964—although it undoubtedly will still be used by the general public and the press from common usage.

For other lands, the bogey (which was handed down from none other than Col. Bogey of British military fame) is not necessarily one over par for a hole, as it has become in everyday American golf talk.

The official meaning, and definition as published by the USGA until the association bowed to common terms, is "the score that a moderately good golfer would be expected to make for a given hole. Bogey is the same as part except when the committte declares it to be one over part because of the difficulty of a particular hole."

But the definition has now been officially retired.

Here are some of the other misconceptions of golf terms pointed out recently by Joe Dey, director of the USGA:

A threesome is a group of three golfers and a foursome a group of four — unless the group of three is playing a match in which ome plays against two, and each side plays one ball, and unless the group of four is playing a match in which two play against two, and each side plays one ball.

A trap should really be called a "bunker"; a pin isn't a pin, it's a flagstick; a scorer should be a "marker"; it isn't medal play, but rather "stroke play"; and not a parallel water hazard, but rather a "lateral water hazard."

Also worth passing on is a recent Master Interview which was reportedly compiled after taping several thousand conversations with the New Golf Fan and then feeding these into an electronic computer to give the average television viewer's thoughts on the game. It may be a little distorted because of the limited exposure as dictated by the One Eyed Monster, but here's how the question and answer session went:

Q: When and how did gold begin? A: Arnold Palmer invented it about eight years ago in a little town outside of Pittsburgh.

Q: And who was the first woman golfer? A: I'm not sure, but it was either a tall blonde named Mickey Wright or a little French girl named Brigitte Bardot. Anyhow, they took it up in Portugal and the French girl lost.

Q: Then gold has become more popular recently: A: Absolutely. Now it is even being played in England, where there is a British Open tournament.

Q: Has this British Open become an important event? A: It sure has. The winner qualifies for the World Series every year in Ohio.

Q: To what do you attribute the growth of golf's popularity? A:Are you kidding? It's the cash. Some of these guys make more money than Willie Shoemaker.

Q: What about the rules of

Foyt Has Praise For Crew

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A. J. Foyt Jr. of Houston, fresh in spite of wrestling a so-called obsolete Offenhauser roadster to victory in the 48th 500-mile auto race Saturday, said:

"I feel great. I really enjoyed this race. My crew did a terrific job. We drove it like we planned."

At the same time, he said the second-lap wreck, which killed two drivers, "shook me up."

"I hated to see it," he said. "When you're out here running you always hate to see this sort of thing. They're all terrific race drivers and good men."

How about the predicted demise of the old Offenhauser engine, which beat off the Ford challenge? Is it finished?

"No, definitely not," Foyt declared." A lot of people were laughing at me about my so-called antique car, but it sure made me and the gang a lot of money today."

Saturday Crash Speedway's Worst Since 1933

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The fiery crash which killed drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald Saturday was the worst for an Indianapolis 500-mile race since 1933 when two drivers and a riding mechanic died.

Neighbors Express Shock At Sachs Death

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Neighbors of race driver Eddie Sachs, killed Saturday in the Indianapolis 500, were shocked at his death.

One was Nancy Neal, 14, daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. James Neal, who live near the Sachs' Clinton Township home Southwest of here.

Nancy cried.

"The only deaths close to her," said her mother, "were President Kennedy's and now Eddie's. It has hit her pretty hard."

Another neighbor, Robert Beatty, 42, said he never had been interested in car racing until he came to know Sachs.

"Then to have this happen. Makes you kind of sick," Beatty said.

Foyt Captures Second '500' Race

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Texan A. J. Foyt Jr. won the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race for the second time Saturday driving to a record in a supposedly obsolete Offenhauser roadster that survived a day of frightful crashes in which two drivers died and 10 persons were hurt.

Eddie Sachs, 37, of Detroit died in his eighth attempt to win the richest auto speed event, caught in a flaming tangle that resulted when rookie David MacDonald, 26, El Monte, Calif., crashed. MacDonald, who inhaled blazing gasoline, died a few hours later.

The seven-car pile-up, on the second lap, stopped the race for the second time in 54 years, and the first time for an accident. It was restarted after an hour and 45 minutes of fire fighting and dusting down puddles of oil.

Foyt took the lead on the 55th 2½-mile lap, a little after the one-quarter mark, and never was headed in his run to a 147.350 mile-per-hour average. The old mark of 143.137 was set last year by Parnelli Jones, the victim of another fire Saturday.

The only leaders were Jim Clark of Scotland, who spun into the infield with a collapsed wheel; Bobby Marshman, whose oil tank sprang a leak; Jones and Foyt.

Remarkable Rodger Ward, no worse than fourth in the last six Memorial Day races and twice the winner, took second money, about three miles back of Foyt. He had to make five pit stops for fuel in his Kaiser Aluminum Special, the only Ford-powered car of seven starters to finish the race. Foyt stopped only twice.

There was one other finisher among the 12 rear-engine cars that unsuccessfully challenged the 19-year unbroken reign of standard front - engine Offys, similar to Foyt's Sheraton -Thompson special.

Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., was third; rookie Johnny White, Warren, Mich., fourth; Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif., fifth; and Bud Tingelstad, Dayton, Ohio, sixth.

Only 12 cars were running when Foyt finished. One of them driven by Bobby Grim of Indianapolis, spun off the track right after that.

The record of five straight 500s without a driver death ended in a roar of flame and smoke that engulfed the north end of the main straightaway before most of the cars had completed two laps around the 2½ - mile oval.

MacDonald, an expert sports car racer, hit the outside wall coming out of the northwest turn and slid several hundred feet before stopping afire. Other cars spun and tumbled in the cloud of smoke and roaring fuel.

Sachs died, trapped in his new rear - engine Halibrand Ford. MacDonald died in Indianapolis Methodist Hospital a short time later. He also had one of the new Ford engines in his streamlined Mickey Thompson creation. The fact that both spilled gallons of high octane gasoline contributed to the blaze.

Another less spectacular blaze an alcohol fire that was quickly extinguished, took Parnelli Jones' Agajanian Offenhauser the winner last year, out of the race after he had led seven laps. That blaze erupted as Jones was pulling out of the pits after a fuel stop. He leaped out of the racer and rolled down the pit apron, escaping with burns on the left arm and right leg.

The casualty list in the second-lap pile - up, besides the dead, included rookie Ronnie Duman, 32, Dearborn, Mich., second—and third-degree burns, Johnny Rutherford, 26, Fort Worth, Tex., minor burns, Norman Hall, Hollywood, Calif., head cuts, and Bobby Unser, 30, Albuquerque, N. M., minor burns.

Unser, whose brother Jerry was killed on the Speedway in a 1959 practice run accident, drove straight through the fire without hitting anything, in the novel four-wheel-drive Ferguson-Novi.

The Lotus-Ford bid ended abruptly after a brilliant start. Clark, 1963 world road racing champion, started in the No 1 spot on his record qualifying performance and zoomed away from the starting line like a green rocket. After the restart, Bobby Marshaman took the lead in the seventh lap in another Lotus-Ford, but went out in the 39th lap with an oil leak.

Clark led seven laps but a wheel suspension failed and he ground to a halt in the infield after throwing sparks for a quarter-mile.

Foyt Has Praise For Crew

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A. J. Foyt Jr. of Houston, fresh in spite of wrestling a so-called obsolete Offenhauser roadster to victory in the 48th 500-mile auto race Saturday, said:

"I feel great. I really enjoyed this race. My crew did a terrific job. We drove it like we planned."

At the same time, he said the second-lap wreck, which killed two drivers, "shook me up."

"I hated to see it," he said. "When you're out here running you always hate to see this sort of thing. They're all terrific race drivers and good men."

How about the predicted demise of the old Offenhauser engine, which beat off the Ford challenge? Is it finished?

"No, definitely not," Foyt declared." A lot of people were laughing at me about my so-called antique car, but it sure made me and the gang a lot of money today."

Saturday Crash Speedway's Worst Since 1933

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The fiery crash which killed drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald Saturday was the worst for an Indianapolis 500-mile race since 1933 when two drivers and a riding mechanic died.

Ward was timed in 146.339 m p h; Ruby in 144.6; and White in 142.341.

Seventh place went to Dick Rathmann, Roselle, Ill., followed by Bob Wente, St Louis rookie, eighth; Bob Harkey, another rookie, from Charlotte, N.C., ninth; and Grim, 10th.

These last four were still running when Foyt finished, but were waved in before finishing.

Californian Dan Gurney, Clark's teammate in the other factory Lotus, was called off the track by his crew, who said there were some difficulties with an English tire being used on the Lotus-Fords. Colin Chapman of London, the builder, said he didn't want to take any chances with Gurney's life.

Clark started off the interrupted race at a tremendous pace of 154.8 miles an hour. Marshman, a second-generation race driver, also ran at tremendous speed before he began spraying oil and had to retire.

Foyt, a powerful young man with an engaging grin, is defending U.S. Auto Club champion and has won the only three races on the circuit this year, at Trenton, Phoenix and Indianapolis.

Ironically, Foyt's other victory in 1961 was at the expense of Sachs. Sachs had to stop to replace a wornout ure, while leading with only three laps to go. He had gone ahead, however, only because Foyt's crew failed to fill his tank on one stop and he had to make another run into the pits.

Foyt won't know how much he won until the official prize distribution at the traditional victory dinner Sunday night but it may approach $200,000. He won $21,900 in lap prizes alone —$150 for each lap he led the field.

Sachs' wife, Nancy, sat quietly outside the speedway hospital when the Detroit driver's blanket - covered body was brought there by ambulance after finally being pulled from the pyre that his car had become.

Offered a ride to a funeral home on the stretcher in the rear of another ambulance, Mrs. Sachs protested, "I don't want to ride there," and sobbed.

MacDonald's young widow, Sherry, emerged crying hysterically in the white-walled basement corridor of Methodist Hospital after the California sports car driver died two hours later.

"What am I going to do? How am I going to tell the kids? He was such a good father. I don't want to go home," she cried.

Sachs apparently was burned to death before he could be extricated from his car, the speedway medical director said. Doctors attributed MacDonald's death to seared lungs and severe head burns.

Police estimated the crowd at 260,000.

Bobby Unser Has Narrow Escape

By BOBBY UNSER
As Told To UPI

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—I could see a red ball of flame coming at me and I knew it was going to get hot if I didn't get out of there.

I had just passed about five cars down the back stretch and I saw the car hit the wall and burst into flame. There was no question of getting out of the way because the cars in front of me slammed on their brakes.

If they had jammed down on the accelerator we all might have been able to get out of it.

I didn't know who was in any of the cars. As it was one just barely caught me as he bounced off the wall and spilled some gasoline on the racing machine.

I knew it was a Ford-powered car because of the rear engine and it was using gas. (Other racers use exotic fuel blends with methanol in it.)

Gasoline is the hottest fire, too.

If I got hung up where the fire was, I knew it was going to get hot. I just jammed down the pedal and tried to push my way out.

Johnny Rutherford went clear over the top of my car. That was what broke his gas tank. The oly thing I thought of was I knew I shouldn't stop in the middle of the burning cars.

Olympic Golf

BETWEEN THE LINES
by Loy Holman

With the ever increasing popularity of the game, there's little doubt that golf is now international. So much so, that several of the most avid advocates have been pushing for its inclusion in the Olympic Games each fourth year.

They won't be chipping and putting for an Olympic gold medal this year at Tokyo, despite the fact that Japan is one of the countries in which the sport has grown by leaps over the past few years. But there is a good chance that in the not too distant future there will be a world amateur champion come out of these Games.

Because more nations are taking up the sport, including Russia which has been one of the last of the major countries holding out, there is a move on to make the rules, regulations and definitions more uniform.

One of the irregularities has popped up on the local scene in the past couple years, especially with the visit here of foreign players in the Curtis Cup Matches and the World Senior Championships — both at the Broadmoor course.

That would be the definition of a "bogey" which differs from one country to another.

It was an especially sticky wicket when establishing the "par" for the course last year during the World Seniors. This was necessary to figure the handicaps to play in the International Team Matches, started last summer and won by the Japanese team by a couple strokes over a less-handicapped U.S. team.

The problem was that in certain countries, mainly those which inherited their versions of the game from Great Britain, there is no "par" for a course. And thus the handicap brought from overseas was figured from "bogey" instead.

Well, it seems that this difference of definition was one reason why the U.S. Golf Association has officially retired the term as of the start of 1964—although it undoubtedly will still be used by the general public and the press from common usage.

For other lands, the bogey (which was handed down from none other than Col. Bogey of British military fame) is not necessarily one over par for a hole, as it has become in everyday American golf talk.

The official meaning, and definition as published by the USGA until the association bowed to common terms, is "the score that a moderately good golfer would be expected to make for a given hole. Bogey is the same as par except when the committee declares it to be one over part because of the difficulty of a particular hole."

But the definition has now been officially retired.

Here are some of the other misconceptions of golf terms pointed out recently by Joe Dey, director of the USGA:

A threesome is a group of three golfers and a foursome a group of four — unless the group of three is playing a match in which ome plays against two, and each side plays one ball, and unless the group of four is playing a match in which two play against two, and each side plays one ball.

A trap should really be called a "bunker"; a pin isn't a pin, it's a flagstick; a scorer should be a "marker"; it isn't medal play, but rather "stroke play"; and not a parallel water hazard, but rather a "lateral water hazzard."

Also worth passing on is a recent Master Interview which was reportedly compiled after taping several thousand conversations with the New Golf Fan and then feeding these into an electronic computer to give the average television viewer's thoughts on the game. It may be a little distorted because of the limited exposure as dictated by the One Eyed Monster, but here's how the question and answer session went:

Q: When and how did gold begin? A: Arnold Palmer invented it about eight years ago in a little town outside of Pittsburgh.

Q: And who was the first woman golfer? A: I'm not sure, but it was either a tall blonde named Mickey Wright or a little French girl named Brigitte Bardot. Anyhow, they took it up in Portugal and the French girl lost.

Q: Then gold has become more popular recently: A: Absolutely. Now it is even being played in England, where there is a British Open tournament.

Q: Has this British Open become an important event? A: It sure has. The winner qualifies for the World Series every year in Ohio.

Q: To what do you attribute the growth of golf's popularity? A:Are you kidding? It's the cash. Some of these guys make more money than Willie Shoemaker.

Q: What about the rules of

Fuel Controversy Follows 500 Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Controversy over fuels erupted at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday following the 500-mile race in which two drivers were killed in a fiery collision.

The usual crowd of race people flooding the garage area buzzed with speculation whether highly explosive gasoline would be banned from the race.

Veteran driver Eddie Sachs and rookie Dave MacDonald died after MacDonald's rear-engine Ford slammed into the wall in the second lap of the 200-lap race. Each car had a gasoline tank slung on each side of the driver. Apparently, MacDonald's right tank ruptured upon impact and the spraying fuel exploded, sending a wall of flames 20 feet into the air.

Gasoline as a fuel returned to the Speedway for the first time in many years in 1963. A methyl alcohol mixture had been the popular power source.

The Underwriters Laboratory has a flammability rating which scores methyl alcohol at 70 and gasoline at 95-100. This means, simply, that gasoline ignites much more easily.

Before the race, Louis Meyer, three-time 500 winner and manufacturer of the alcohol-burning Offenhauser engine, said gasoline is too dangerous for the high-speed Indy oval.

However, Ray McMahon, who has been blending fuels at the Speedway nearly 20 years, warned:

"They ought not to stampede. Maybe they should make a more careful study of containers for fuel rather than rush in to a ban of gas."

A. J. Foyt, winner of the $500,000 Memorial Day Class said he would run with any fuel anyone else was using. Foyt suggested, "it would be a good idea for compulsory two or three pit stops so cars wouldn't have to carry such a heavy load early in the race. There'd be no percentage in it."

Foyt, in an Offenhauser, made only two pit stops with gasoline. Runner-up Rodger Ward, in a rear-engine Ford using alcohol, made five pit halts.

Navy's football team next fall will have nine lettermen on the 11-man two-way unit.

Falcons, ASU Postponed

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Postponed for a second straight day, the District 7 playoffs for a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College World Series in baseball has been moved forward from Saturday until this Monday at Memorial Park in Colorado Springs.

A steady drizzle Saturday morning, on top of the week - long rain in the Pikes Peak Region, caused officials for the Air Force Academy and Arizona State University to call off the scheduled double header because of wet grounds.

Now the best - of - three series has been re - scheduled for a twin bill on Monday and a possible third game on Tuesday, if necessary. Monday's games will start at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. and Tuesday's contest is slated for 2 p.m.. Tickets for these games will be on sale at the booth at Memorial Park, Pikes Peak and Hancock, shortly before each game.

Naturally, both coaches were disappointed that the playoff couldn't be played as originally scheduled. But the Air Force weather bureau at Ent AFB has indicated that the rainy weather should break around noon today and warmer temperatures are predicted for Monday and Tuesday.

A crew from the Air Force Academy, along with help from the City Park Department, have been working daily trying to keep the former Sky Sox' field in top condition for the playoff. Both the pitcher's mound and the home plate area have been covered throughout the raid, but the outfield and parts of the infield was beginning to develop puddles by Saturday morning.

The local joke going around the park was that the "rainmaker" sitting just past center field should have been moved out before the games were originally scheduled. That was the carnival situated in the middle of Memorial Park, which annually brings a downpour to the city with its yearly visit. The carnival came to Colorado Springs last weekend — and it hasn't stopped raining since!

Despite the fact that the carnival is scheduled to remain here this next week, reports were encouraging that the weather would finally change sometime today.

Both coaches are expected to stick with the same lineups that were to start when the first game was to be played on Friday afternoon. That would have junior right hander Pete Bracci (9-1) pitching against Arizona State's ace sophomore righty Skip Hancock (11-1) in Monday's opener.

Bracci and Hancock both were selected to the District 7 All - Star team as named by the region's coaches, Saturday. Also on the All - Star team were Monday afternoon's probable starters with lefty Fred Olmstead (8-0) slated for the Air Force and either Sam Cook (11-1) or Ron Lea (6-1) ready for the Sun Devils.

The Falcons qualified for the district finals by beating Rocky Mountain Conference champion Colorado State College in two straight games last weekend in the semi - finals of the playoffs. Likewise, Arizona State took two straight from Utah in capturing the Western Athletic Conference crown in the north - south divisional playoff.

That gave the Air Force a season's record of 22-3, and going into this postponed series for the NCAA World Series in Omaha the Sun Devils have a 41 - 5 record. Arizona State is currently ranked No. 1 in the nation among collegiate teams, along with the University of Missouri.

The winner of this District 7 playoff will advance to Omaha, June 9 - 12, along with the champions from the eight NCAA districts. A double elimination tournament is slated there for the national title.

The Air Force, boasting one of the best hitting teams in the nation, is paced by third baseman Jim Steed, a junior with a lofty .421 batting average and the team's leader in every offensive department including 10 home runs this spring. Other top hitters are first baseman Bruce Huneke (.392), second baseman Blaine Brownlow (.368) and shortstop Darryl Bloodworth (.356).

The Sun Devils have a deep pitching staff, led by Hancock who has averaged 1⅓ strikeouts per inning this season, top reliever Cook and another fine right hander in Lea, with both Hancock and Lea natives of Arizona and team captain Cook from El Centro, Calif. Top hitters on the ASU roster are first baseman Jan Kleinman (.391), center fielder Jack Handley (.382), and third baseman Sal Bando (.347). In addition, the Sun Devils have the nation's leading base stealer in shortstop John Ruedy who has swiped 31 this season.

Baseball Meeting

The final organizational meeting of the American Legion B-Baseball Program will be held Monday June 1 at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Post 5 Hut, 5 E. Platte.

All coaches, sponsors, and anyone interested in coaching or sponsoring teams in this program are asked to attend.

The scheduling of the up coming season will be discussed as well as any of the new rules.

Collegiate Series Opens Next Week

OMAHA (AP) — The college world series, showcase of intercollegiate baseball, opens Monday, June 8 and for the 15th consecutive season brings its customary influx of budding baseball talent and talent seekers.

All major league teams are expected to have scouts on hand for a final look at promising college players before the signing spree that accompanies the series windup. A half-dozen collegians were signed after the 1963 series, which drew a record 59 scouts and set a new attendance mark of 52,757.

The eight-team field for the 1964 NCAA baseball finals will not be complete until the District 1 playoff between Northeastern and Maine at Fenway Park in Boston Wednesday and Thursday. Even then, not all of college baseball's best talent will be on display in Omaha, for some stars are members of teams which failed to make it to the finals.

With the shrinking number of minor league teams, however, increasing emphasis is being placed on college baseball as a producer of professional baseball talent. This season major league clubs had 115 former collegians on spring training rosters.

One of the best known is Dick Groat, who played shortstop for Duke in the 1952 college series, then went to Pittsburgh for 10 years and presently is with St. Louis. He has a 10-year batting average of .293.

The 1958 series produced Ron Fairly, outfielder for NCAA champion Southern California. Fairly is now with the Los Angeles Dodgers and is credited with a six-year batting average of .273.

The 1961 series produced infielder Tom Satriano of Southern California, now with the Los Angeles Angels and holder of a career batting average of .218.

The 1962 series yielded a pair of sparkling bonus babies, fastballing pitcher Bob Garibaldi and shortstop Ernie Fazio, both of Santa Clara. Garibaldi, winner of the 1962 outstanding series player award, got an estimated $150,000 for signing with San Francisco and Fazio's bonus was reported as $75,000.

Garibaldi now is playing for Tacoma on option from the Giants and Fazio is with Oklahoma City of the Pacific Coast League after starting the season with Houston.

Arizona State Tops District 7 Stars

Arizona State University led the NCAA District 7 All - Star team announced Saturday by placing seven players on the 20 - man squad, picked by the coaches of the district before the regional playoff between ASU and the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

Right behind the No. 1 ranked Sun Devils, however, was the Air Force Academy with six players on the mythical team of top baseball players from teams throughout the Rocky Mountain Region.

Other teams placing players on the All - Star squad included two from the University of Arizona and one each from Colorado State College, Utah University, Brigham Young University, Wyoming U. and Colorado State University.

Almost the entire Air Force infield was represented on the honor squad, along with the two pitchers who carried the Falcons to a 22-3 record going into the postponed playoff against Arizona State.

Cadets picked for their outstanding play this spring were first baseman Bruce Huneke, third baseman Jim Steed, shortstop Darryl Bloodworth, catcher Al McArtor and pitchers Pete Bracci and Fred Olmsted. Huneke, Steed and Bracci are all juniors and the rest are seniors at the AFA.

Players from Arizona State on the Star team included first baseman Jan Kleinman, second baseman Luis Lagunas, third baseman Sal Bando, shortstop John Ruedy, outfielder Jack Handley and pitchers Skip Hancock and Sam Cook.

Others making the squad were outfielder John Fryast and pitcher Jim Nichols of Arizona U., Wyoming outfielder Jerry Marion, Utah third baseman Bob Fisher, CSU shortstop Al Apo, and Colorado State College catcher Duane Banks.

In other action taking by the regional coaching committee, it was determined that there will be a standard setup for Dist. 7 playoffs in the future, instead of the confusion of this year as to where the games would be held.

Starting in 1965, the winner of the Western Athletic Conference will host the best - of - three series, and each even year after that the non - WAC representative will hold the tourney. It will be held during the last weekend in May (weather permitting) and will be held on Saturday and Monday except when the Air Force Academy is involved and then it will be on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

The winners of the Dist. 7 play off will advance to the NCAA College World Series in Omaha during early June.

This season Bracci and Olmstead turned in outstanding records pitching the Falcons to the school's best record ever. Bracci won nine and lost one and Olmsted won eight without a defeat as the Falcons ran up a season's record of 22-3, including a semi - final playoff victory in two straight over Rocky Mountain Conference champion Colorado State College.

Steed, a junior from Baytown, Tex., was the AFA's leading hitter with a fancy .421 average and the top marks in all offensive categories including runs, hits, doubles, triples and home runs. Huneke also had a fine season with a .392 average, and Bloodworth was invaluable to the Falcons with great play at shortstop and a healthy .356 batting average. McArtor also played an important role in the success of the Cadets this spring, handling the pitchers well from behind the plate and allowing only four stolen bases against the Air Force, while batting at a .342 clip.

Golden Ruler Is Sidelined

CHICAGO (AP)—Miss Mary V. Fisher's Golden Ruler, one of the best 2-year-old colts in the country a year ago, has been sidelined by recurrence of a hoof injury, it was learned Saturday.

Golden Ruler, winner of the $250,000 Arlington - Washington Futurity last September, suffered a quarter crack in his right front hoof last December.

golf, and where do they come from? A: Palmer and a bunch of other pros sat down and made them up.

Q: Suppose there's a dispute about the rules; how is it settled? A: That's a tough one. I suppose they'd have to go to the sponsor of the program, and if he didn't know what to do maybe they could have a panel discussion with David Susskind.

Q: What is meant by a "handicap?" A: That's something they made up so Sam Snead can play Johnny Weismuller and those other movie stars.

Q: Do you know the difference between stroke play and match play? A: Match play is when they play two on a team on Saturday afternoons and the first prize is $50,000; stroke play is generally played on Sundays with one man against another, but the money isn't so big.

Q: Who, in your opinion, is the greatest golder to date? A: Palmer — the founder.

Q: Has anyone come close to matching his skills? A: Young Nicklaus, but he hasn't caught up to Palmer yet.

Q: How can you tell: A: For one thing, there is no Jack Nicklaus Building in New York.

Q: What about Bobby Jones? A: I hear it's a great movie, but it hasn't been on television yet and I doubt if the censors will allow it.

Q: Does golf have a "czar" like baseball's Ford Frick? A: Sure, I read that he's a young lawyer out of Cleveland who pandles all the business of Palmer, Nicklaus and Player, the little guy with the funny accent who teams up with Palmer on weekends.

Q: Judging from what you've seen and heard, how far would you say the average golfer drives a ball? A: Between 325 and 350 yards.

A: What happens when a tournament ends in a tie? A: They go back to the 14th hole, where the cameras are first set up, and start over again from there.

Q: What role do amateurs play in golf? A: They are like the minor leaguers in baseball or the college kids in football. The best ones get to turn pro and go on the tour.

Q: Have you noticed much difference between the various courses you've seen on TV? A: Not much. All of them seem to have "one of the greatest finishing holes in golf."

Q: Who are your favorite golf announcers? A: Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin. They go right out on the course in California, and say funny things to the players between shots. Phil Harris is pretty good, too.

Q: Just one more question. More than one community lays claim to being the "golf capital of the U.S." Which city do you think properly holds that distinction? A: It must be Las Vegas. There were two tournaments televised from there last year.

Final Round Set Today At Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It is big casino time Sunday for pros in the $70,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament and soundalikes George Bayer and Lary Player—among those with a corner on the chips as they move into the final round—appeared to be playing the hottest hands.

However, hunch players kept an eye on Bob Shaw, 25, Portland, Ore., initiated his pro career in this tourney last year and has yet to earn that first dollar on the tour.

Bayer, a one-stroke leader with a three-round total of 205, seeks his first victory in four years as play is resumed Sunday after a day's suspension for Saturday's 48th Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Player says he believes he can rebound from his hard-luck streak on Friday, when he muffed four easy putts and had to settle for a 54-hole four-way tie for second with Shaw, Bob Rosburg and Tommy Jacobs at 206.

Two Vaulters Top 16 Feet During Idaho Track Meet

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — A pair of California pole vaulters cleared 16 feet, 1 ¼ inches Saturday, eclipsing Idaho State University's oldest stadium record during the Idaho Track and Field Federation meet.

The vaults by Phil White of The Stanford Indian Track Club and Jeff Chase of the Santa Clara Track Club erased the old stadium record of 15 feet, 1 ¼ inches set in 1942 by Cornelius Warmerdam, former world record holder.

Seven stadium records were set as athletes from throughout the intermountain west competed in junior high school, high school and open divisions. In several cases, high school champions from Utah, Idaho and Montana competed against each other.

Bob Hawke of Butte, Mont., surpassed two former stadium records for prep athletes. Hawke hurled the discus 172 feet, 8 inches, and threw the shot 56 feet, 3 ½ inches.

In the high school pole vault, Andy Steben, a junior from Bozeman, Mont., cleared 14 feet to easily capture the event and set a new prep stadium record.

Doug Brown of Montana University won the mile event in the fairly good time of 4:16.5. Teammate Bill Rice won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 5¾ inches.

Montana State's Eric Hefty won the high hurdles in 14.7 seconds, and Lafay Hope of Montana captured the 880 in 1:55.9.

Kurrewa V Captures Cup Trial Race

GOSPORT, England (AP)—Kurrewa V took advantage of an error by Sovereign Saturday and won the America's Cup trial race off the Isle of Wight.

But the score in the current trial round still is 5-4 in favor of Sovereign. The two boats will continue racing through the summer and the final challenger for the cup will not be picked until just before the September race in the United States.

Kurrewa was more than 100 yards behind in the third and final beat of Saturday's 15-mile race. Sovereign was will to leeward and heading into current in a very light wind. She was forced to tack well off course, and Kurrewa spurted forward to cross the finish line 2 minutes, 13 seconds ahead of Sovereign.

The current round of trials continues for two more days.

Gonzales Meets Ken Rosewall

Gonzales, making a comeback at 36, eliminated another Australian, Lew Hoad, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

Rosewall, the recognized pro champion since Gonzales retired in 1961, outbattled Alex Olmedo, Los Angeles, 3-6, 6-2, 9-7 at the Westchester County Center.

Gonzales and Rosewall will be battling for the $33,000 top prize in the Sunday afternoon final.

Fuel Controversy Follows 500 Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Controversy over fuels erupted at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday following the 500-mile race in which two drivers were killed in a fiery collision.

The usual crowd of race people flooding the garage area buzzed with speculation whether highly explosive gasoline would be banned from the race.

Veteran driver Eddie Sachs and rookie Dave MacDonald died after MacDonald's rear-engine Ford slammed into the wall in the second lap of the 200-lap race. Each car had a gasoline tank slung on each side of the driver. Apparently, MacDonald's right tank ruptured upon impact and the spraying fuel exploded, sending a wall of flames 20 feet into the air.

Gasoline as a fuel returned to the Speedway for the first time in many years in 1963. A methyl alcohol mixture had been the popular power source.

The Underwriters Laboratory has a flammability rating which scores methyl alcohol at 70 and gasoline at 95-100. This means, simply, that gasoline ignites much more easily.

Before the race, Louis Meyer, three-time 500 winner and manufacturer of the alcohol-burning Offenhauser engine, said gasoline is too dangerous for the high-speed Indy oval.

However, Ray McMahon, who has been blending fuels at the Speedway nearly 20 years, warned:

"They ought not to stampede. Maybe they should make a more careful study of containers for fuel rather than rush in to a ban of gas."

A. J. Foyt, winner of the $500,000 Memorial Day Classic said he would run with any fuel anyone else was using. Foyt suggested, "it would be a good idea for compulsory two or three pit stops so cars wouldn't have to carry such a heavy load early in the race. There'd be no percentage in it."

Foyt, in an Offenhauser, made only two pit stops with gasoline. Runner-up Rodger Ward, in a rear-engine Ford using alcohol, made five pit halts.

Navy's football team next fall will have nine lettermen on the 11-man two-way unit.

Falcons, ASU Postponed

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Postponed for a second straight day, the District 7 playoffs for a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College World Series in baseball has been moved forward from Saturday until this Monday at Memorial Park in Colorado Springs.

A steady drizzle Saturday morning, on top of the week-long rain in the Pikes Peak Region, caused officials for the Air Force Academy and Arizona State University to call off the scheduled double header because of wet grounds.

Now the best-of-three series has been re-scheduled for a twin bill on Monday and a possible third game on Tuesday, if necessary. Monday's games will start at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. and Tuesday's contest is slated for 2 p.m. Tickets for these games will be on sale at the booth at Memorial Park, Pikes Peak and Hancock, shortly before each game.

Naturally, both coaches were disappointed that the playoff couldn't be played as originally scheduled. But the Air Force weather bureau at Ent AFB has indicated that the rainy weather should break around noon today and warmer temperatures are predicted for Monday and Tuesday.

A crew from the Air Force Academy, along with help from the City Park Department, have been working daily trying to keep the former Sky Sox' field in top condition for the playoff. Both the pitcher's mound and the home plate area have been covered throughout the raid, but the outfield and parts of the infield was beginning to develop puddles by Saturday morning.

The local joke going around the park was that the "rainmaker" sitting just past center field should have been moved out before the games were originally scheduled. The winner of this District 7 playoff will advance to Omaha, June 9-12, along with the champions from the eight NCAA districts. A double elimination tournament is slated there for the national title.

The Air Force, boasting one of the best hitting teams in the nation, is paced by third baseman Jim Steed, a junior with a lofty .421 batting average and the team's leader in every offensive department including 10 home runs this spring. Golden Ruler Is Sidelined

CHICAGO (AP)—Miss Mary V. Fisher's Golden Ruler, one of the best 2-year-old colts in the country a year ago, has been sidelined by recurrence of a hoof injury, it was learned Saturday.

Golden Ruler, winner of the $150,000 Arlington-Washington Futurity last September, suffered a quarter crack in his right front hoof last December.

golf, and where do they come from? A. Palmer and a bunch of other pros sat down and made them up.

Q. Suppose there's a dispute about the rules; how is it settled? A. That's a tough one. I suppose they'd have to go to the sponsor of the program, and if he didn't know what to do maybe they could have a panel discussion with David Sussking.

Q. What is meant by a "handicap?" A. That's something they made up so Sam Snead can play Johnny Weismuller and those other movie stars.

Q. Do you know the difference between stroke play and match play? A. Match play is when they play two on a team on Saturday afternoons and the first prize is $50,000; stroke play is generally played on Sundays with one man against another, but the money isn't so big.

Q. Who, in your opinion, is the greatest golfer to date? A. Palmer — the founder.

Q. Has anyone come close to matching his skills? A. Young Nicklaus, but he hasn't caught up to Palmer yet.

Q. How can you tell? A. For one thing, there is no Jack Nicklaus Building in New York.

Q. What about Bobby Jones? A. I hear it's a great movie, but it hasn't been on television yet and I doubt if the censors will allow it.

Q. Does golf have a "czar" like baseball's Ford Frick? A. Sure. I read that he's a young lawyer out of Cleveland who handles all the business of Palmer, Nicklaus and Player, the little guy with the funny accent who teams up with Palmer on weekends.

Q. Judging from what you've seen and heard, how far would you say the average golfer drives a ball? A. Between 225 and 250 yards.

A. What happens when a tournament ends in a tie? A. They go back to the 14th hole, where the cameras are first set up, and start over again from there.

Q. What role do amateurs play in golf? A. They are like the minor leaguers in baseball or the college kids in football. The best ones get to turn pro and go on the tour.

Q. Have you noticed much difference between the various courses you've seen on TV? A. Not much. All of them seem to have "one of the greatest finishing holes in golf."

Q. Who are your favorite golf announcers? A. Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin. They go right out on the course in California, and say funny things to the players between shots. Phil Harris is pretty good, too.

Q. Just one more question. More than one community lays claim to being the "golf capital of the U.S." Which city do you think properly holds that distinction? A. It must be Las Vegas. There were two tournaments televised from there last year.

Final Round Set Today At Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It is big casino time Sunday for pros in the $70,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament and soundalikes George Bayer and Larry Player—among those with a corner on the chips as they move into the final round—appeared to be playing the hottest hands.

However, bunch players kept an eye on Bob Shaw, 25, Portland, Ore., initiated his pro career in this tourney last year and has yet to earn that first dollar on the tour.

Bayer, a one-stroke leader with a three-round total of 205, seeks his first victory in four years as play is resumed Sunday after a day's suspension for Saturday's 48th Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Player says he believes he can rebound from his hard-luck streak on Friday, when he muffed four easy putts and had to settle for a 54-hole four-way tie for second with Shaw, Bob Rosburg and Tommy Jacobs at 206.

Two Vaulters Top 16 Feet During Idaho Track Meet

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — A pair of California pole vaulters cleared 16 feet, 1 ½ inches Saturday, eclipsing Idaho State University's oldest stadium record during the Idaho Track and Field Federation meet.

The vaults by Phil White of The Stanford Indian Track Club and Jeff Chase of the Santa Clara Track Club erased the old stadium record of 15 feet, 1 ½ inches set in 1962 by Cornelius Warmerdam, former world record holder.

Seven stadium records were set as athletes from throughout the intermountain west competed in junior high school, high school and open divisions. In several cases, high school champions from Utah, Idaho and Montana competed against each other.

Bob Hawke of Butte, Mont., surpassed two former stadium records for prep athletes. Hawke hurled the discus 172 feet, 8 inches, and threw the shot 56 feet, 3 ½ inches.

In the high school pole vault, Andy Sieben, a junior from Bozeman, Mont., cleared 14 feet to easily capture the event and set a new prep stadium record.

Doug Brown of Montana University won the mile event in the fairly good time of 4:16.5. Teammate Bill Rice won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 5¾ inches.

Montana State's Eric Hefty won the high hurdles in 14.7 seconds, and Lafay Hope of Montana captured the 880 in 1:55.8.

Kurrewa V Captures Cup Trial Race

GOSPORT, England (AP)—Kurrewa V took advantage of an error by Sovereign Saturday and won the America's Cup trial race off the Isle of Wight.

But the score in the current trial round still is 5-4 in favor of Sovereign. The two boats will continue racing through the summer and the final challenger for the cup will not be picked until just before the September race in the United States.

Kurrewa was more than 300 yards behind in the third and final heat of Saturday's 30-mile race. Sovereign was still in control and leading by a comfortable margin when a very light wind, the worst feared by both sets of crews, ended the race.

The second round of trials continues for two more days.

Gonzales Meets Ken Rosewall

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles and top-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia both had to rally Saturday night to gain the finals match in the $15,000 U.S. pro tennis championships.

Gonzales, needing a comeback of 3, defeated another Australian, Lew Hoad, 6-8, 14-12, 6-3. Rosewall, the recognized pro champion from Orange, Australia, who also won the 1956, defeated Alex Olmedo, Los Angeles, 2-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Gonzales and Rosewall will play Saturday for the $5,000 top prize in the finals afternoon final.

Eagles Send Dean To Minnesota Club

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League have pulled off their fifth trade under new Coach Joe Kuharich, and he indicates there's more to come.

The Eagles Friday sent fullback Ted Dean to the Minnesota Vikings in a six-player deal. They also gave up rights to quarterback Bob Berry of Oregon University, a future drafted 11th by the Eagles last December.

In return the Eagles got pass receiver Ray Poage, defensive end Don Hultz and defensive backs Chuck Lamson and Terry Kosens.

Kuharich, who has traded off seven players and acquired 13 since taking over Feb. 28, said he hoped to make at least one more trade before the Eagles open training in July. He said there is a specific player he would like to acquire, but declined to identify him by name or position.

Kuharich and Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin agreed that the key men in Friday's deal were Dean and Hultz.

The 26-year-old Dean has been with the Eagles four years, and as a rookie in 1960 helped lead them to the National Football League championship. It was the same championship team that Van Brocklin quarterbacked in his last season as a player.

"We've been trying to get Dean for some time," said Van Brocklin. "He provides the big runner we've been looking for. We realize we're giving up some good young football players, but you can't get something for nothing in a trade."

Kuharich, trying to bolster his defenses after the release of corner back Ben Scotti and the loss of Mike McClellan to the Army, said Hultz is up to 244 pounds, very quick and one of the best young defensive ends in the league.

Hultz, signed as a free agent out of Southern Mississippi, set an NFL record by recovering nine opposition fumbles last season.

"We've been able to fortify our defensive unit," said Kuharich, "while adding a strong receiver in Poage, who can play flanker back or loose end. We could afford to let Dean go because Earl Gros gives us a fine power runner. Lamson and Kosens should help plug holes at the corner back position."

Gros was acquired along with center Jim Ringo from the Green Bay Packers for linebacker LeRoy Caffey and a first draft choice next year in the Eagles' fourth trade under Kuharich.

Willie Says He'll Settle For .300

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The captain of the San Francisco Giants says Willie Mays not only won't hit .400 this year but he'll be lucky to hit .300.

The captain should know because he happens to be Willie Mays.

"No kidding," said the brilliant center fielder. "I'll settle for .300 right now. It's tough to hit .300 today. Even when I was hitting .450 and .500, I knew I couldn't keep that up. I fall into too many slumps."

Mays was hitting around .480 until two weeks ago but his average has dropped to .379. He went hitless in three official times at bat Friday night as the New York Mets defeated the Giants 4-2 knocking them out of first place.

"If I can finish up among the top five or six in home runs, runs batted in, runs scored and average," Willie said, "I'll consider it a good year. How many fellows do you think will hit .300 this year. I'll bet no more than seven or eight.

"When I first came up to the big leagues, they told me if I could hit .300 I got nothing to worry about. Well, it gets tougher and tougher. Not because I'm getting old. It's the schedule with all the traveling and night flying. It takes a lot out of you."

"When I'm playing I forget that I'm tired," continued the 33-year-old star. "But it catches up with me. That's why I need a rest every once in a while. I believe a fellow who plays every day like I do should be given a rest every now and then. I mean get away from the park, forget about baseball."

Willie didn't look tired Friday night although he failed to hit safely. After drawing a pass from Tracy Stallard in the fourth inning, he stole second and scored the game's first run on Orlando Cepeda's single.

Baseball's most spectacular outfielder gave the crowd of 55,062 a thrill in the seventh when he came within an eyelash of making a miraculous catch.

Sprinting to the fence in left center for Frank Thomas' long shot, he leaped high and managed to get his glove on the ball. The impact with the fence, however, knocked the ball out of his grasp. It went for a triple.

The throng held its breath as Mays fell to the ground and lay still, but after a while he arose and returned to his position. It turned out he had caught his spikes under the fence as he came down and was uninjured.

"The ground was very soft out there," Mays said. "My foot slipped when I leaped for the ball. Otherwise, I would have caught it."

New York Mets Purchase Lary From Detroit

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets bought Frank Lary, veteran right-handed pitcher, from the Detroit Tigers Saturday. Lary, famed as a Yankee killer for his ability to beat the New York club in his heyday, will report to the Mets Sunday.

Lary, 33, had an 0-2 record for the Tigers this year. He appeared in only 16 games last season because of arm trouble and spent part of the season in the minors. His lifetime record against the Yankees is 28-13.

The Mets said the purchase was on a conditional basis. To make room for Lary, the Mets are expected to send a young pitcher to the minors.

Rocky Mountain Meet Called Due to Rain

FORT COLLINS (AP) — The Rocky Mountain AAU-Federation Women's Track Meet was cancelled today because of rain.

Colorado State University's invitational two-day tennis tournament got underway in the fieldhouse. A number of area schools were represented in the tourney which was billed as a warmup for the NCAA championships June 15-20 at Michigan State University.

Dutch Girl Helps to Set Two World Swim Records

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Ada Kok, a smiling 18-year-old daughter of an Amsterdam milkman, took part in setting two world swimming records Saturday—all within a breathless one-half hour.

She set a mark of one minute, 5.1 seconds, for the 110-yard butterfly—a time that stands also as a record for the 100 meters.

Then, still laughing with excitement, she helped the Dutch girls' team set a world record of 4:41.4 for the 440-yard medley relay.

Britain defeated the Netherlands, 127-113, in a two-day meet.

Miss Kok's 110-yard butterfly time knocked 2.2 seconds off the previous record, set by Mary Stewart of Canada at Vancouver two years ago.

The Dutch girl herself held the previous 100-meter record with 1:06.1. The 110-yard pool here is slightly longer than 100 meters so Miss Kok's time stands as a record for both distances.

The relay record was set with Miss Kok Swimming butterfly, Korrie Winkel backstroke, Kleinie Bimolt breakstroke and Erika Terpstra freestyle.

They took the record from their hosts. The British team, including three of the four girls beaten in this race, set the world mark with 4:43.4 a month ago.

Ward, McNertney Lead White Sox Past Tigers

By BERNIE KENNEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Pete Ward drove in three runs and Tom McNertney knocked in two with three hits, leading the Cnicago White Sox past Detroit 10-4 Saturday.

McNertney, who entered the game with a .115 batting average, had a pair of singles and a solo homer. His fifth-inning homer, first of his major league career, came off Phil Regan, second of four Detroit pitchers.

Floyd Robinson and Ward hit back-to-back homers in the sixth off Julio Navarro. Ward singled home two runs in Chicago's six-run fourth.

The Tigers picked up four runs in the sixth inning off starter Joel Horlen. Two of the runs came on a home run by Norm Cash, and the other two on Mike Roarke's single and a throwing error my Mike Hershberger.

New York Club Ousts Phoenix From Juco Meet

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) —New York City Community College eliminated pre-tournament favorite Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday from the National Junior College Athletic Association baseball tournament with a 5-3 consolation round victory.

Phoenix, which won the tournament twice before, came to the 1964 meet favored to take another crown. But Bacone, Okla., blasted the Arizonas in the first round, 12-8, Friday and New York finished the job Saturday.

Dodgers Clobber Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Maury Wills led the Los Angeles Dodgers on their best offensive display of the year in a 10-3 romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

The Dodgers drove Pittsburgh starter Vern Law from the mound before he had retired a batter in the five-run first inning. They added three more in the fourth, and Wills socked a two-run homer in the eighth.

In addition to the homer, his first of the year, Wills had two singles and three stolen bases.

Don Drysdale picked up his sixth victory against four defeats, but it wasn't all smooth sailing for the big right-hander. He had to pitch out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning and was touched for three runs, in the seventh.

Pappas Hurls Four-Hitter As Orioles Trim Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Milt Pappas pitched a four-hitter and Jack Brandt slammed a two-run homer and scored three times Saturday night, leading the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-0 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

Right-hander Ken McBride, who allowed three runs and seven of the 13 Baltimore hits, suffered his ninth consecutive loss. McBride, the American League starter in last year's All-Star game, hasn't won since Opening Day.

Pappas, 4-2, let the Angels get only two runners to second base and struck out four while walking two.

This was the Oriole right-hander's second shutout victory over the Angels this month. He beat them 12-0 with an eight-hitter May 15.

Brandt opened the game with a walk and scored the first run on a two-out single by Brooks Robinson. Brandt hit his third homer of the season in the fifth and scored again, on a double by Sam Bowens, after singling in the seventh. A single by John Powell brought in two more runs in the seventh.

Bowens, who doubled again in the ninth, went 4-for-5.

McKinley In Finals At Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Chuck McKinley battled his way to the finals of the men's singles and defending champion Yola Ochoa gained the semifinals of the women's singles in a rain-interrupted Tulsa Tennis Club invitation tournament Saturday.

Defending champion Frank Froehling and Ham Richardson were tied when rain halted their singles match to determine who would meet McKinley in the finals. They will finish the match Sunday.

Other scheduled matches Saturday were re-set for Sunday because of the rain delays.

McKinley, making his seventh straight attempt to win this tournament, dispatched Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-4, 6-4.

Mrs. Ochoa, of Beaumont, Tex., beat Sandy Wilson of Tulsa 6-1, 6-1, while Owen McHaney of Little Rock, Ark., downed Babs Givens of Lawton, Okla., 6-4, 6-2.

Dig Those Crazy Mets; They're Giant-Killers

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Christopher drove in three runs and Charlie Smith two as the New York Mets whipped San Francisco 6-2 for the second straight time Saturday behind Jack Fisher's six-hit pitching.

Christopher knocked acorss Jesse Gonder, who had singled, and Frank Thomas, who was walked, with two out in the first inning. He brought in Rod Kanehl with a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Smith smashed a two-run homer in the Mets' three-run fourth. Giants' starter Ron Herbel walked Roy McMillan with two out before Smith connected. The first run of the inning came on Thomas' double, a fly out and an infield out.

Fisher walked one and struck out one in evening his record at 3-3. Herbel lost his first game after winning two.

Willie Mays got the Giants off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when he tripled and scored as McMillan dropped Christopher's throw to the infield. They added their other run in the seventh as Jesus Alou singled and Jim Davenport doubled.

Ford Posts Fifth Victory As Yankees Bomb Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Whitey Ford fired a five-hitter for his fifth victory Saturday night as the New York Yankees whipped Kansas City 9-1.

All of the hits off Ford were singles, two coming in the third when the Athletics scored an unearned run. Ford allowed just two hits after that inning. The 35-year-old left-hander struck out seven and walked one in winning the 204th game of his career. He has one defeat this season.

The Yankees scored four runs, the last three on Clete Boyer's fourth home run, in the sixth inning, snapping a 1-1 tie and making a six-time loser of Kansas City starter Moe Drabowsky.

Singles by Hector Lopez, Tom Tresh and Elston Howard scored one run before Boyer drove over the left field fence.

Howard had three singles and a double, scored two runs and drove in three. He singled home Roger Maris in the eighth and delivered another run as the Yanks pushed over three runs in the ninth.

Indians Snap Loss Streak With 10-2 Win Over Nats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leon Wagner went 5-for-5 including a pair of triples and John Romano batted in three runs with a single and his fifth home run as the Cleveland Indians snapped a four - game losing streak by beating the Washington Senators 10-2 Saturday.

The Senators contributed three errors and five of the Cleveland runs were unearned.

The Indians scored four in the sixth on a walk, Wagner's second triple, a sacrifice fly by Whitfield and Romano's home run after an error by Don Blasingame.

The Senators scored in the first on a walk to Blasingame, a wild throw by Wagner on John Kennedy's single and Jim King's sacrifice fly.

Wingate Wins In Juco Play

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP)—Wingate, N.C., eliminated Ellsworth of Iowa City, Iowa 10-2 at the National Junior College baseball tournament Saturday.

Earlier, New York City Community College eliminated co-favorite Phoenix, Ariz., 5-3.

Wingate won the game on a five-run second inning. The Carolinians got six hits during the inning—one a two-run homer by second baseman Steve Burns.

Phils Open One-Game Lead With 5-1 Win Over Houston

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia broke a 1-1 tie on Ruben Amaro's sacrifice bunt in the seventh inning and went on to a 5-1 victory over Houston Saturday night as Chris Short hurled a six-hitter.

Tony Gonzales opened the seventh with a walk, went to third on a single by Clay Dalrymple and came home on Amaro's bunt to first baseman Dave Roberts.

Dalrymple's hit went into short right field, and the Colts argued that Bob Lillis' throw to pitcher Don Nottebart at first caught Dalrymple. During the argument Bob Bruce was ejected from the Houston bench.

The Phillies erupted for three runs in the eighth. Richie Allen singled and scored Johnny Callison's triple. Callison continued home on Roberts' wild relay throw to third. Wes Covington then smashed his sixth homer.

Short won his third game in five decisions. The Colts scored in the second on Walt Bond's Bob Aspromonte's double and John Bateman's sacrifice fly.

The defeat was Don Nottebart's seventh without a victory.

Broglio Back in Form As Cards Bounce Reds

By MIKE RECHT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ken Boyer slammed a home run and a triple, driving in three runs, as the St. Louis Cardinals clobbered the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 Saturday.

Dick Groat collected three hits, including a single preceding Boyer's first-inning homer, and a double and triple that opened scoring innings.

Ernie Broglio blanked the Reds after Gordy Coleman's fourth homer in the second inning. The Cardinals right-hander, now 3-4, gave up seven hits. It was his first victory this month in six starts.

Curt Flood singled home the third St. Louis run in the fifth, and the Cardinals wrapped up the contest with three runs against loser Sammy Ellis in the sixth.

Groat began the sixth with a double and Boyer followed with his triple. Tim McCarver singled in Boyer and later scored on Broglio's ground out after Carl Warwick doubled.

Cubs Sweep Twin Bill From Braves

CHICAGO (AP) — Stering Slaughter, with relief help from Lindy McDaniel, pitched a one-hitter — Ed Bailey's two-out single in the fourth inning—and scored the deciding run as the Chicago Cubs stopped Milwaukee 2-0 for a sweep of their doubleheader Saturday. The Cubs won the opener 4-2.

Slaughter, 22-year-old right-hander making his first major league start, was replaced by McDaniel with none out in the eighth after he issued his fifth walk to Lee Maye and threw two balls to Joe Torre.

McDaniel struck out Torre, and the Cubs got a double play when Maye was nailed trying to steal second. Ty Cline then flied out.

Slaughter, who earned his first decision, scored in the third after opening the inning with a walk. He was sacrificed to second and, with two out scored on Ron Santo's single, his first hit in 18 times at bat.

The Braves' Tony Cloninger now 3-5, held the Cubs to three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Bob Buhl nailed his fifth victory against two losses in the first game. Among the six hits he yielded was a two-run homer in the fourth by Aaron, his fifth.

Billy Williams singled in the first Cub run in the third, and Lou Brock doubled home a pair in the fourth. Ernie Banks slammed his fifth homer in the seventh.

Jones Preferred Ambulance Ride

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Parnelli Jones had enough excitement for one day. His racer burned in the pits during Saturday's 48th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile Auto Race as the defending champion leaped out of the cockpit with his uniform ablaze.

Jones, 30, of Torrance, Calif., was taken to the field hospital, where a helicopter waited to to rush him to Indianapolis Methodist Hospital for a check-up.

Reports Say Glenn Roberts Is Improving

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Stock Car racer Glenn (Fireball) Roberts, although still in serious condition with burns suffered in a race last Sunday, "continues to make satisfactory progress," Charlotte Memorial Hospital reported Saturday.

The hospital said the 33-year-old racing veteran from Daytona Beach, Fla., was reasonably comfortable and is eating a soft diet without difficulty.

New York Club Ousts Phoenix From Juco Meet

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) —New York City Community College eliminated pre-tournament favorite Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday from the National Junior College Athletic Association baseball tournament with a 5-3 consolation round victory.

Phoenix, which won the tournament twice before, came to the 1964 meet favored to take another crown. But Bacone, Okla., blasted the Arizonas in the first round, 12-8, Friday and New York finished the job Saturday.

Dodgers Clobber Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Maury Wills led the Los Angeles Dodgers on their best offensive display of the year in a 10-3 romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

The Dodgers drove Pittsburgh starter Vern Law from the mound before he had retired a batter in the five-run first inning. They added three more in the fourth, and Wills socked a two-run homer in the eighth.

In addition to the homer, his first of the year, Wills had two singles and three stolen bases.

Don Drysdale picked up his sixth victory against four defeats, but it wasn't all smooth sailing for the big right-hander. He had to pitch out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning and was touched for three runs, in the seventh.

Pappas Hurls Four-Hitter As Orioles Trim Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Milt Pappas pitched a four-hitter and Jack Brandt slammed a two-run homer and scored three times Saturday night, leading the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-0 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

Right-hander Ken McBride, who allowed three runs and seven of the 13 Baltimore hits, suffered his ninth consecutive loss. McBride, the American League starter in last year's All-Star game, hasn't won since Opening Day.

Pappas, 4-2, let the Angels get only two runners to second base and struck out four while walking two.

This was the Oriole right-hander's second shutout victory over the Angels this month. He beat them 12-0 with an eight-hitter May 15.

Brandt opened the game with a walk and scored the first run on a two-out single by Brooks Robinson. Brandt hit his third homer of the season in the fifth and scored again, on a double by Sam Bowens, after singling in the seventh. A single by John Powell brought in two more runs in the seventh.

Bowens, who doubled again in the ninth, went 4-for-5.

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Christopher drove in three runs and Charlie Smith two as the New York Mets whipped San Francisco 6-2 for the second straight time Saturday behind Jack Fisher's six-hit pitching.

Christopher knocked acorss Jesse Gonder, who had singled, and Frank Thomas, who was walked, with two out in the first inning. He brought in Rod Kanehl with a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Smith smashed a two-run homer in the Mets' three-run fourth. Giants' starter Ron Herbel walked Roy McMillan with two out before Smith connected. The first run of the inning came on Thomas' double, a fly out and an infield out.

Fisher walked one and struck out one in evening his record at 3-3. Herbel lost his first game after winning two.

Willie Mays got the Giants off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when he tripled and scored as McMillan dropped Christopher's throw to the infield. They added their other run in the seventh as Jesus Alou singled and Jim Davenport doubled.

McKinley In Finals At Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Chuck McKinley battled his way to the finals of the men's singles and defending champion Yola Ochoa gained the semifinals of the women's singles in a rain-interrupted Tulsa Tennis Club invitation tournament Saturday.

Defending champion Frank Froehling and Ham Richardson were tied when rain halted their singles match to determine who would meet McKinley in the finals. They will finish the match Sunday.

Other scheduled matches Saturday were re-set for Sunday because of the rain delays.

McKinley, making his seventh straight attempt to win this tournament, dispatched Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-4, 6-4.

Mrs. Ochoa, of Beaumont, Tex., beat Sandy Wilson of Tulsa 6-1, 6-1, while Owen McHaney of Little Rock, Ark., downed Babs Givens of Lawton, Okla., 6-4, 6-2.

Ford Posts Fifth Victory As Yankees Bomb Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Whitey Ford fired a five-hitter for his fifth victory Saturday night as the New York Yankees whipped Kansas City 9-1.

All of the hits off Ford were singles, two coming in the third when the Athletics scored an unearned run. Ford allowed just two hits after that inning. The 35-year-old left-hander struck out seven and walked one in winning the 204th game of his career. He has one defeat this season.

The Yankees scored four runs, the last three on Clete Boyer's fourth home run, in the sixth inning, snapping a 1-1 tie and making a six-time loser of Kansas City starter Moe Drabowsky.

Singles by Hector Lopez, Tom Tresh and Elston Howard scored one run before Boyer drove over the left field fence.

Howard had three singles and a double, scored two runs and drove in three. He singled home Roger Maris in the eighth and delivered another run as the Yanks pushed over three runs in the ninth.

Orioles Toughest in Close Contests

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Inspecting the records of the Baltimore Orioles and Los Angeles Angels, you are reminded that some sage once said winning the close ones is the mark of a contending team.

On the strength of this single application, the remark looks good enough to chisel in marble.

The Orioles, who have won 14 of their 15 one - run decisions this season, are in second place in the American League today, only percentage points out of the lead.

The Angels, who have lost 11 of their 15 one-run decisions, are in 8th place, only percentage points out of last.

Baltimore was down 4-0 in Los Angeles Friday night and for the last seven innings the Orioles couldn't get a runner past first base. But the Angels stranded a dozen runners and lost 3-2, suffering their seventh one-run defeat in their last 12 games.

With one out in the ninth inning, the Angels had the bases loaded. But reliever Stu Miller struck out Lee Thomas and—after coming within one bad pitch of walking in a run—got Billy Moran to ground out.

Angel Manager Bill Rigney was furious. "You'd get mad," he said, "if your club was just plain lousy. If you were just getting the hell licked out of you every night."

When getting beaten 10-0 is not exactly a habit you strive to cultivate, Rigney suggested, almost winning is even more painful.

The Angels loaded the bases in the ninth on a single by pinch hitter Joe Adcock, an error and an intentional walk. Then, after fanning Thomas, Miller threw three balls to Moran before getting him to ground out.

"I thought I'd get them out all the way," Stu said later. "But I'll admit when it was 3-0 I was beginning to lose a little confidence."

The Orioles scored all their runs off Dean Chance in the first two innings. Luis Aparicio drove in two with a single and a sacrifice fly and Jackie Brandt singled in the other.

In the next five innings, Angel reliever Don Osteen struck out 10, walked none and allowed only two hits. Bob Lee shut out the Orioles the last two innings.

Robin Roberts, relieved by Miller in the eighth, picked up his third victory in five decisions. He gave up eight of the nine Angel hits. Joe Koppe drove in both Los Angeles runs, one with a second-inning double and one with a single in the third. Both were scored by Bob Rodgers, who had two singles and a double in four at-bats.

Tonight, in the second game of their series, the Orioles will start Milt Pappas (3-2) against Ken McBride (1-4). McBride has lost eight in a row.

Phils Open One-Game Lead With 5-1 Win Over Houston

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia broke a 1-1 tie on Ruben Amaro's sacrifice bunt in the seventh inning and went on to a 5-1 victory over Houston Saturday night as Chris Short hurled a six-hitter.

Tony Gonzales opened the seventh with a walk, went to third on a single by Clay Dalrymple and came home on Amaro's bunt to first baseman Dave Roberts.

Dalrymple's hit went into short right field, and the Colts argued that Bob Lillis' throw to pitcher Don Nottebart at first caught Dalrymple. During the argument Bob Bruce was ejected from the Houston bench.

The Phillies erupted for three runs in the eighth. Richie Allen singled and scored Johnny Callison's triple. Callison continued home on Roberts' wild relay throw to third. Wes Covington then smashed his sixth homer.

Short won his third game in five decisions. The Colts scored in the second on Walt Bond's Bob Aspromonte's double and John Bateman's sacrifice fly.

The defeat was Don Nottebart's seventh without a victory.

Broglio Back in Form As Cards Bounce Reds

By MIKE RECHT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ken Boyer slammed a home run and a triple, driving in three runs, as the St. Louis Cardinals clobbered the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 Saturday.

Dick Groat collected three hits, including a single preceding Boyer's first-inning homer, and a double and triple that opened scoring innings.

Ernie Broglio blanked the Reds after Gordy Coleman's fourth homer in the second inning. The Cardinals right-hander, now 3-4, gave up seven hits. It was his first victory this month in six starts.

Curt Flood singled home the third St. Louis run in the fifth, and the Cardinals wrapped up the contest with three runs against loser Sammy Ellis in the sixth.

Groat began the sixth with a double and Boyer followed with his triple. Tim McCarver singled in Boyer and later scored on Broglio's ground out after Carl Warwick doubled.

Cubs Sweep Twin Bill From Braves

CHICAGO (AP) — Sterling Slaughter, with relief help from Lindy McDaniel, pitched a one-hitter — Ed Bailey's two-out single in the fourth inning—and scored the deciding run as the Chicago Cubs stopped Milwaukee 2-0 for a sweep of their doubleheader Saturday. The Cubs won the opener 4-2.

Slaughter, 22-year-old right-hander making his first major league start, was replaced by McDaniel with none out in the eighth after he issued his fifth walk to Lee Maye and threw two balls to Joe Torre.

McDaniel struck out Torre, and the Cubs got a double play when Maye was nailed trying to steal second. Ty Cline then flied out.

Slaughter, who earned his first decision, scored in the third after opening the inning with a walk. He was sacrificed to second and, with two out scored on Ron Santo's single, his first hit in 18 times at bat.

The Braves' Tony Cloninger now 3-5, held the Cubs to three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Bob Buhl nailed his fifth victory against two losses in the first game. Among the six hits he yielded was a two-run homer in the fourth by Aaron, his fifth.

Billy Williams singled in the first Cub run in the third, and Lou Brock doubled home a pair in the fourth. Ernie Banks slammed his fifth homer in the seventh.

Third Leg Saturday

Dancer Can Join Triple-Crown Club

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, can join one of horse racing's most exclusive clubs Saturday by capturing the 96th running of the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct.

In the lon ghistory of the three races comprising the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds, only eight thoroughbreds have captured all three events. The last was Citation in 1948. The others were Assault, 1946; Count Fleet, 1943; Whirlaway, 1941; War Admiral, 1937; Omaha, 1935; Gallant Fox, 1930 and Sir Barton, 1919.

Not only has the coveted honor proved elusive but just two colts since 1948 have had a shot at the trophy when the 1½ mile of the Belmont rolled around. Tim Tam won both the Kentucky Derby and Preakness in 1958 but was beaten six lengths by the Irish-bred Cavan in the Belmont.

Carry Back, whose thrilling stretch drives carried him to victory in the Derby and Preakness in 1961, ran one of his poorest races in the Belmont. He wound up seventh in a nine-horse field as Sherluck won for the biggest payoff in the history of the stakes named for August Belmont, who played a prominent role in the early days of horse racing in this country. Sherluck returned $132.10 for $2.

Northern Dancer, owned and bred by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, was the first Canadian-bred colt to win the Derby and Preakness. He can gain the same distinction by taking the Belmont, longest of the three races.

This little, quick son of Nearctic-Natalma is certain to be the choice over a small field. He was the second choice in the Derby and beat favored Hill Rise by a neck after a sizzling 24-second final quarter to complete a Derby record of two minutes flat for the 1¼ miles.

Hill Rise, from George A. Pope Jr.'s El Peco Ranch of California, again was made the favorite in the 1 3-16 miles of the Preakness. But this time he had to settle for third as the dazzling Dancer won by 2¼ lengths with The Scoundrel in the runner-up spot.

Hill Rise will be back with his long, ground-eating strides to challenge the pride of the Northland. The Scoundrel, sold a few days ago by Rex Ellsworth to Kjell Qvale of San Francisco for $500,000, was headed back for another session with the champ. But he turned up with an injured left front leg Wednesday while preparing for the Jersey Derby and is expected to be out of competition for some time.

This will leave the Dancer's other rivals to come from a group that includes Paul Mellon's Quadrangle and Louis E. Wolfson's Roman Brother, both badly beaten in the Derby and Preakness; George D. Widener's Brave Lad, R. N. Webster's National, W. H. Perry's Knightly Manner, and Herbert Allen's Determined Man.

Willie Shoemaker, who chose to leave Northern Dancer to ride Hill Rise, and Bill Hartack again will be astride the two favorites. Hartack got the mount on the Dancer when Shoe shifted mounts prior to the Derby.

The race will be televised nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System from 3:30-4 p.m. EST and on CBS radio from 3:40-4 p.m. The Canadian Broadcasting Company will telecast the running over 50 Canadian stations.

Baggot Resigns At Greeley

Dale Tompson, 38, a math teacher and Baggot's assistant for 11 years, will take over as head cage mentor next season.

Baggot's basketball teams have won five state championships and 11 Northern Conference titles. They have held a berth in the state tournament 16 times. His overall record was 328 wins, 110 losses for an average of .749.

He will continue with Greeley Central as a fulltime counselor and also will assist principals of District 6 schools with their athletic programs.

Tompson has also been an assistant football and baseball coach. He is a Colorado State College graduate.

Villanova Again Wins Crown in IC4A Meet

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP — Durable Vic Zwolak scored a difficult double, winning the three-mile run and the 3,000-meter steeplechase Saturday while leading Villanova to its fifth straight IC4A track and field championship.

Zwolak, a 25-year-old ex-Marrine and the Wildcat captain, won the three-mile in a meet record 13 minutes, 53 seconds, then came back less than 40 minutes later and took the testing steeplechase in 9:25.7.

It was the steeplechase, in which the Wildcats finished first second and fifth, that put Villanova out of reach of threatening Harvard.

Villanova finished with 45 points, Harvard with 26½. Other leaders in the field of 51 teams competing in bright sunlight in this 88th edition of the nation's oldest track fixture were Morgan State 20, Penn State 16, Yale 16, Manhattan 15, Penn 14 and Colgate 13.

Rolando Crux, also of Villanova soared to 16 feet, 3½ inches in a successful defense of his pole vault title. It was a meet record, bettering his 15-7¾ of a year ago and an upset of LaSalle's John Uelses, who cleared 16-¾.

The only other meet record set was the 51-4¾ triple jump by Harvard's Christian Ohiri in Friday's qualifying round. The distance stood up as the winning jump.

Earl Horner picked up some of the slack left in the Villanova point production by Noel Carroll's sub - par performance in the half mile and added nine points with a winning :20.9 in the 220 and second in the 100 at :09.8, beaten in a photo finish by Colgate's Sam Amuksun in 9.7.

Carroll, who has gone under 1:47 in a relay this spring, has been bothered by a throat infection for a week and obviously was not at his best.

The big Irishman was second to Tom Farrell of St. John's in 1:49.5. Carroll made a big try on the final turn but was about a yard back in 1:49.6.

Gary Gubner of NYU, still bothered by a long session of arm trouble, failed in his quest of a third successive double in the discus and shot. The 270-pounder won the shot at 59-5½, -but was second in the discus to a 169-10 toss by Harvard's John Bakkensen.

John Bethea of Morgan State won the 120-high hurdles in :14.3 and the Morgan State relay team won its second straight mile relay in 3:10.3. John Hartnett of Princeton took the high jump at 6-6.

Wendell Mottley of Yale suffered a leg cramp just before the end of the 440-yard run but plunged head-first across the finish line in a winning 47 seconds flat.

Pascual Captures Seventh As Twins Roll Past Bosox

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Camilo Pascual became the first American League pitcher to win seven games today as the Minnesota Twins jumped on Boston's Dave Morehead for a five-run, sixth inning and a 7-3 victory.

The Twins' rally included Bernie Allen's two-run homer. A poor throw by first baseman Dick Stuart allowed Zoilo Versalles to slide home with the tie-breaking run to ignite the outburst.

Pascual settled down after Boston's two-run fourth and curve-balled the Red Sox into submission, although he ran into some difficulty in the ninth. He gave up a home run to Stuart and two singles in that inning.

Roman Brother Pulls Upset In Race at Garden State

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP)—Harbor View Farm's Roman Brother, ridden by Chilean jockey champion Fernando Alvarez, raced to the front with a quarter of a mile to go, and romped home a three length winner over the favored Mr. Brick in the $125,300 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park Memorial Day.

Ironically, trainer Burley Parke decided late last week to enter Roman Brother in this fifth modern renewal of the Jersey only after the Scoundrel was injured and withdrawn.

The son of Third Brother-Roman Zephr, second at Garden State last year in both the Garden State Trial and the rich Garden State Stakes for 2-year-olds, earned $81,445 for owner Louis Wolfson of Miami.

Moving from seventh to fourth after half a mile of 1⅛-miles race for 3-year - olds, Roman Brother made his big move as the field of eight was half way around the far turn. He flew past Bob Ussery aboard Mr. Brick and widened his margin through the stretch.

A 3-1 second choice of the 43,341 fans on a hot afternoon. Roman Brother returned $8.60, $3.40 and $2.60. Mr. Brick, who recently won the Withers, proved once again that he is a greater sprinter, but can't win at more than one mile. He paid $2.60 and $2.20, while the third horse, another three lengths back, Reginald N. Webster's National, returned $4.60 for show.

There was no immediate decision from Parke on whether he planned to enter Roman Brother in the Belmont Stakes in New York next Saturday.

"Let's wait a few days," he said. "There is a good chance we'll go, but I want to think it over. Off the race he ran today, he certainly deserves the chance."

Mr. Brick as expected came out of the gate on top, and either led or pressed the pace through the first half mile. Determined Man, with John Sellers aboard, and Chieftain, ridden by Phil Grimm raced with the 6-5 favorite.

Roman Brother, seventh out of the gate and still trailing after a half a mile, started his move as the field reached the far turn as Ussery, seeking his third win in as many Jersey Derby rides, regained the lead.

The 27-year-old Alvarez, he started riding in this country last year, whipped Roman Brother into the lead midway through the turn and it was all over.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia, steadily edging up on traditional American track and field supremacy, will send its strongest ever team to the Tokyo Olympics.

The squad, only now going into intensive training for the Games in October, will be powerful in the distances and walks, as always, and will spring some surprises in the shorter races and the weight events.

The women will be world beaters again.

Gabril Korobkov, the senior Soviet Union track coach, told Tass in an interview he expects the team to be the best in Russian history Korobkov would not predict the number of gold medals the Soviet men and women hope to win in Tokyo, but he obviously hopes for more than the 11 golds won at Rome in 1960.

Korobkov's optimism is based on the first major competition of the year. The performances, unusually good for this early in the season, indicate that Soviet training methods are producing results.

Some of the top Soviet athlates have not competed yet this year, but most are expected to see action in a big meet in Minsk this Saturday and Sunday, and the preliminary Olympic trials in Riga, June 10-11.

The 12 best in each Olympic event will be selected at Riga. The Soviet team for the match against the United States in Los Angeles in mid - July will be named after the annual Znamensky Meet in Moscow on July 4-5.

The team at Los Angeles will be the rough draft of the Olympic squad, which may be modified somewhat after the USSR championships at Kiev Aug. 26-30.

Korobkov said he expects top performances in Los Angeles in July weather, "the season of records." Korobkov said the keyed-up atmosphere of the annual U.S.-U.S.S.R. matches always has been conducive to records.

Soviet performances to date have indicated that the Russian team for Los Angeles and Tokyo will have more new faces than ever before. At least one Olympic champion, high jumper Robert Shavlakadze, now 31, is not expected to make the team.

Here's a rundown by events of Soviet performances so far this season:

Short distances: No new names. Boris Zubov, 22, a student from Moscow, and Nikolai Politiko, a 24-year-old serviceman, have the best times for 100 meters, 10.3 seconds. Zubov has a 21.0 for 200 meters this year.

Vadim Arkhipchuck, the best 400 meter man, has not competed yet. He has run 46.3. Valery Bulyshev, who has campaigned in the United States, has run 1:47.5 for 800 meters but is only starting training.

European champion Anatoly Mikhailov, 25, with a best time of 13.8, is the leading 110-meter hurdles hope.

Distances: Olympic champion Pyotr Bolotnikov, a 33-year-old teacher, has come out of semi-retirement and is training well. Yuri Tyurin, 27-year-old Moscow student and USSR 5,000-meter champion, also is rounding into top form.

The team has a number of promising newcomers including Kestus Orentas in the 5,000, and Adolfas Alexeyunas in the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

Field Events: World record holder Valery Brumel is just starting to train. He did 7-2 in his first high jump of the year.

Andrei Khmarksy and 18-year-old Valery Skvortsov have also been over seven feet, and may go to 7-3 before Tokyo.

Soviet pole vaulters, always weak, are mastering the fiber glass pole. Gennady Bliznetsov, 23, went 15-9 indoors, and Valery Demin, only 20, has been over 15 feet. Their trainer expects Blizentsov to go over 16 feet soon.

The broad jumpers have been slow to round into form, although world record holder Igor Ter-Ovanesyan approached 26 feet indoors. Vladmir Baikovsky, 19, was over 25 feet and may be a coming star.

Viktor Lipsnis, the 270-pound shot putter, has the best result in Europe to date, 63 feet, and his coaches are predicting he will be in the 65-66 foot class at Tokyo.

Viktor Aksenov, 23, has the best javelin throw in the world so far, 265 feet, and European champion Janis Lusis is coming into form.

In the hammer, Romuald Klim has the best result reported in the world this year, 224-8.

There have been no discus performances of note, but the walkers are still high among the world's best.

On the women's team, Galina Popova, veteran of the Rome Games, is still the best sprinter, although she has been pressed by 20-year-old Renata Latse. European champion Maria Itkina remains among the world's best at 400 meters, and the Soviets have a number of fine 800 meter runners, including Olympic champion Lyudmila Gurevich-Lysenko.

Tamara Press, world record holder in the shot, is being pressed by Galina Zybina, who has broken the 17 meter barrier (55-9). Tamara's sister, Irina Press, 24, has recovered from the leg injury that forced her to miss most of last season, and is aiming to win the 80-meter hurdles and the pentathlon at Tokyo.

World record holder Tatyana Sheholkanova was over 20 feet in her first broad jump competition and Taisia Chonchik cleared 5-7 in the high jump in her first three meets.

Olden Times Surprises In Metropolitan Handicap

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Olden Times came from out of the west Saturday for an upset victory in the 71st running of the $115,400 Metropolitan Handicap before a crowd of 59,202 at Aqueduct.

The 6-year-old son of Relic from Rex Ellsworth's stable, with jockey Hank Moreno hanging onto a slipping saddle, stepped the mile in 1:34 2-5 under 119 pounds and finished two lengths in front of Paul Mellon's Quadrangle, the only 3-year-old in the field reduced to 12 by the scratching of Chateaugay and Guadalcanal.

In picking up the purse of $75,010 to run his career bankroll to $487,075, Olden Times paid $21.40, $9.80 and $4.90. Quadrangle returned $6.30 and $3.80 after taking runner-up honors by a head over the fast closing favorite, Mrs. J. D. Alexander's Saidam.

Saidam, returning $2.90 to show, was a neck in front of fourth place Red Gar.

Ahoy, carrying top weight of 132 pounds and seeking to extend his winning streak to four, again failed to carry his vaunted speed for one mile. He set the early pace and then wound up last.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Bob Foss

Did you know a big league baseball player once caught his own home run? . . . How is this possible? . . . It happened to Dixie Walker one day in 1949 at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn . . . Dixie hit a homer with the ball sticking in the right field screen high above the field . . . At the end of the inning, Walker trotted out to play his position in right field, and as he neared the fence the ball started to drop out of the screen . . . Walker ran over, made the catch, and became the only man in history who ever caught his own home run!

Which do you think weighs more, a golf ball or a tennis ball? . . . We were surprised to find the answer is the tennis ball! Tennis balls weigh between 2 and 2 1/16 ounces . . . Golf balls weigh 1.6 ounces.

Did you know the great race horse Man O' war ran in 21 races in his career, and finished first 20 times! . . . The only time he failed to win was in the Sanford Stakes at Saratoga in 1919 . . . He finished second in that race . . . And the only horse to ever beat him was named, appropriately, "Upset!"

Third Leg Saturday

Dancer Can Join Triple-Crown Club

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, can join one of horse racing's most exclusive clubs Saturday by capturing the 96th running of the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct.

In the lon ghistory of the three races comprising the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds, only eight thoroughbreds have captured all three events. The last was Citation in 1948. The others were Assault, 1946; Count Fleet, 1943; Whirlaway, 1941; War Admiral, 1937; Omaha, 1935; Gallant Fox, 1930 and Sir Barton, 1919.

Not only has the coveted honor proved elusive but just two colts since 1948 have had a shot at the trophy when the 1½ miles of the Belmont rolled around. Tim Tam won both the Kentucky Derby and Preakness in 1958 but was beaten six lengths by the Irish-bred Cavan in the Belmont.

Carry Back, whose thrilling stretch drives carried him to victory in the Derby and Preakness in 1961, ran one of his poorest races in the Belmont. He wound up seventh in a nine-horse field as Sherluck won for the biggest payoff in the history of the stakes named for August Belmont, who played a prominent role in the early days of horse racing in this country. Sherluck returned $132.10 for $2.

Northern Dancer, owned and bred by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, was the first Canadian-bred colt to win the Derby and Preakness. He can gain the same distinction by taking the Belmont, longest of the three races.

This little, quick son of Nearctic-Natalma is certain to be the choice over a small field. He was the second choice in the Derby and beat favored Hill Rise by a neck after a sizzling 24-second final quarter to complete a Derby record of two minutes flat for the 1¼ miles.

Hill Rise, from George A. Pope Jr.'s El Peco Ranch of California, again was made the favorite in the 1 3-16 miles of the Preakness. But this time he had to settle for third as the dazzling Dancer won by 2¼ lengths with The Scoundrel in the runner-up spot.

Hill Rise will be back with his long, ground-eating strides to challenge the pride of the Northland. The Scoundrel, sold a few days ago by Rex Ellsworth to Kjell Qvale of San Francisco for $500,000, was headed back for another session with the champ. But he turned up with an injured left front leg Wednesday while preparing for the Jersey Derby and is expected to be out of competition for some time.

This will leave the Dancer's other rivals to come from a group that includes Paul Mellon's Quadrangle and Louis E. Wolfson's Roman Brother, both badly beaten in the Derby and Preakness; George D. Widener's Brave Lad, R. N. Webster's National, W. H. Perry's Knightly Manner, and Herbert Allen's Determined Man.

Willie Shoemaker, who chose to leave Northern Dancer to ride Hill Rise, and Bill Hartack again will be astride the two favorites. Hartack got the mount on the Dancer when Shoe shifted mounts prior to the Derby.

The race will be televised nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System from 3:30-4 p.m. EST and on CBS radio from 3:40-4 p.m. The Canadian Broadcasting Company will telecast the running over 50 Canadian stations.

Baggot's basketball teams have won five state championships and 11 Northern Conference titles. They have held a berth in the state tournament 16 times. His overall record was 328 wins, 110 losses for an average of .749.

Villanova Again Wins Crown in IC4A Meet

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP — Durable Vic Zwolak scored a difficult double, winning the three-mile run and the 3,000-meter steeplechase Saturday while leading Villanova to its fifth straight IC4A track and field championship.

Zwolak, a 25-year-old ex-Marine and the Wildcat captain, won the three-mile in a meet record 13 minutes, 53 seconds, then came back less than 40 minutes later and took the testing steeplechase in 9:25.7.

It was the steeplechase, in which the Wildcats finished first second and fifth, that put Villanova out of reach of threatening Harvard.

Villanova finished with 45 points, Harvard with 26½. Other leaders in the field of 51 teams competing in bright sunlight in this 88th edition of the nation's oldest track fixture were Morgan State 20, Penn State 16, Yale 16, Manhattan 15, Penn 14 and Colgate 13.

Rolando Crux, also of Villanova soared to 16 feet, 3½ inches in a successful defense of his pole vault title. It was a meet record, bettering his 15-7¾ of a year ago and an upset of LaSalle's John Uelses, who cleared 16-¾.

Cruz failed three times at 16-5 just brushing off the bar with his chest on his final try.

The only other meet record set was the 51-4¾ triple jump by Harvard's Christian Ohiri in Friday's qualifying round. The distance stood up as the winning jump.

Earl Horner picked up some of the slack left in the Villanova point production by Noel Carroll's sub - par performance in the half mile and added nine points with a winning :20.9 in the 220 and second in the 100 at :09.8, beaten in a photo finish by Colgate's Sam Amuksun in 9.7.

Carroll, who has gone under 1:47 in a relay this spring, has been bothered by a throat infection for a week and obviously was not at his best.

The big Irishman was second to Tom Farrell of St. John's in 1:49.5. Carroll made a big try on the final turn but was about a yard back in 1:49.6.

Gary Gubner of NYU, still bothered by a long session of arm trouble, failed in his quest of a third successive double in the discus and shot. The 270-pounder won the shot at 59-5½, but was second in the discus to a 169-10 toss by Harvard's John Bakkensen.

John Bethea of Morgan State won the 120-high hurdles in :14.3 and the Morgan State relay team won its second straight mile relay in 3:10.3. John Hartnett of Princeton took the high jump at 6-6.

Wendell Mottley of Yale suffered a leg cramp just before the end of the 440-yard run but plunged head-first across the finish line in a winning 47 seconds flat.

Pascual Captures Seventh As Twins Roll Past Bosox

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Camilo Pascual became the first American League pitcher to win seven games today as the Minnesota Twins jumped on Boston's Dave Morehead for a five-run, sixth inning and a 7-3 victory.

The Twins' rally included Bernie Allen's two-run homer. A poor throw by first baseman Dick Stuart allowed Zoilo Versalles to slide home with the tie-breaking run to ignite the outburst.

Pascual settled down after Boston's two-run fourth and curve-balled the Red Sox into submission, although he ran into some difficulty in the ninth. He gave up a home run to Stuart and two singles in that inning.

SOME THANKS

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — Truck driver Perry Dubose got into trouble through a hitchhiker and a fishbone.

He gave the hitchhiker a lift on Route 66, and when they later stopped for lunch he bought the stranger's meal.

While they were eating a fishbone lodged in DuBose's throat. He was taken to the hospital where it was removed. When he returned to resume his trip, the truck was gone and so was the stranger he had befriended.

The truck was found 20 miles away.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

FOR IT IS MAYTIME

Among the changing months of the year, May stands the sweetest and best dressed in fairest colors. The daisies peep from the fields, the wild plum, choke cherries, the golden currant are giving forth fragrance in canons along streams. The many flowering shrubs, Apple blossoms, crabs, peach and snowwhite spirea, all giving forth great beauty and fragrance. It is as if the world had just been born and everything was just bursting forth in great radiance. The many lilacs are giving forth their sweet perfume in the air and lilacs have been numerous all over our city as usual and it is a great joy. The new fresh, green leaves glistening in the sunshine and swaying in the sunshine breezes as though glad to be alive again. The landscapes have changed from sombre winter colors to gay. The breath of May-time lasts all day and evening after twilight hour, and now we like to breathe that sweetness as we stroll through the yard and parks!

There is softness in the air as though nature had been warmed by the sun and now must begin to grow. Now is the time to get out in the great outdoors and see the many miracles which nature is performing. There is a quickening in the earth's deepest gloom and soon there will be many more blossoms brightening all the surrounding landscape. From twilight to night time, the brilliant stars to night time, the brilliant stars and a golden moon is reigning and the gray dawn to the bright new day, the heart of May is beaming, bringing new surprises every day. From the wood to the mountains, hill and dale. May is reigning supreme with warmth which will soon cloth them in beauty and flowers.

May has a voice of gladness and a smile for all which we can see and hear if we ramble through the orchard with merry notes of birds among the blossoming fruit trees. The birds rejoice in May-time as much as we do and how they move to perch, to perch among the blossoms, showing their brilliant coats'. Now is the time for us to create beauty in our yards and gardens. There is a matchless power that shuts within the seed which we cannot see until its sprout grows and develops into a gorgeous blossom of some flower, fruit or vegetable. The flowery month of May does inspire us and gives us the desire for the great outdoors. For some to tramp over the mountains to find new delights, for others, with fishing rods to rivers and lakes, some to golf courses and others to canons for picnics. All to their own desires. What a wonderful transformation May brings! We seem to have suddenly transformed into another world. In spite of dryness and lack of moisture, it is surprising what wonderful growth and beautiful blossoms that have come forth. Before the summer progresses, we hope for plenty of rain.

The paths of June will be more beautiful by the work of May going on before to prepare the way. A wonderful day comes forth and the land is wreathed in beautiful sunshine.

REWARDED FOR INSIDE INFO

CHICAGO (AP) — Tax tattlers — 753 of them — received $458,688 in total rewards during 1963 for supplying the Internal Revenue Service with information that led to the recovery of $12.7 million in taxes, penalties and interest.

Commerce Clearing House says informers whose stories proved up received an average of $609, a decrease of $174 from the average paid some 665 informers in the previous year.

Claims for rewards were filed by 4,600 informants. But 3,523 of these claims were rejected because the informant could not meet Internal Revenue Service requirements to qualify for the payoff.

Ulbricht Visits Moscow; Berlin Move Is Hinted

MOSCOW (AP) — East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht has begun a 15-day visit to the Soviet Union, hinting that his hosts may make some new moves on the Berlin and German questions.

Ulbricht told a Kremlin banquet in his honor Friday night that he had come to Moscow to "discuss a number of political problems."

In reply to a toast of welcome, he paid tribute to the Soviet policy of coexistence and added:

"We live in a country from those territory two world wars were begun. It is in our country, in Germany, in the German Democratic Republic, that one must show how this policy is being applied in the most difficult spot in Europe."

Ulbricht shed no light on what new initiative may be under consideration on Germany.

Some Western observers speculated that another effort may be made to bring East and West Germany into direct negotiations. Ulbricht sent a note to West German Chancellor Ludw Erhard on Thursday saying only the two German states could solve the German problem.

The Bonn government, supported by the Western Allies, is cautious of any new move that could imply official recognition of the East German regime.

Other Westerners suggested that Premier Khrushchev may decide to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany, leaving the access routes to isolated West Berlin entirely in the hands of the East Germans.

Khrushchev has repeatedly threatened to sign such a treaty and has provoked a crisis over Berlin each time.

In recent months, the Berlin situation has been relatively quiet while the Kremlin remained preoccupied with the ideological feud with Communist China.

Few persons thought Khrushchev would try to provoke a new crisis over Berlin.

From Berlin came reports that Ulbricht would make an "important declaration" on his return. The reports also said Soviet diplomats and journalists were being kept at their posts in East Berlin during Ulbricht's visit.

Larger Role Urged for U.N. In Southeast Asia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are reported seriously considering the possibility of the United Nations undertaking a larger role in war-torn Southeast Asia than has so far been suggested.

This is ont of the lines of action expected to be discussed when American policy-makers meet in Honolulu Monday and Tuesday to work out recommendations for President Johnson.

With the Communist offensive in Laos apparently slowed down, the air of urgency over the Southeast Asian situation is eased.

The Honolulu conference will take a long-range look at the problems of trying to secure peace and stability in Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia, as well as discuss the immediate problems arising out of the Communist offensives.

Expanded military action by the United States is another of the possible courses to be considered. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in a speech a week ago that, if Communist aggression continued, the result could be "to expand the war."

Johnson announced the Honolulu meeting Thursday, saying the purpose of the cabinet-level talks would be "to review the situation in the entire area" of Southeast Asia.

Officials said the talks would be secret, and that recommendations would be reported only to the President.

Secretary Rusk, after attending Prime Minister Nehru's funeral in India, is csheduled to visit Bangkok, Thailand, and Saigon, South Viet Nam, this weekend on his way to Honolulu.

Others who will participate in the conference will be Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. envoy in South Viet Nam; Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It is also understood that Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland, director of the Bureau of International Organization Affairs and an expert on U.N. activities, also is expected to take part.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson proposed in the U.N. Security Council last week that the United Nations might help in the Southeast Asian situation in one limited respect—to patrol the 600 mile Cambodian-South Vietnamese frontier to prevent further border incidents.

Cambodia had complained of South Vietnamese military actions violating its boundary. South Viet Nam has charged that Communist guerrillas have been using Cambodia as a sanctuary.

Thursday Cambodia said it would accept U.N. "controllers" along the border but that it wanted a new Geneva conference to safeguard its neutrality.

Washington authorities are not certain what role the United Nations might play in Southeast Asia and no concrete proposals have taken shape.

One implication is that if the United States is prepared to support the use of U.N. patrols on the Cambodian-Vietnamese border, it might also favor the introduction of U.N. peace-keeping units elsewhere in the area.

While debating further U.S. military intervention in Southeast Asia administration officials have given first priority to diplomatic efforts to stop the latest upsurge of fighting and recover the territory lost in Laos to the Communist Pathet Lao.

Sailor Insists He Did Back-Flip Into Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP) — They bet him he wouldn't, but he did —a back flip off the aircraft carrier Intrepid in high seas.

Airman recruit David G. Sadinsky, 20, won the $80, but the U.S. Militttry Court of Appeals ruled Thursday he lost his argument with the Navy.

The plunge into the sea occurred May 14 a year ago while the Intrepid was cruising off Norfolk, Va.

To their surprise, Sadinsky removed his watch "so as not to attract sharks," handed his wallet and crossword puzzle book to a friend "so they won't get wet" and then walked to the edge.

At the last minute someone offered to add $5 to the pot if he would do a back flip.

A moment later Sadinsky disappeared over the side wearing a life preserver. A destroyer fished him from the ocean.

At his trial Sadinsky said he didn't jump, he just slipped. Also he argued there was nothing in the uniform code of justice that specifically said one mustn't jump from the USS Intrepid.

Sadinsky, of Duquesne, Pa., was convicted of violating the general article which forbids acts "prejudicial to the discipline and good order of the service." He pleaded guilty to three other charges of unauthorized absence, missing a ship movement and breach of restriction. He was sentenced to three months confinement and fined $55 for each of the three months.

However, a board review dismissed his conviction on the general article. But the court reversed that dismissal Thursday and returned the case to the review board with this curt remark: "Jumping into the sea from the deck of a carrier could not possibly have any result other than disruption of good order."

Tammany's DeSapio Tries Vote Comeback

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmine G. DeSapio, once the symbol of the big city political boss, will try in an election Tuesday to claw the reformers who twisted the Tammany tiger's tail three years ago.

The former Tammany Hall chief is running for the comparatively small—but significant—post of Democratic district leader in Greenwich Village.

The man who once dominated both city and state politics is opposed in the village by Edward I. Koch, a reformer backed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner and all Democratic reform elements in the city.

The balloting is expected to be close, although Wagner's support could give the edge to Koch.

"We feel we have a chance," is DeSapio's only prediction.

DeSapio has said he does not expect to seek the Tammany leadership again if he wins in the district, but skeptics believe he would find the temptation difficult to resist.

DeSapio fell from his political pinnacle in 1961 under an onslaught by reform Democrats and others who cired "bossism." The winner of the district leadership was James S. Lanigan, a reformer.

The district leaders chose Edward N. Costikyan as a compromise choice between regulars and reformers to succeed DeSapio as Manhattan leader. Costikyan still holds the post but without the power that DeSapio wielded.

Lanigan, now an aide to Ambassador Chester Bowles in India, did not seek re-election to the district leadership last year. Koch became the reform candidate and defeated DeSapio by 41 votes out of more than 9,000 cast.

DeSapio appealed the polling result on the ground that 65 votes—more than the winning margin—were invalid. The State Court of Appeals upheld him May 7 and ordered the rematch set for Tuesday.

WHAT CAMPERS WANT

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Family campers willingly forego many "comforts of home" but want some simple physical facilities at their campsites.

A University of Illinois study of 158 families revealed what they looked for in camping sites. Good clean water for drinking headed the list.

Hot showers ranked low on the list. So did electricity and flush toilets.

Harvey Schweitzer, extension rural sociologist, said nearly all families agreed that a graveled drive and pad for tent or trailer, cooking grill, picnic table and wood supply were satisfactory.

WHAT CAMPERS WANT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Spectators at the new Harris County circular stadium—the nation's largest domed structure — will be comfortable no matter what happens to their favorites on the playing field.

As described in "Steel Facts," published by American Iron and Steel Institute, the huge 642-foot-wide, clear span, steel framed building will be completely air conditioned.

As further luxury touches, 44,000 seats will be upholstered, and 6,000 low-level, electronically adjusted loudspeakers will make listening easier.

Scheduled to open in time for the 1965 baseball season, the 9.5-acre stadium will require 9,000 tons of steel in its dome and movable stands, which quickly convert it for baseball, football or boxing.

About $90 million is spent each week by U.S. consumers for canned food, the National Canners Association reports.

SOME THANKS

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — Truck driver Perry Dubose got into trouble through a hitchhiker and a fishbone.

He gave the hitchhiker a lift on Route 66, and when they later stopped for lunch he bought the stranger's meal.

While they were eating a fishbone lodged in DuBose's throat. He was taken to the hospital where it was removed. When he returned to resume his trip, the truck was gone and so was the stranger he had befriended.

The truck was found 20 miles away.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

FOR IT IS MAYTIME

Among the changing months of the year, May stands the sweetest and best dressed in fairest colors. The daisies peep from the fields, the wild plum, choke cherries, the golden currant are giving forth fragrance in canons along streams. The many flowering shrubs. Apple blossoms, crabs, peach and snowwhite spirea, all giving forth great beauty and fragrance. It is as if the world had just been born and everything was just bursting forth in great radiance. The many lilacs are giving forth their sweet perfume in the air and lilacs have been numerous all over our city as usual and it is a great joy. The new fresh, green leaves glistening in the sunshine and swaying in the sunshine breezes as though glad to be alive again. The landscapes have changed from sombre winter colors to gay. The breath of May-time lasts all day and evening after twilight hour, and now we like to breathe that sweetness as we stroll through the yard and parks.

There is softness in the air as though nature had been warmed by the sun and now must begin to grow. Now is the time to get out in the great outdoors and see the many miracles which nature is performing. There is a quickening in the earth's deepest gloom and soon there will be many more blossoms brightening all the surrounding landscape. From twilight to night time, the brilliant stars to night time, the brilliant stars and a golden moon is reigning and the gray dawn to the bright new day, the heart of May is beaming, bringing new surprises every day. From the wood to the mountains, hill and dale. May is reigning supreme with warmth which will soon cloth them in beauty and flowers.

May has a voice of gladness and a smile for all which we can see and hear if we ramble through the orchard with merry notes of birds among the blossoming fruit trees. The birds rejoice in May-time as much as we do and how they move to perch, to perch among the blossoms, showing their brilliant coats'. Now is the time for us to create beauty in our yards and gardens. There is a matchless power that shuts within the seed which we cannot see until its sprout grows and develops into a gorgeous blossom of some flower, fruit or vegetable. The flowery month of May does inspire us and gives us the desire for the great outdoors. For some to tramp over the mountains to find new delights, for others, with fishing rods to rivers and lakes, some to golf courses and others to canons for picnics. All to their own desires. What a wonderful transformation May brings! We seem to have suddenly transformed into another world. In spite of dryness and lack of moisture, it is surprising what wonderful growth and beautiful blossoms that have come forth. Before the summer progresses, we hope for plenty of rain.

The paths of June will be more beautiful by the work of May going on before to prepare the way. A wonderful day comes forth and the land is wreathed in beautiful sunshine.

REWARDED FOR INSIDE INFO

CHICAGO (AP) — Tax tattlers — 753 of them — received $458,688 in total rewards during 1963 for supplying the Internal Revenue Service with information that led to the recovery of $127 million in taxes, penalties and interest.

Commerce Clearing House says informers whose stories proved up received an average of $609, a decrease of $174 from the average paid some 665 informers in the previous year.

Claims for rewards were filed by 4,600 informants. But 3,523 of these claims were rejected because the informant could not meet Internal Revenue Service requirements to qualify for the payoff.

Ulbricht Visits Moscow; Berlin Move Is Hinted

MOSCOW (AP) — East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht has begun a 15-day visit to the Soviet Union, hinting that his hosts may make some new moves on the Berlin and German questions.

Ulbricht told a Kremlin banquet in his honor Friday night that he had come to Moscow to "discuss a number of political problems."

In reply to a toast of welcome, he paid tribute to the Soviet policy of coexistence and added:

"We live in a country from those territory two world wars were begun. It is in our country, in Germany, in the German Democratic Republic, that one must show how this policy is being applied in the most difficult spot in Europe."

Ulbricht shed no light on what new initiative may be under consideration on Germany.

Some Western observers speculated that another effort may be made to bring East and West Germany into direct negotiations. Ulbricht sent a note to West German Chancellor Ludw Erhard on Thursday saying only the two German states could solve the German problem.

The Bonn government, supported by the Western Allies, is cautious of any new move that could imply official recognition of the East German regime.

Other Westerners suggested that Premier Khrushchev may decide to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany, leaving the access routes to isolated West Berlin entirely in the hands of the East Germans.

Khrushchev has repeatedly threatened to sign such a treaty and has provoked a crisis over Berlin each time.

In recent months, the Berlin situation has been relatively quiet while the Kremlin remained preoccupied with the ideological feud with Communist China.

Few persons thought Khrushchev would try to provoke a new crisis over Berlin.

From Berlin came reports that Ulbricht would make an "important declaration" on his return. The reports also said Soviet diplomats and journalists were being kept at their posts in East Berlin during Ulbricht's visit.

Larger Role Urged for U.N. In Southeast Asia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are reported seriously considering the possibility of the United Nations undertaking a larger role in war-torn Southeast Asia than has so far been suggested.

This is ont of the lines of action expected to be discussed when American policy-makers meet in Honolulu Monday and Tuesday to work out recommendations for President Johnson.

After studying the recommendations, Johnson may make some initial decisions on the U.S. course of action.

With the Communist offensive in Laos apparently slowed down, the air of urgency over the Southeast Asian situation is eased.

The Honolulu conference will take a long-range look at the problems of trying to secure peace and stability in Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia, as well as discuss the immediate problems arising out of the Communist offensives.

Expanded military action by the United States is another of the possible courses to be considered. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in a speech a week ago that, if Communist aggression continued, the result could be "to expand the war."

Johnson announced the Honolulu meeting Thursday, saying the purpose of the cabinet-level talks would be "to review the situation in the entire area" of Southeast Asia.

Officials said the talks would be secret, and that recommendations would be reported only to the President.

Secretary Rusk, after attending Prime Minister Nehru's funeral in India, is esheduled to visit Bangkok, Thailand, and Saigon, South Viet Nam, this weekend on his way to Honolulu.

Others who will participate in the conference will be Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. envoy in South Viet Nam; Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It is also understood that Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland, director of the Bureau of International Organization Affairs and an expert on U.N. activities, also is expected to take part.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson proposed in the U.N. Security Council last week that the United Nations might help in the Southeast Asian situation in one limited respect—to patrol the 600 mile Cambodian-South Vietnamese frontier to prevent further border incidents.

Cambodia had complained of South Vietnamese military actions violating its boundary. South Viet Nam has charged that Communist guerrillas have been using Cambodia as a sanctuary.

Thursday Cambodia said it would accept U.N. "controllers" along the border but that it wanted a new Geneva conference to safeguard its neutrality.

Washington authorities are not certain what role the United Nations might play in Southeast Asia and no concrete proposals have taken shape.

One implication is that if the United States is prepared to support the use of U.N. patrols on the Cambodian-Vietnamese border, it might also favor the introduction of U.N. peace-keeping units elsewhere in the area.

While debating further U.S. military intervention in Southeast Asia administration officials have given first priority to diplomatic efforts to stop the latest upsurge of fighting and recover the territory lost in Laos to the Communist Pathet Lao.

Sailor Insists He Did Back-Flip Into Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP) — They bet him he wouldn't, but he did —a back flip off the aircraft carrier Intrepid in high seas.

Airman recruit David G. Sadinsky, 20, won the $80, but the U.S. Milittry Court of Appeals ruled Thursday he lost his argument with the Navy.

The plunge into the sea occurred May 14 a year ago while the Intrepid was cruising off Norfolk, Va.

Shipmates testified at Sadinsky's special court martial that several sailors jokingly offered him $75 to jump off the flight deck.

To their surprise, Sadinsky removed his watch "so as not to attract sharks," handed his wallet and crossword puzzle book to a friend "so they won't get wet" and then walked to the edge.

At the last minute someone offered to add $5 to the pot if he would do a back flip.

A moment later Sadinsky disappeared over the side wearing a life preserver. A destroyer fished him from the ocean.

At his trial Sadinsky said he didn't jump, he just slipped. Also he argued there was nothing in the uniform code of justice that specifically said one mustn't jump from the USS Intrepid.

Sadinsky, of Duquesne, Pa., was convicted of violating the general article which forbids acts "prejudicial to the discipline and good order of the service." He pleaded guilty to three other charges of unauthorized absence, missing a ship movement and breach of restriction. He was sentenced to three months confinement and fined $55 for each of the three months.

However, a board review dismissed his conviction on the general article. But the court reversed that dismissal Thursday and returned the case to the review board with this curt remark: "Jumping into the sea from the deck of a carrier could not possibly have any result other than disruption of good order."

Tammany's DeSapio Tries Vote Comeback

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmine G. DeSapio, once the symbol of the big city political boss, will try in an election Tuesday to claw the reformers who twisted the Tammany tiger's tail three years ago.

The former Tammany Hall chief is running for the comparatively small—but significant—post of Democratic district leader in Greenwich Village.

It could mark the first rung up the comeback ladder, because only a district leader can head Tammany, the Manhattan-wide Democratic organization.

The man who once dominated both city and state politics is opposed in the village by Edward I. Koch, a reformer backed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner and all Democratic reform elements in the city.

The balloting is expected to be close, although Wagner's support could give the edge to Koch.

"We feel we have a chance," is DeSapio's only prediction.

DeSapio has said he does not expect to seek the Tammany leadership again if he wins in the district, but skeptics believe he would find the temptation difficult to resist.

DeSapio fell from his political pinnacle in 1961 under an onslaught by reform Democrats and others who cired "bossism." The winner of the district leadership was James S. Lanigan, a reformer.

The district leaders chose Edward N. Costikyan as a compromise choice between regulars and reformers to succeed DeSapio as Manhattan leader. Costikyan still holds the post but without the power that DeSapio wielded.

Lanigan, now an aide to Ambassador Chester Bowles in India, did not seek re-election to the district leadership last year. Koch became the reform candidate and defeated DeSapio by 41 votes out of more than 9,000 cast.

DeSapio appealed the polling result on the ground that 65 votes—more than the winning margin—were invalid. The State Court of Appeals upheld him May 7 and ordered the rematch set for Tuesday.

WHAT CAMPERS WANT

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Family campers willingly forego many "comforts of home" but want some simple physical facilities at their campsites.

A University of Illinois study of 158 families revealed what they looked for in camping sites. Good clean water for drinking headed the list.

Hot showers ranked low on the list. So did electricity and flush toilets.

Harvey Schweitzer, extension rural sociologist, said nearly all families agreed that a graveled drive and pad for tent or trailer, cooking grill, picnic table and wood supply were satisfactory.

SAFE THIEF

For the second time in recent months, the seat belts have been stolen from Levinson's car.

WHAT CAMPERS WANT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Spectators at the new Harris County circular stadium—the nation's largest domed structure — will be comfortable no matter what happens to their favorites on the playing field.

As described in "Steel Facts," published by American Iron and Steel Institute, the huge 642-foot-wide, clear span, steel framed building will be completely air conditioned.

As further luxury touches, 44,000 seats will be upholstered, and 6,000 low-level, electronically adjusted loudspeakers will make listening easier.

Scheduled to open in time for the 1965 baseball season, the 9.5-acre stadium will require 9,000 tons of steel in its dome and movable stands, which quickly convert it for baseball, football or boxing.

About $90 million is spent each week by U.S. consumers for canned food, the National Canners Association reports.

HAS LATE SPEED

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Observers were amazed that Northern Dancer covered the last quarter mile in 24 seconds to win the Kentucky Derby.

The Canadian-bred colt had bettered by three ticks of the watch his effort of nine days previous when he won the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland in Lexington. Northern Dancer went the final quarter in 24-3-5.

The Blue Grass was at one mile and an eighth but jockey Bill Hartack, on instructions from trainer Horatio Luro, worked the colt full Derby distance in 2:03. In the Derby the Dancer set a record of two minutes flat.

BEFORE BOONE

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP) —At Dr. Thomas Walker State Park is a memorial to the explorer who preceded Daniel Boone into Kentucky by 20 years.

TIME TO GAS UP

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) —Anthony Sposato never knows whether folk who drive up to his filling station want gasoline or to see his antique clocks. There are 40 clocks in the station here and 100 more at his home in Purchase.

Sposato has been collecting clocks since 1939. The timepieces at the filling stations have been given him by customers who "clean their attics," Sposato said.

He has a grandfather clock he estimates was made about 1760 and what he believes may be the first battery-run clock made in this country. The clock can run a year on three cell batteries.

HOW'S THAT?

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A spelling bee sponsored by city Knights of Columbus was announced by a news release which described the "master of cerimonies."

College to Honor Miss Bramhall With Degree

Miss Edith Bramhall, who at 90 still is an active Young Democrat, will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree during commencement exercises at Colorado College Monday (6-1).

A professor emerita of political science at Colorado College, Miss Bramhall spends her time these days in college activities and serving on the executive committee of El Paso Young Democrats.

From her small white cottage, sandwiched between two fraternity houses, the lively little professor goes forth each day — to the library, to the student union, to visit friends among the teaching faculty and administration, to lectures taking place on the campus, and to faculty club activities.

Miss Bramhall now devotes much of her time to keeping her home spic and span and to writing a family history. But, for years she was one of the leading landscape painters of the Pikes Peak Region and her oils of Colorado scenes hang throughout the country. During the past couple of years arthritis has made it difficult for her to handle a paint brush and she no longer paints.

She joined the faculty at Colorado College in 1920 as an assistant professor and was promoted to associate professor and to full professor. Prior to becoming professor emerita in 1943 she was chairman of the department of political science.

After her retirement, Dr. Bramhall lived for six winters in Washington, D. C., where she attended senate and house sessions and sat in on committee hearings.

"Committee hearings are the most exciting events in Washington," she said. "That's where the work really gets done."

Prior to World War I, she went to England for five summers and attended sessions of Parliament. "English politics are exciting," she said.

However, the retired Colorado College professor has been more than an observer of the political scene, for she served on the Colorado Springs City Council from 1929 to 1935.

In 1957, former students of Miss Bramhall honored her with a dinner party on her 83rd birthday. It was attended by 30 former students coming from across the country. Among them was Colorado College President Lloyd E. Worner '42, then dean of the college.

More than 20 students sent messages of congratulations. One, from Chicago tax attorney Frank Niswander '41, said: "The impact you had on my thinking and that of all your major students has not been equalled by any other person or experience."

Miss Bramhall received her bachelor's degree at Indiana University, a master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania, and a Ph. D. at Bryn Mawr.

After a period as a teacher at the Indianapolis High School and 19 years as professor and chairman of the department of political science at Rockford College, Dr. Bramhall joined the faculty at Colorado College in 1920.

MOMENT OF COMMUNICATION

LOUISVILLE (AP) —An Indiana University student, placing a poster in a laundry for the school's traveling showboat, was questioned by a woman. The student explained that the showboat was undergoing a revival —and asked whether she was going.

"Oh, I don't go to a showboat," was the reply. "I go to a regular church."

WOMAN JAILER GETS OUT

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — After 30 years in jail, the only woman jailer in the United States is getting out.

Mrs. Esther M. Schwank says she is resigning as turnkey and matron of the Lee County Jail.

When she took the job in 1925, she had no idea it would turn into such a lengthy stay.

During the years she was praised as a good cook, kicked, cursed and even hit on the head.

She was treating a prisoner for a sore arm when he took out a hammer and struck her on the head. He locked her in his cell and fled.

But the prisoner was back in his cell within 40 minutes.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)— In the news from Washington:

BAIL CONFERENCE: The National Conference on Bail and Criminal Justice ended Friday after hearing Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy pledge to lead a fight to eliminate distinctions between poor and rich criminal defendants.

"We can see to it that America does not unjustly punish the man who is already serving a life sentence of poverty," Kennedy said.

He outlined these steps he said he would take:

1. Establishment of an experimental program to release on summonses—in lieu of arrest—persons taken into custody in federal cases, eliminating the necessity of bail, booking and an overnight wait for arraignment.

2. Expand an existing program to release without bail selected indigent defendants who appear to be good risks to show up for their trials.

3. Sponsor and partially finance regional conferences to help state and local courts set up a no-bail program.

SHEVCHENKO STATUE: The controversial statue of 19th Century Ukrainian poet Taras Shevchenko is to be lifted into place at a Washington park on Wednesday.

The 14-foot bronze statue, sponsored by anti-Communist Ukrainian-American groups, is scheduled to be unveiled June 27.

The statue has been opposed on grounds the poet was both anti-Semitic and an idol of the Communist party.

WAR DEAD: Some 1,189,000 persons have been killed in U.S. wars, the Veterans Administration recalled Friday on the eve of Memorial Day.

The most costly war was the Civil War. Union deaths totaled 364,000. Dr. Joseph Jones, surgeon general of the United Confederate Veterans, estimated Confederate deaths at more than 200,000.

Barry Lines Up Good and Bad Guys for Vote

By JACK BELL

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In this home town of the television western, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has lined up the political "good guys" and "bad guys" among Republicans for next Tuesday's presidential primary contest.

As might be expected, the "good guys" are those party leaders he says are not part of a "ganging up" operation designed to plunder California's 86 convention nominating votes for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Specifically, Goldwater named former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and Michigan Gov. George Romney in this category. They all sent him telegrams saying they would have no part of a stop-Goldwater movement.

Among the pawns of the "eastern forces" within the party he says are opposing him, Goldwater named as "bad guys" Rockefeller; Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York; Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

He aiso included in the latter group Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, Soviet Premier Khrushchev and James A. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union.

After he had ripped off this list of his enemies at a news conference on a bus rolling 65 miles an hour along one of California's freeways Thursday, an aide hurried up the aisle to whisper in the senator's ear.

Goldwater picked up his microphone to explain he had not meant to classify the GOP leaders with Khrushchev, who, Goldwater said, had ordered his U.N. representative to attack the Arizona senator. Goldwater added he wasn't intimating that Brown or the Republican leaders were Communist sympathizers or anything of the kind.

In the drama to be played out in the voting places Tuesday, Goldwater maintained he still is ahead, despite what he intimated were contributions by newsmen and pollsters toward darkening his prospects.

During the news conference the Arizona senator took time out to lecture reporters on how they ought to write their news stories and absentee editors on how they ought to headline them.

In an earlier interview, Goldwater disposed of the pollsters—who now show him running behind Rockefeller—with this observation: "If I were a pollster, now is the time I would take a trip around the world."

Goldwater's chief complaint against newsmen, as it turned out, was that they didn't add qualifying phrases to statements of his which made headlines.

He said he regarded it as a blunder that those who wrote about his statement that it was possible to defoliate Communist-infested jungles in Southeast Asia by small nuclear explosions didn't add in the same sentence that he didn't believe such tactics would ever be used.

It developed also that the senator felt some newspaper deskmen were putting "editorial" newspage headlines on opinion columns and even on reporters' factual stories.

As for the pollsters, Goldwater said he just doesn't believe their findings. He noted that one California canvass, which leapfrogged Rockefeller into the lead over him, relied on answers from 550 persons out of what he said were about 2.5 million Republican voters.

Goldwater said this didn't jibe at all with reports he had from his own precinct canvassers. It was noted, however, that his canvassers in New Hampshire had erroneously predicted his victory there.

California was different, Goldwater said. He added he had a much better organization here than in New Hampshire. He said Rockefeller had a "top level" organization, excellently manned and financed, but he himself had a "lower echelon" organization of the kind that produced votes.

As he disparaged pollsters' California findings, Goldwater said their reports made it appear things were not as bright for him as they had been a couple of weeks ago, when he was credited with leading by a comfortable margin.

He stoutly contended that he will win the Tuesday primary and go on to capture the presidential nomination. But he didn't sound as confident as he had

Science for You

PROBLEM: Your Weight in Water.

NEEDED: A Stone, a string, and a pair of water.

DO THIS: Pick up the stone by the string as in A and feel its weight. Immerse it just under the surface of the water and notice that it feels much lighter.

WHY? The weight of the stone decreases exactly in the amount represented by the weight of the water that it displaces. This is Archimedes' principle. If a block of wood is used in the place of the stone, it floats because its density is less than that of the water. A person swimming is only slightly heavier than the amount of water he displaces. Therefore, with very little effort, he can float on the surface of the water.

California Vote To Be Given Full Coverage on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC has decided to bump an entertainment show—the Telephone Hour starring Robert Goulet—for full dress coverage of California's primary returns next Tuesday night.

CBS will take over the first half of Garry Moore's hour, and if the returns are interesting enough, expand its coverage to a full hour.

As usual, the three major television networks now are in fierce news competition during this presidential election year. There is still however, a question whether the mass viewing public is as fascinated as the network news departments in the finer details of the preliminary skirmishing.

There is even a question about the viewer's overwhelming desire to watch every detail of the approaching national conventions of the two major parties. The networks are planning to provide extensive, expensive coverage of the two events. But televised conventions—to those who were watching them in 1952, 1956 and 1960—have become an accepted though occasional part of television programming.

A lot of us remember sitting up, utterly fascinated, until all hours watching the demonstrations of the delegates—frantic huddles of leaders, the tired delegates catnapping—and even enjoying the long prepared speeches.

It was all great fun. It will be interesting to see if we still react with the same enthusiasm during those long stage waits and long-winded oratory between the balloting for the candidates.

Next season may very possibly be the last for the slick comedy team of Lucille Ball and Vivian Vance.

Miss Vance, it is known, finds constant trans-continental travel between her Hollywood job and her literary agent husband, John Dodds, and their Connecticut home difficult, and would like to settle down on the East coast.

Vivian is expected to appear in 20 or more episodes of next season's "Lucy Show." The top candidate at the moment for Vivian's replacement is Ann Southern, who will appear in some of the programs.

What some of us hoped would prove to be an exclusive Ed Sullivan monopoly — importation of long-haired English rock 'n' roll singers for TV guest shows — now threatens to become an epidemic. ABC's "Hollywood Palace" will introduce "The Rolling Stones," still another shaggy-haired quintet on June 13.

WHAT IS HEARING EVALUATION

In leading clinics around the country your hearing is tested, then various aids are tried to see which is best for you. This is somewhat the method we follow. We have several different nationally known makes and all their various models. We test and determine which one is best for you. You truly buy hearing, not just a hearing aid.

Call for a home appointment or come in for an electronic hearing test and evaluation.
